Interesting Paper on Ideal Motherhood
Read by Mrs. D. E. Richards.

At the meeting of the W. C. T. U. held last Tuesday the following paper was read by Mrs. D. E. Richards, which is reproduced at the request of a large number of our readers:—

IDEAL MOTHERHOOD

The influence of the Mother in the Home is great, and therefore, every mother should strive to fill her position as worthily as possible. She is described as the Queen, who sits upon her throne, crowned and accepted, as none other can be. Her entourage is complete, her reign unrivalled and the moral issues of her empire are eternal.

Truly, her subjects are sometimes rebellious, yet she rules them with marvellous patience, winning tenderness and undying love.

Her memory is sacred while she lives and becomes a perpetual inspiration, even when the bright flowers bloom above her sleeping dust. Scotland, with her well-known reverence for Motherhood has said, that "An ounce of mother is worth more than a pound of clergy." Napoleon, also cherished a high conception of a mother's power, and believed that the mothers of the land could shape the destinies of his beloved France.

There is one vision that never fades from the soul, and that is the vision of mother and of home. John Randolph was once heard to say that only one thing saved him from atheism, and that was tender remembrance of the hour when a devout mother, kneeling by his side, took his little hand in hers, and taught him to say "Our Father, who art in Heaven."

Realizing all this, it is not natural that all mothers should have an Ideal Motherhood ever before them, and strive to reach, as near as possible, to its standard. There are so many apparently conflicting demands upon the time of the average mother, that there must be wise planning, and persistent living up to it, together with considerable independence of the opinions of our neighbors, who we would find time to attend to the inspiring, as well as the disciplining of our children.

I think a mother's duty to her little children comes first. Certainly, her duty to her home is greater than that to the community, and grown-ups in the home are able to be more independent than the child, and are less seriously affected by neglect than children.

Then as to the ideal mother. First of all, I would have her serene, able in emergencies to do three or four things at a time without becoming cross, and able to steady and help a petulant and unreasonable child, without losing her self control. It takes

NEARLY IN CONVULSIONS

With Acute Indigestion.
"Fruit-a-lives" Carol Ma.

NEWSPAPER, OMAHA, MAY 29th, 1913
"I am not a strenuous user of medicines or patent medicines, but I have taken nearly everything recommended for Indigestion and Constipation.

I have been so bad with Acute Indigestion that I was nearly in convulsions and had to be held. I have used "Fruit-a-lives" and I have not had another attack nor suffered at all with Indigestion since taking them.

"Fruit-a-lives" is the only remedy I ever used that did me any good, and I am grateful to "Fruit-a-lives" for making me as well as I am today, and everyone knows that I look in first-class health.

My husband likes "Fruit-a-lives" very much and takes them whenever he has occasion to use a remedy for Constipation."

grace to be serene, and it also takes something more, for serenity rests upon a physical, as well as a spiritual basis. It requires fresh air and sleep and wholesome meals to produce it.

Next, I would have her so affectionate, that her children might always feel certain of her love, even when weak and naughty. But this affection should never interfere with absolute justice, else the children would grow up with the idea that wrong doing is atoned for and forgiven by caresses.

3rd. I would have her a Ruler. Reverent obedience of the child to parents, is the preparation for reverent obedience of the man to God. Authority of God is not tyranny, neither is authority of a mother, when rightly used. If it is rightly used, it will be used under the feeling of tender love and affectionate interest. The children themselves will more and more come to feel that, and feeling it, to render a cheerful and willing obedience to it. We mothers should rule in love—in Christian love—but, we should rule.

4th. I would have her sympathetic, taking an interest in all her children's affairs. The mother who is never too tired or busy to bend a sympathetic ear to listen to her little one's childish griefs, is quite sure to obtain and hold her child's full confidence through childhood and young womanhood, or

ASK GOVERNMENT TO TAKE OVER C. N. R.

Petition Being Circulated For Presentation to the Ontario Legislature

London, Ont., April 6.—The Single Tax Association of Ontario has forwarded a petition and a circular letter to the members of the legislature asking the government to take over the Canadian Northern Railway. The petition points out that as the canals and highways are under the control of the government there is no reasonable excuse why the railways should not, that the Canadian Northern Railway has applied to the Dominion government for further aid, though nearly the whole cost of the road has been supplied by the people of Canada in various ways, that the company has expressed its inability to fulfil the conditions under which this assistance was granted, and that it is not in the interest of Canada that the road should be further aided with public money while it remains a private undertaking.

manhood, as the case may be. 5th. I would have her thrifty, of course, but I should be afraid of having her too fine a housekeeper. Some how excessive devotion to an immaculate home does not seem to create the best sort of atmosphere for active boys and girls. It is apt to make them think that some other child's mother is not so fussy as theirs, and therefore they can have a better time in some other place. And when children once get the idea into their heads that their mother and their home are not the best in the world, the very foundations of Society are endangered. To many injunctions, not to touch this—and not to get that onto the floor, is down right perilous. If it results in nothing more, it is quite certain to provoke a distaste for overtidiness, which generally ends in slovenliness.

Virtues carried to excess in the parents generally produce the balancing faults in the next generation, and so the average is maintained.

6th. I would have her give a portion of her time to outside interests, those interests which would be of benefit to her family as well as herself. I think she should take an interest in the school her children attend, and let them know that she is interested in their studies. She should endeavor to get a little time for good reading. As her children grow older, this time can be more easily obtained, and it is then that she really needs to read to be interested in the literature she wishes her children to read.

Then, I think every mother owes it to her home in general, to be neat in her appearance. It is a good thing for a child to be proud of its mother.

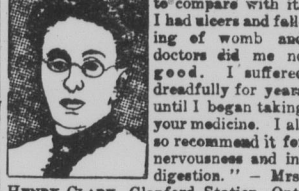

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Years, Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Canadian women are continually writing us such letters as the two following, which are heartfelt expressions of gratitude for restored health:

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of womb and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully for years until I began taking your medicine. I also recommend it for nervousness and indigestion."

—Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ont.

Chesterville, Ont.—"I heard your medicines highly praised, and a year ago I began taking them for falling of womb and ovarian trouble.

"My left side pained me all the time and just before my periods which were irregular and painful it would be worse. To sit down caused me pain and suffering and I would be so nervous sometimes that I could not bear to see any one or hear any one speak. Little specks would float before my eyes and I was always constipated.

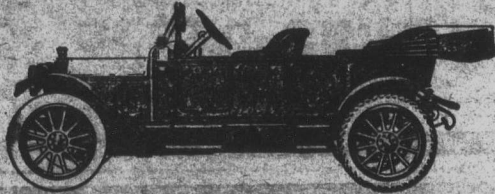

"I cannot say too much for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, for there are no medicines like them. I have taken them and I recommend them to all women. You may publish this testimonial."

—Mrs. STEPHEN J. MARTIN, Chesterville, Ontario, Canada.

There is always hope for a boy when he admires his mother, and mothers should want to be admirable in the eyes of their children, both as far as character and personal appearance is concerned. A little extra thought about our appearance is worth while, when we regard it as a means of retaining an influence over a soul, that the world is spreading so many snares for on every side.

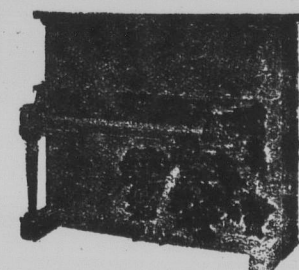

And lastly, and above all things, an ideal mother needs faith. Faith in her children, and genuine, hearty, loving trust in God. A Christian life lived daily through years, in the presence of children, is an immense power. They never can get away from the memory that Christ was their mothers' friend. There is a reality to it, which no false reasoning can persuade them to regard as an invention of the imagination.
