At the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Phinney, 3 Holborn Terrace, Roxbury, Mass., on the evening of Oct. 5th, their only daughter, Mollie Garfield, and Mr. B. Harold Hamblin, of Hyde Park, Mass., were united in marriage.

As the couple entered the room the wedding march was artistically rendered by a relative of the bride, Miss Fannie Lamb. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. F. Newcomb, pastor of Bethany Baptist church, Boston, the bride's cousin, assisted by Rev. W. J. Hobbs. Only the immediate relatives were present. During the evening a delightful collation was served.

The bride was daintily attired in white crepe de chine over white silk and carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses. The groom is prominently known in musical circles, being director of music in the public schools of Hyde Park, and also having large classes for instruction in voice and piano. Mr. and Mrs. Hamblin were the recipients of many valuable presents.

After an extended wedding tour they will reside at 23 Dana Avenue, Hyde Park, where they will be at home, on Mondays from Oct. 19 to Nov. 9.

The Bread Supplied to the Prince of Wales.

It has been an eye opener to a good many bread makers to discover how much easier it is to get good results from Ogilvie's Flour in bread baking than from any other kind. The most successful bread makers in Canada today are the people who use none but Ogilvie's Flour; they get the same kind exactly as is supplied to the table of the Prince of Wales.

OBITUARY.

EDWARD WHELOCK PAYSON.

Readers of the Monitor will learn with regret of the passing from earthly life of Mr. Edward Wheelock Payson. Mr. Payson removed to Boston some twenty-five years ago, but still retained his property here, and every one or two years returned and spent some time looking after the place, and keeping in touch with the affairs of the town.

With advancing years the visits to the old home became less frequent, and last spring Mr. Payson's family wished him not to take the trip, as his failing sight seemed to render it unsafe. Being a man of great natural perseverance, however, he decided to come, and spent the summer here, with the understanding that Mrs. Payson and one or two of the children were coming later to accompany him home.

Unforeseen circumstances prevented the arrangement from being carried out, and as the autumn approached, Mr. Payson began to realize that his strength was failing and that he was not in his usual health. Not wishing to alarm his family he wrote nothing to them of his condition and they were anxiously awaiting his return as he had been gone longer than usual.

As the weeks went by, and Mr. Payson found his strength still failing he decided to return at once to Boston. For a short time after reaching home there was a slight improvement, then came a change for the worse, and all that prompt medical assistance and affectionate nursing could do failed to bring about a return to health, and on Tuesday morning, October 6th, Mr. Payson peacefully and peacefully passed into the world of spirits, in the eighty-fourth year of his age.

A long life worthily spent is a benediction—a priceless heritage—and those who have known Mr. Payson will recall his high moral character and unimpeachable integrity. During his long residence in Bridgetown he was an active member of Providence Methodist church, and for a number of years held the position of choir leader. He was an affectionate and devoted husband and father, and a true, cordial friend. A widow and six children, Mr. Holland Payson, of Dorchester; Mrs. Campbell Cressman, of New York; Mr. Gusto Payson, of Boston; Mrs. P. S. Ryerson, of Roxbury; Mrs. G. Pulton Sears, of Cambridge; and Mr. George Wheelock Payson, of Baltimore, survive him. The remains were interred at Mt. Auburn.

British House of Lords Wakens Up.

The British House of Lords has not had much of a reputation during late years as a debating chamber, but Mr. Chamberlain's proposition for inter-colonial preference in trade has stirred its members to the depths, and the House of Commons is in no danger of having to look to its laurels. Imperial preference is a big subject and affords easy scope for argument. In the matter of tea it would be difficult, for there could be only one opinion, viz: that MORSE'S TEAS are the best.

Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Felch entertained a number of their relatives and friends at their home in Mahone, on Monday evening, Sept. 29th, in celebrating the fifth anniversary of their marriage. Refreshments were served during the evening and a delightful time was enjoyed by all.

A SUCCESSFUL EXHIBITION SEEN AT BRIDGETOWN.

(Continued from page 2.) Section showing undoubted artistic ability. The second floor paintings went to Mrs. W. L. Archibald of Lawrence town for a small figure painting "The Root-Black," a neat and artistic bit of work. The collection displayed by Miss Emily Ervin was also a very fine one, while the exhibits of Mrs. Armstrong contained both strength and merit.

In the department of Seeds, Roots and Vegetables on the second floor the usual display of giant pumpkins was to be seen, the only apparent difference being in the magnitude in the size of the exhibits. Mr. Alfred Barnes of Granville furnished the most noteworthy exhibit in this department, being a giant squash which weighed over 200 pounds.

On account of the lateness of the season and the absence of stabling on the grounds the entries for the horse show did not fill as largely as it would otherwise have done. 1st Diploma for a general purpose horse was won by the animal owned by T. D. Ruggles of Bridgetown. 1st Diploma for standard brood mare with foal by her side, Felicia Spurr of Round Hill; 1st Diploma for general purpose mare with foal by her side, P. D. Phinney Granville; 1st Diploma for 3 year old filly, D. C. Langille of Kingsport.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed on the men by whose labors the exhibition has been brought to such a successful issue. On the part of most it was a case of public spirit pure and simple. Foremost among the workers besides the secretary, who has already been mentioned, were W. D. Lockett and Dr. M. E. Armstrong. The business of one and the practice of the other for years, almost for weeks, were left to take care of themselves, while they pursued the details of the arrangement that gave Bridgetown such a creditable exhibition. Other members of the committee were also busy in their departments. Messrs. S. Porter, A. Charlton and Herman Young proved themselves indefatigable workers in the decorating force. The work of the transportation committee gave the utmost satisfaction, showing the thought and attention bestowed on it. Although it would be difficult to find an affair of this nature in which everything was so well planned and executed. In its unqualified success the workers must find their reward.

Sudden Death of Charles John MacDonald, Post Office Inspector for Nova Scotia.

The sudden death, Monday of Charles John MacDonald, post-office inspector and retired lieutenant-colonel of the 66th P. L. F., Halifax, came as a great and painful surprise. No announcement of illness had been made and the intelligence of his death was quite unexpected. The deceased had been to Yarmouth on a tour of inspection and returned Thursday to the above city. He complained of feeling unwell and his illness was soon decided to be appendicitis. Physicians were consulted, but his condition did not excite any serious concern. Monday a tumor for the worst suddenly came and the result of that marriage, which was the news of Mr. MacDonald's demise soon spread and many thought that a mistake had been made and that the report had arisen from the death of Hugh Blackadder, son of the postmaster, but confirmation of the sad news soon came, and the expressions of regret were general. The deceased was liked by all classes. He had a most obliging and genial disposition, and was widely known. His position as post-office inspector made it necessary for him to visit every village and town in the province. He was widely known in Masonic circles, having held the position of Grand Master.

The deceased was a son of the late Robert MacDonald. He was born in Halifax 62 years ago. His first wife was Miss Mary Evans, daughter of William Evans. One daughter was the result of that marriage, who married Andrew Bayne, of Halifax, son of the late Thomas Bayne. His second wife was Miss McLean, by whom he had two daughters, who, with their mother, survive.

The deceased was born in 1841, and was appointed post-office inspector in 1879, and he held that position up to the time of his death. He served as alderman in Halifax for three years. He was admitted to the bar of Nova Scotia in 1872. In 1878 he was elected a member of the local legislature with the late John Pugh and W. D. Harrington, now city collector. The following year he retired from legislative duties to accept the position of post-office inspector, which he filled most acceptably from the day of his appointment.
