

amendment. The rate would be within the confines set in the bill.

Some hon. Members: Question.

The Acting Chairman (Mr. Richard): Is the committee ready for the question?

Amendment (Mr. Korchinski) negatived: Yeas, 56; nays, 78.

The Acting Chairman (Mr. Richard): I declare the amendment lost.

Mr. Lundrigan: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman. I am reasonably certain that the hon. member for York North came in after the vote was called.

Some hon. Members: Oh, oh.

The Acting Chairman (Mr. Richard): I remind hon. members that no one is to come into the chamber after the question has been put. I am not aware that anybody broke the rules but I thank the hon. member for bringing this matter to my attention.

Some hon. Members: Hear, hear.

Mr. Horner: On a point of order, may I ask whether the President of the Privy Council would ask Mr. Speaker and the house for unanimous consent to sit for another half hour, so that this legislation may be passed. Tomorrow estimates are to be called and we want to pass this legislation. Since we have nearly finished with the contentious clause concerning interest rates, I am sure that the other four short clause could be disposed of hastily.

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale): The hon. member took the words from my mouth. I think the proper procedure would be to rise, report progress and seek consent to continue sitting.

Mr. Monteith: Do not see the clock.

The Acting Speaker (Mr. Richard): Order, please. The time being ten o'clock it is my duty to rise, report progress and request leave to sit again at the next sitting of the house.

Mr. McIlraith: Or later this day.

Progress reported.

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale): In the light of the remarks exchanged across the floor so recently, I wonder whether the house will agree to continue until 10.30 for the purpose of completing this legislation.

Mr. Baldwin: Perhaps some thought might be given by the house to continuing, not for half an hour but for an hour, with an order made that there then be put all questions necessary to complete this legislation, in all stages. The house might be prepared to do that.

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale): I would be most agreeable to having an order made to that effect.

Mr. Speaker: Hon. members have heard the proposal of the hon. member for Peace River. Is it so ordered?

Some hon. Members: Agreed.

Mr. Gilbert Rondeau (Shefford): I thought I would have the opportunity, before 10 o'clock, to make representations and express certain points of view on the bill. Consequently, I should like to call it 10 o'clock.

BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

Mr. Baldwin: Before he goes, could the leader of the house give us some idea of the business for tomorrow? I know he did indicate it earlier, but in view of what has happened tonight perhaps he has had some change of mind.

Mr. Macdonald (Rosedale): The business is as indicated earlier.

PROCEEDINGS ON ADJOURNMENT MOTION

A motion to adjourn the house under provisional standing order 39A deemed to have been moved.

AGRICULTURE—BIOLOGICAL EFFECTS ON CHICKENS OF MICROWAVE TOWER RADIATION

Mr. Ed Schreyer (Selkirk): The adjournment motion gives me a good opportunity to bring to the attention of the house and of the appropriate minister a subject matter which is quite serious in its implications. I know that publicity has recently gone out to the effect that I intend to raise the subject of microwave radiation energy and its possible biological effect on chickens. In fact, what is involved goes far beyond that. What is involved is an incomplete understanding on our part and on the part of our scientific
