Considering the many difficulties of the voyage, the man who succeeds in reaching the pole will be as great a hero as Christopher Columbus, or the most fearless explorer of the interior of the discovery of the pole will be as beneficial to the world as that of other and more accessible points, for it would seem that the only benefit derivable therefrom would be the satisfaction of knowing that man had triumphed over the severe cold of the frigid zone. The report from Dr. Nansen is uraging, inasmuch as he appears to have reached lat. 86.14, which is considerably further north than any other navigator has ever reached. This brings him within about two hundred and fifty miles from the muchwished for spot. The fact that these two explorers could have been within a few miles of each other for a long time without their being aware of each others proximity is a striking proof of the desolation of the arctic

-THE silver question still continues to ingross the attention of our cousins across the border and the first commercial ripple resulting therefrom which has reached us arrived on Monday last, when the chartered banks of the Maritime Provinces began discounting all American currency five per cent. Such a step is likely to reduce the circulation of American money in this country and probably altogether exclude it from the banks, as no one will care to suffer such a high rate of discount. Merchants, therefore, will not handle it as freely as before, so that parties handle it as freely as before, so that parties up among the leaders of her profession both as a technician and as an interpreter of classical music. Silver is all right, but like fire, it must be kept under control. Make its limit as a legal tender not to exceed ten dollars, as we do here in Canada, and it is good money; but give it free swing and people will at once want to know if the intrinsic value is there before taking it in payment of large amounts.

Candidate Bryan is evidently not afraid to discuss the silver question and seems to be sincere in his belief that the unlimited coinage of the metal at the old ratio of 16 to 1 will caus having large amounts on hand may exper-

Not so the financiers of our country, however, and the safeguard is already being cautiously applied. A meeting was addressed by Bryan in New York last week, at which he was asked to answer some very cunningly devised questions that appeared to shake the very foundations from under the silver platform. His speech in reply delivered before the gold magnates of that great city was a masterly arrangement of the arguments in favor of unlimited coinage. Sad Drowning Accident.

-Atlantic Weekly: The crop reports this year are of a most encouraging kind. None of the returns fall more than a very few points below a full crop. Hay will be more than an average, and so will oats, while the fruit crop is immense, probably the largest on record. This fact, coupled with the possibility of dear fruit in England promises well for our Nova Scotian farmers. With good fisheries, good crops, and a good year in the mines the little province "down by the sea" will enjoy a degree of prosperity which compares more than favourably with countries where wheat sells for forty, barley eleven, and oats ten cents per bushel. The young men of this country who run away with the idea that gold dollars grow on the wheat stalks of the west, should try a season there and then invest in fruit lands in their own province. They would then see where the dollars grew. Nova Scotia is all right.

—Canada is making a great record in the sporting world this year. Within a few weeks the Canadian yacht Glencarin won the international race for half-raters in competition with England, Ireland and Scotland; later the Canadian of the world over England's champion four; and more recently, at Shoeburyness, our artillery team beat the strong est British team in Derry's contest and captured also the Marquits of Londonderry's cup.

There doesn't appear to be anything very wrong with Canada and Canadians along these lines, notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Laurier is premier.

—East London is suffering terribly from an extremely defective supply of water. There has been a dry spell in England. The sources of supply for London are miserably inadequate—far inferior to the supply for Glasgow, Liverpool, and other cities. Quite likely the present distress will lead to a much needed change of system. London ought to get her supply from the Welsh lakes.

Another Fire at Weymouth.

Weymouth, Aug. 16.—Fire started shortly after nine c'clock this evening in the unco-had just finished the purchase of the property from Parker & Eakins, Yarmouth, and was a much needed change of system. London ought to get her supply from the Welsh lakes.
