D. L. Moody.*

MR. Moody and his evangelistic work are too well known to call for any lengthy article. His work, however, whether it be evangelistic or otherwise, is at all times a matter of interest to Christians the world over. Whatever he enters into is of such a practically useful character, and is carried through with so much ability, and yet with so much common sense, that success in the highest sense almost always attends his efforts. His latest work, that of a summer school for young men from the college Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and Canada, at Mount Hermon, for the study of the Bible, is as practically useful a work as any he ever entered into, and apparently quite as successful as his other labour.

The idea of having a number of students from the various College Young Men's Christian Associations to study the Bible was devised during the summer of
