Donovan Has Several New Pitchers - How They Will Line Up.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., April 20 .- (Speal)-It doesn't look particularly bright for the opening of the International League season here tomorrow, as tonight thin is falling heavily following an afteron of hard showers. The local park tries quickly however, and a half day's in will put things in shape. Manager Donovan has put together the best team, apparently, that has ever represented rovidence, and prospects for a successful season are bright. The nitching staff looks strong with fourteen candidates to pick from, all of them of class AA calibre. Of last year's team, the men left are Bailey and Reisigl, and both are certainties. Oldham, a promising left-hander, will help Bailey, while the rest of the staff is unsettled, altho Summers, formerly of Detroit, Bentley, Mayshouse and North are probabilities.

The entire outfield of 1913 is back, and the infield, with the exception of Deal, is also on deck, which, with J. Onslow and Kocher, give practically the same team as cut such a wide swath in the International last September. Third base is the only unsettled place, and while Ensawill start the season on the hot corner, it it not settled that he will be there permanently. Neither O'Connell nor Wright, formerly of the Canadian League, will, do aitho the latter is doing very well, but lacks experience.

atho the latter is doing very well, but lacks experience.

The loss of Lafitte is not worrying anyhody here. Interest in the Grays is at fever heat, and if Manager Donovan's men show a fighting brand of baseball and get away with a victory the town will ring with their praises. Altho defeats were registered against them in the three big exhibition games with Washington and the Athletics, the team made a very ereditable showing and convinced the feats that the big chief's prospects for a place well up the ladder are very bright.

At Lawrence there was a different story to tell. They hit almost as well as in the morning game, but took desperate chances on the bases in the early innings, three runners being nipped at the plate by the narrowest margin in the first couple of innings.

Schwab pitched the nine innings, the first time any of the hurlers has gone the full route, and his performance was far and away the most impressive of the training trip. He allowed but four hits, and two of these of the scratch variety. He contributed a hit himself at a crucial moment and scored one of the runs. Schneider's work also stood out prominently.

Alex. Pearson, formerly of Jersey City, finished for the locals, but the Leafs found him easy picking. When the flare-up came in the seventh, two doubles and two singles, one error and Snell's sacrifice fly accounted for four runs.

Feeling that some word from them was due the public regarding a story recently published to the effect that five Terrapins had been considering jumping back to their old clubs, the directors of the Baltimore Federal League club made the following written statement:

"It is true that certain representatives of organized ball have been making strenuous but carefully concealed efforts to induce certain members of the Federal League club of this city to break their contracts, but the directors are glad to assure the patrons that the players are satisfied with conditions in this city. The directors have implicit confidence that the high moral standard existing among the men under contract with the Baltimore team precludes the possibility that these efforts will be successful.

"The men attached to the team appreciate the fact that they have been and will continue to be treated with consideration and fairness by the club and by the Baltimore public. It is unfortunate that rumors reflecting the further efforts which will doubtless be made in the same direction will be simply ignored by the press, as they will be surgard thirty.

JIM THORPE NOT FOR THE LEAFS

Pribune says: Reports that the Giants have released Jim Thorpe, the Olympic southpaw, to the Maple Leafs are somesouthpaw, to the Maple Leafs are somewhat premature. For that matter there is hardly any likelihood of Thorpe going to Toronto at alt. Secretary Foster of the Giants said today that the Indian has a term contract with the Giants, and McGraw has no intention of sending him to the minors. McGraw took a liking to Thorpe's work on the trip around the world and still has faith in his ability to make good in the big leagues. While Hearne has not been released yet, it is probabile he will be sent to Toronto shortly. McGraw is well stocked with pitchers and another year in the miners will do Bunny lots of good.

Among the players who have already reported to the Hamilton Club is Jack White, manager of the Berlin team last season. White will likely land one of the rootballers generally thruout the Province of Manitoba have rallied to the support of the M.F.A. and have endorsed its action in affiliating with the Dominion of Canada Football Association in an emphatic manner. At practically every meeting held in connection with the game, the prevalent opinion has been strongly in favor of organized soccer; and while a certain dubiety remained with those bodies active in other branches of sport as well, this attitude was to be expected from the outset. This dubiety has, to a certain extent, been dispeled. Doubtless the force of popular opinion will, in the end, sway the Canadian Amateur Athletic Association to make the necessary and desirable alliance on lines similar to those in operation between the United States Football Association and the United States A.A. and dispel the doubt altogether. Manitoba has gone directly against the introduction of the professional element into football, and there is little possibility of a professional soccer team ever having its origin in Winnipes. The game between Wychwood and Bristolians on Saturday at Bracondale was a poor one to watch, and the score, 0—0, about represents the value of the play. Except for a few rushes made by Bristolians in both halves there was practically no excitement. With the exception of McCall, the Wychwood forswards displayed very weak tactics, for, altho they did most of the pressing, they were seldom dangerous, the outside men being poor at swinging the ball across the goal when opportunities came their way, and the other forwards being surprisingly lacking in speed and dash when near the goal. On the other hand the Robins forwards when they brought off one of their rushes were all dash, and it was only the good work of Findlay in goal and the other lines of defence in front of him that kept them from scoring. On one occasion when the first half had gone about twenty minutes there was a dispute as to whose throw in it was. A Wychwood player took up the ball to throw it in, but the referee made him give it to a Bristolian, saying at the same time. "It is Wychwood's throw." Again'the Wychwood man took the ball, but again he was stopped by Mr. Referee, who said very firmly: "No, no, Wychwood's throw."
