

orations of the evening. he considered them all good and about equal as to material, and wished he did not have to say more; but with regard to both material and ease of delivery, he awarded the victory to Mr. G. R. Welch, '00. Among the other speakers he especially complimented Mr. Watson on his clear incisive method of speaking. Mr. Arkell's address was also especially worthy of mention and won much applause from the audience. After a vote of thanks had been given to the judge, the meeting came to a close by singing "Thy praises, McMaster."

FYFE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.—It was with expectant hearts and attentive minds that a large number of the McMaster students crowded the chapel to listen to Rev. A. L. Geggie, of Parkdale Presbyterian church, at the morning session of the February meeting of the Fyfe Missionary Society.

Mr. Geggie handled his subject, "The Young Man in Relation to the Present Age," in a manner calculated to call forth a quick and fervent response of true and noble aspiration. In introducing his subject he gave a very interesting account of the events which led up to and culminated in the Students' Volunteer Movement. Mr. Geggie was himself closely connected with these events which took place in Edinburgh University while he was a student there. Continuing, he said the need of the day is, 1st, men of conviction; 2nd, men of courage to follow up conviction; 3rd, men of self-control. This last we can learn only by putting ourselves under the control of a greater.

In the afternoon session, Rev. J. B. Warnicker, of Beverley Street Baptist church, gave a very helpful address upon Paul's success. The key-note of his address was "Christ in me" as the secret of every Christian success.

Several important events combined to make this meeting one of the best held during the year. The very marked deepening spiritual life which has been at work among our students during the past few months; the class prayer-meetings held in the different years at the January meetings; the services conducted by John R. Mott, in our city, during the first week of February, all contributed to this end.

MOULTON is haunted! By whom, we cannot say. It may be the spirits of those ancients who have trod the stairs (hence their creaks), slammed the doors, and faithfully paid their respects to the dining room; or it may be the ghosts of former members of the omnipotent faculty, who come to disturb our repose; or it may be—but why continue? The fact remains unaltered, Moulton is haunted. On
