Question

My wife and I have some idea of giving our nine-year-old boy a watch for Christmas-not a high-toned, expensive one, but something very mod-erate in price and yet a satisfactory timekeeper. There is not much use in spending a great amount on it, as the chances are he will "bust" it before the day is over Just about how much would we require to pay for what we want?

Yours very truly,

Answer

Toronto, Dec. 4, 1912. Dear Madam:----

If your boy is a normal boy and you searched the world over, you could not choose a Christmas Gift that would inflate his chest and add to his mental stature as much as a watch-that's sure. There are two kinds of watches. those that are good, and those that are good-for nothing. If you give a "good for nothing" he will prize it at its value and it will soon be "bust," as you ex-press it,but if you give a reasonably good one, you will find it will be cherished carefully.

The avera can lose Brass Thimbles galore; a Silver one is safe for a year or two, but a good Gold one is treasured for a life-time. Even so the average boys learns to appraise things more nearly at their value than he sometimes receives credit for. The style of watch that you should buy him will cost you. Nickel Case, $5.00; Gunmetal, $6.00, and in Sterling Silver from $7.50 to $10.00. These can be worn equally well by men who, af-ter all are only boys of larger growth. They are neat in appearance, thoroughly strong, and are really good timekeepers. A world of difference between them and the proverbial dollar watch Something better yet in Gold-filled at $15.00 and solid 14-kt. Gold at $35.00, would combine the artistic and the utilitarian. Any watch we sell, per cent. greater than 1911. of course, carries our guarantee.

DECEMBER 4 1912

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, Dec. 8 .- (Can. Press.)-Eight persons were killed and 11 injured, eight of whom will probably die, in a Pennsylvania Railroad wreck near Dresden, O., tonight.

A Cincinnati and Muskingum Valley passenger train was following a Cleveland, Akron and Columbus division passenger train on the single track between Trinway and Zanesville. The engine of the latter broke down and a trainman was sent to flag the Cincinnati and Muskingum Valley train, but the latter was too close. The engine plowed thru the rear coach and completely demolished it. The dead and injured were all in this coach, but several escaped by jumping. The eight who were fatally hurt were scalded by escaping steam.
