HISTORY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF IRELAND. BY THE REV. JAMES SEATON REID, D. D., LATE PROFESSOR OF ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY, IN THE UNIVERSITY OF GLASGOW.—IN THREE VOLS.

THE above work is one which cost its distinguished author a life-time's labour, and his life besides. During his Professorship in the Royal College at Belfast, he had issued the first volume, and prepared part of the second. After his translation to the University of Glasgow, he completed the second volume, and was engaged in the third when he died.

The Rev. Dr. Killen, of Assembly College, has completed the third volume, and the following extract from a circular issued by that gentleman, will furnish an idea of its contents:—

"The third volume embraces the history of the Irish Presbyterian Church from the Revolution to the year 1840. It will, consequently, treat of the persecution of Irish Presbyterians prior to the accession of George I.; of the Subscription Controversy, which issued in the separation of the Presbytery of Antrim from the Synod of Ulster; of the origin and progress of the secession in Ireland; of the several grants of Royal Bounty from the time of William III. to the present reign; of the African controversy; and of the various steps which led to the union between the Synod of Ulster and the Secession Synod.

As the first volume of this History had been long out of print, Dr. Reid had made arrangements for the publication of a new edition. He had, accordingly, carefully reviewed the whole, and the revised copy, which he left ready for the press, contains a considerable amount of new and valuable matter. His executors propose to publish it contemporaneously with the third volume. But, under the existing circumstances of his family, they do not feel themselves warranted in adventuring upon so extensive an undertaking without endeavouring to ascertain how far they may calculate upon public encouragement."

A uniform edition of three volumes is now published—the proceeds, after expenses, being the property of the widow and orphan family of the late venerable and talented author.

The price of the work will be about Six Dollars a copy.

Applications may be made to, and information obtained, from THOMAS MACLEAR, Publisher, or the Rev. ROBERT IRVINE, Toronto.
