of his career is told in detail. 'Old Hutch' is a New England Yankee. He began his business career in the little village of North Reading, Mass., about forty-six years ago, when of his best pictures, two Rembrandts he entered the country store of Edwin and a Cuyp, for a reported price of Foster. Here he was paid $20 a year $250 000. The purchaser is Sir Ed. to look after the store, and when not so Guinness. employed to mend children's shoes in the backroom. Mr. Foster employed another lad in the store to whom he gave $30 a year. Ben did not like this distinction in salaries and rebelled against it. The other boy was paid $10 more a year because he could 'read writing hand,' and was, therefore, more valuable to his employer than Hutchinson was. Finally Ben obtained per sist in ventilation. mission from Mr. Foster to use a part

The man amount of pure cold water. The man smacked his lips and said it was a healthy drink before breakfast and one that he recommended.

'You look thin, sir?'

You give him no chance to prove his claims. If you are generous and want to see some of the best shooting every done in the Czarks you have only to acquit my client and set up a mark for him to shoot at.'

retards digestion. Your man with a tubular contracted stomach, with its puckered mucus lining and viscid contents, a normal condition in the morning before breakfast, is not suitable to receive food. A glass of water washes out the stomach, gives tone, and prepares the alimentary canal for the morning meal. "New York Mail."

back into the hack."

-As a bootblack was passing a tobacco shop he picked up a stump of a cigar from the gutter, and went into the shop and asked for a match. He was met with the reply; "We don't keep matches to give away." The boy started out, but stopped at the door, turned back, and asked the proprietor. Do you sell 'em?" He purchased a box paid his penny, and lighted the stump. paid his penny, and lighted the stump, after which he closed the box, and asked the proprietor to put it on the shelf, and said.
