

Bowel Troubles of Childhood

It is impossible to exaggerate the value of FRUIT-A-TIVES as a medicine for children. They contain no alcohol—no morphine or cocaine—no dangerous drugs of any kind.

Fruit-a-tives are fruit juices—concentrated and combined with the most valuable tonics and internal antiseptics known to medicine.

Fruit-a-tives are free of calomel, cascara, senna and the host of violent purgatives that simply act by irritating the bowels. Fruit-a-tives are made from fruit and tonics and are pleasant to take, and so mild in their action that they never gripe or pain.

During the summer, when children are so apt to eat improperly, motion sickness should have a box of Fruit-a-tives always handy.

At the first sign of Diarrhoea, Indigestion, Headaches, Biliousness, Peevishness, Vomiting—give Fruit-a-tives according to directions. These splendid fruit liver tablets will instantly correct faulty digestion—cleanse the bowels, regulate the stomach, soothe the nerves, and strengthen the whole system, that the little ones can quickly throw off the temporary illness.

MAY HAVE STARVED IN OCEAN CAVE

Boat and Raft of Lost Valencia and Skeletons Are Found.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 11.—A dispatch from Carmanah respecting the finding of a lifeboat and pooton from the steamer Valencia in caves with eight skeletons has been supplemented by a later message from the highhouse-keeper at Carmanah, which throws further light on the find. He does not indicate where the cave is located, or who has made the find, but his description of that situation indicates that there is a possibility that the skeletons are those of a band of fortune-seekers who remained on the Valencia and went down to certain death. His information gives rise to the possibility that the eight persons represented by the skeletons now discovered were caught in a trap, surrounded by high stone walls, and there starved to death.

The cave in which the boat and the skeletons were found is described as barred at the entrance by a large rock. The passage on either side of this rock is far too narrow to permit of the boat being taken out that way. Apparently the boat got in by being washed over the top of the obstructing rock on the crest of a great wave. Once behind the rock access to the open sea was cut off, even when the water subsided, as it was impossible to get the boat past the barrier. The prisoners were also walled in from freedom on the land side, and must there have perished for lack of food.

The boat is not damaged, except for a small hole in the forward air chamber near the gunwale. To take it out of its place will require a strong force of men. The highhouse-keeper says: "I am too short-handed here to do anything." The cave is apparently a gathering-place for debris, as the highhouse-keeper says that in order to make an attempt at identifying the skeletons it would be necessary to remove tons of rubbish which has since accumulated, and with that accomplished something might be found within the cave which would give a clue as to the identity of the unfortunate refugees who perished in the cave.

The Indians, it is reported, knew of the presence of the boat and bodies for several months, but kept it secret. In the absence of knowledge of the source of the information it is presumed that it came from the Indians. Capt. Gaudin, the local representative of the marine and fisheries department, is seeking further information respecting the matter, but so far has received none. This tends to establish the theory that the story has been brought by the Indians and the confirmation sought is unobtainable.

Capt. Gaudin's personal opinion is that the story will prove a false one. He inclines to the belief that it has originated with the Indians, but will have the matter fully investigated. Capt. Gaudin points out that it is unreasonable to suppose that a lifeboat would be dashed over a rock such as is described as barring the entrance of the cave and sustain practically no injury. This feature of the story, Capt. Gaudin thinks, throws a very strong suspicion on its reliability. He further thinks it unlikely that in the patrol of the coast which took place immediately after the wreck occurred, such a spot as described should escape notice.

THEY CALL THIS SPORT

Englishmen Protesting Against Brutal Rabbit Coursing.

London, Sept. 11.—Rabbit coursing is probably the most degrading and brutal of all forms of "sport" in this country. It is a standing disgrace that this practice, so tolerated by the authorities for one minute. At Hounslow it is the custom to spend Sunday at torturing rabbits in a large field, and last Sunday's gathering was especially notable for cruelty, owing to the excessive heat.

The correspondent of the Globe draws attention to the disgraceful proceedings, and says that about a thousand persons paid sixpence each to witness the "fun." Between 50 and 60 dogs took part, and it was a pitiable sight to see them panting, with parched tongues hanging out, many of them being subjected to kicks and blows when they became the least bit obstreperous.

The rabbits used were exceptionally small, and when the basket in which they were tightly wedged was opened it was found that three of the little animals had escaped the more brutal death designed for them by succumbing to the heat. As the result of the tropical temperature the "sport" was poor, few of the courses lasting a whole minute from the time the dogs were released.

Terrified, one rabbit doubled and ran among the crowd. In less than five minutes it had been brutally kicked almost beyond recognition, although it was quite five minutes before its little limbs had become absolutely stilled in death.

The correspondent made inquiries at the offices of that excellent institution, the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, as to whether it was not possible to put a stop to this sort of thing, which is severely condemned by all humane Englishmen.

He was informed that, in the eye of the law, rabbit coursing per se, is not cruelty. An act for the prevention of cruelty to animals does not apply "to the hunting or coursing of any animal which has not been liberated in a mutilated or injured state in order to facilitate its capture or destruction."

The society is endeavoring to promote a bill which will make rabbit coursing illegal and will render other anomalies in connection with sport generally. All lovers of animals will cordially wish them success in their efforts.

MAN OVERSLEEPS; LOSES HIS BRIDE

Fails To Be on Hand at Right Time, Arousing Her Wrath.

Washington, Pa., Sept. 11.—Because he overslept himself, George Bedding, aged 19, son of a wealthy Monongahela businessman, lost a bride and made an enemy of Edna Williams, aged 17, a society girl whom he was to marry.

The pair, on account of their youth, had been refused parental consent to their proposed union, but yesterday determined to elope. Their plans called for a trip to Youngstown, O., on an early morning train. By agreement they were, without taking any apparent notice of each other, to board a train shortly after daybreak.

Miss Williams was on hand at the station early. The train arrived, but Bedding failed to put in an appearance. Three trains left without him, and then the girl's mother, missing her from the house, and alarmed by her early absence, appeared on the scene in search of her.

As the mother was taking her daughter home Bedding came running up breathless and informed his sweetheart that his alarm clock failed to awaken him. Miss Williams, mistaking her from the house, and alarmed by her early absence, appeared on the scene in search of her.
