THREE MUSKETEERS AGAIN AT ALLEN

Famous Bainsfather Characters Seen in "The Better 'Ole."

A PLAY TO REMEMBER Bill, Bert and Alf Win Hearts of Toronto Movie Fans.

In order to meet the demands of their patrons, the Allen Theatre have presented Old Bill, Bert and Alf to remain in Toronto for another week, so that no one will be disappointed in not having seen the famous British production, "The Better 'Ole."

All that has been said of the picture during the past week has not been too much, and that the Toronto public are pleased goes without saying, for they have had a glimpse into a side of the lives of the men at the front that they have not had in other war plays. Besides, this play is a "British" production, which makes it more "our own."

The tale of "The Better 'Ole" is just a simple story. Its worth lies in its symbolism. Making it always a story for symbols to carry its thought. Odin spells victory. Arthur spells chivalry, the Hun spells barbarism, the sea heaves, the sea is eternity. And the great war has its symbol to Britons—it is Old Bill. Bill is the symbol of the old army, and for millions of others, the old army that was in being, and the new army that rose to the call. By the law of association of ideas, the old army stands for the war, as Tommy and Tommy's people know it.

He embraces the whole British army, not in his outward uncouth construction, but in what he stands for—dogged devotion to duty, unflinching humor and unfinishing valor. It is the laugh of the old army of death that wins great victories, the laugh of levity, but of pride of race—the common possession of British people and British peasant. Surely Old Bill stands for this.

The adventure of Old Bill, the adventure which becomes his romance, is only typical of thousands of incidents bred of the great war.

The wonderful cast of players supporting the three men, namely, Charles Rock as Old Bill, Arthur Cleve as Bert, and Hugh E. Wright as Alf, includes Mary Dibley as Maggie, Old Bill's wife; Hayford Hobbs as Jim, the soldier poet; Lillian Hall Davis as Lili, his sweetheart; Alfred Phillips as the spy, and Marguerite Blanche as Suzette.

On Monday, Dec. 2, Old Bill and his chums, Bert and Alf, make their bow to the Toronto cinema public for the second week at the Allen Theatre, and it goes almost without saying that the trio will again receive the very heartiest of welcomes.

The Era, a London paper, has the following to say of "The Better 'Ole": "A packed house, including the old 'Contemptibles,' gave a hearty welcome to the three men who, in 'The Better 'Ole,' which was shown at the Alhambra last Monday. Charles Rock makes an excellent Old Bill, and is ably supported by his chums, Bert and Alf. The film depends mainly upon the incidents which take place before the appointed time. He is placed under arrest for leaving the lines without permission, and put in the guard room till Vivienne, a French girl, claims him when Bill and his two pals are granted leave, and set sail for Blighty. Here Bill's wife has purchased the 'Better 'Ole,' a public house, and the film

Beautiful things are everyday things now—

Look around you. See the large number of dainty silk blouses in beautiful tints that are being worn. And the quantities of dainty underwear the stores are showing—sheerest, most beautiful things you have ever seen. It was not so a few years ago. What has caused the difference?

Certainly and surely—one big factor has been Lux. Women would not buy these things right along unless there was a gentle, sure way of washing them—without discoloring, warping or fading.

There is—it's the Lux way. Won't turn silks yellow—won't hurt chiffons—won't shrink woollens. Lux won't hurt anything that pure water itself may touch.

BRITISH LABORITES DISPLAY RED FLAG

Meeting in London Wants Labor Charter in Peace.

London, Nov. 30.—The British labor party held a big meeting at Albert Hall tonight to discuss labor questions and the league of nations. The "red flag" was displayed and revolutionary sentiments were expressed. A large proportion of the audience consisted of Russians from the east end.

The meeting was the sequel of a quarrel between laborites and the managers of the hall at a similar meeting held during Victoria week. The management cancelled the concert for tonight's meeting, which had been arranged a week ago, whereupon the Electric Workers' Union threatened to cut off the lights from the hall during the great Victoria ball on Wednesday night.

Resolutions were adopted at the meeting demanding the immediate release of all political prisoners and calling the attention of President Wilson to the "urgent need of justice" in the case of Thomas J. Mooney, the labor leader at San Francisco.

Another resolution adopted demanded the creation of a democratic league of peoples based on the abolition of conscription, the principle of self-determination of all peoples, including Ireland and other subject peoples in the British Empire, the withdrawal of the principal speakers from the workers' international and the inclusion of an international labor charter in the peace terms.

James Ramsay MacDonald, former chairman of the labor party, and Mrs. Philip Snowden, a woman suffrage advocate, were the principal speakers. It was announced at the meeting that £100,000 had been received for the establishment of a daily labor paper.
