

Peter H. Smith

Professor of Political Science, Adjunct Professor of History, Adjunct Professor at the Graduate School of International Relations and Pacific Studies, Director of the Center for Iberian and Latin American Studies, and Simon Bolivar Professor of Latin American Studies. He specializes in comparative politics, Latin American politics, and U.S.-Latin American relations. His major publications include Politics and Beef in Argentina: Patterns of Conflict and Change (1969), Argentina and the Failure of Democracy: Conflict among Political Elites, 1904-1955 (1974), and Labyrinths of Power: Political Recruitment in Twentieth-Century Mexico (1979). He is co-author of Modern Latin America (1984), now in its third edition (1992) and a selection of the History Book Club. He is also the editor of Drug Policy in the Americas (1992), an interdisciplinary evaluation of current and alternative policies toward illicit drugs within the Western Hemisphere, and editor of The Challenge of Integration: Europe and the Americas (1993), a multi-faceted assessment of regional integration initiatives in the Americas in light of the historical experience of the European Community. Dr. Smith has served as president of the Latin American Studies Association and has been a consultant to the Ford Foundation (1984-89, 1991) and other institutions. He has also served as co-director of the Bilateral Commission on the Future of United States-Mexican Relations and of the Inter-American Commission on Drug Policy, blue-ribbon panels that issued practical policy recommendations for the benefit of governments, media, and interested citizens throughout the Americas. Ph.D. Columbia University, 1966. (phsmith@ucsd.edu)

Peter F. Cowhey

Peter F. Cowhey was named IGCC Director in 1999. Cowhey holds a joint appointment as Professor in the Department of Political Science and at the Graduate School of International Relations and Pacific Studies. His major fields of research are international political economy, comparative foreign policy, and international relations theory. In 1994 Dr. Cowhey took leave from UC San Diego to join the Federal Communications Commission. In 1997 he became the Chief of the International Bureau of the FCC where he was in charge of all policy and licensing for international telecommunications services, including all satellite issues and licensing for the FCC. Prior to becoming Bureau Chief he was the Commission's Senior Counselor for International Economic and Competition Policy. His current research includes the political determinants of foreign policy, the reorganization of the global communications and information industries, and the future of foreign trade and investment rules in the Pacific Rim. His extensive research and writings on international telecommunications markets and regulation have been supported by such research institutes as the World Bank, the Council on Foreign Relations, the American Enterprise Institute, the Brookings Institution, the Markle Foundation, and the Twentieth Century Fund. His books include: The Problems of Plenty: Energy Policy and International Politics; When Countries Talk: International Trade in Telecommunications Services (with J. Aronson); Managing the World Economy: The Consequences of Corporate Alliances (with J. Aronson); and Structure and Policy in Japan and United States (co-edited with Mathew McCubbins).