

Faced with unsustainable troop commitments not only in Bosnia and Kosovo, but around the world, the government, with the full backing of NATO, decided last spring to consolidate its Balkan peacekeeping forces in SFOR. We are proud that a Canadian officer, Major General Hillier, is serving as commander of SFOR's Multi-National Division Southwest, with not only Canadian but also Czech, Dutch and British troops under his command, and with a Canadian foreign service officer, Drew McVey, serving as his Political Advisor.
