

subjects who are secretly deceived, crushed, and God only knows how cruelly oppressed, by protected and decorated injustice.

It may also be properly viewed as a warning or check to the very few who have selfishly used power and wealth they have been permitted to inherit or acquire, for their own or their friends and protected benefits alone, despising and trampling on the claims of others and neglecting the duties which belong to station and opulence.

Inherited domination over fellow-men involves vast responsibilities, and when joined to unequal splendour and a further heartless search for power or wealth, the finger of the Almighty, time and again appears to be stretched forth to check the arrogance which may have swollen into inordinate presumption and in which there can be discerned no fear of God, or loyal honour for the throne and its just surroundings or charitable thought for the millions so far beneath.

The British North American Fisheries have been virtually lost to our country in such a further search for power and wealth, with utter disregard for Christianity and human brotherhood.

"Fire Bricks and Clay," as substitutes for "Fish," are a mere shadow of the grosser substance by which article XXX. of the Treaty of Washington was won for the Hudson Bay Company during the negotiations for the Fishery Clauses of that Treaty.

It is horrible to think that by a process I have discovered the number 68,093, which forms the basis of the Exports of Fish only from the United States to the Dominion of Canada for the years 1872, 1873, 1874, 1875, 1876, should be found in the figures used at Washington in 1871—as testified by the late Sir A. J. Smith—by Sir Stafford Northcote and Sir J. A. Macdonald, with their joint attestation: Qui facit per alium facit per se. (1)

Neither Lord Salisbury nor Sir Stafford H. Northcote would look at the Tables of fraudulently altered Dominion Fish Catch for the years 1869 and 1870, which were again presented in 1877.

The transformation of Prince Edward Island Exports and Imports from the United States for some years was similarly used over again in 1877; coal, lumber and salt figure in the list, while superimposed on these and other frauds there lay in 1877 the number 666, the ratio 666,303—303,666, compassed the secret invasion of the United States Bureau of Statistics. To crown all, there were added the false witness, the false oath, the money won and the honours conferred.

Reverting into originating hands in 1878, the old machinery for the old plot of 1871-73, in part revealed by Sir Francis Hincks, was revived, and a stronghold outlined and fenced, into which no conspiracy possessing a strain of honour or truth was permitted to enter.

From this stronghold they have unloaded their bonds on the Stock Markets of New York, London and Amsterdam.

This portion of the matter gathers force when it is known that Dr. Edward Young, for so many years Chief of the United States Bureau of Statistics, is a Canadian, and closely related to the family of the late Sir A. J. Smith; also that the family of Sir Stafford Northcote is connected with the family of Mr. George Stephen, the President of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, who is a cousin of the late Donald A. Smith, of Hudson Bay Company notoriety. These are matters which the pecuniary profits arising from the sustained defamation of the Christian Religion, supplies the only excuse for reluctant names here.

The Hudson Bay Company is primarily responsible for this amazing fraud. The ex-Governor of that Company, the Earl of Kimberley and Sir Stafford H. Northcote, have taken no heed of my private letter entitled "The Conspiracy of 1871," transmitted to them and Sir John Rose in February, 1882, before my second voyage to England in relation to the matter. I beg to enclose a copy of that letter, and request that it may be considered a part of this communication. The motives I have therein assigned for the triumph of the number 666 over that symbol of our faith, THE CROSS, is my warranty for this act.

The joint influence of these statesmen as manifested by inaction, silence and submission, has culminated in the guarantee by their Canadian allies of the greater part of one hundred million dollars worth of Canadian Pacific Railway Stock, based on Canadian Public Securities.

This guarantee is given by some of the very same men who initiated and countenanced the use of the ratio 666,303—303,666, and invaded with others the United States Treasury Department, defaming its records with the number 666 and the associated sacred emblems every Christian man is bound to defend to the uttermost, as mercifully delivered "for our learning." (2)

This guarantee is accepted by some of the very same men who conspired with the donors in the chain. To these communications and documents I respectfully refer, as a whole and not singly or in separated parts; and to these communications and documents as a whole, I refer for every statement herein therein made.

And I further beg of you to contrast the individual and isolated splendour created by the millions of money these men are winning through practices compared with which heathen idolatry is virtue, with the increasing bitter cry of homeless despair wrung from evicted Irish hearts, or the hopeless
