The Winnipeg Arrests

The arrest yesterday of Rev. Mr. Ivens and a Philippines. umber of other strike leaders on warrants chargng sedition is a startling and unexpected developnent of the industrial strife that for five weeks as kept the Manitoban capital demoralized and The arrests and the accompanying raid n the strikers' headquarters is announced by the ederal authorities as a part of a blow at Bolhevism throughout the West. # Following Canada's Pace

Tagore, the great Hindu painter and poet, has asked the British Government to relieve him of he knighthood recently conferred upon him. His action, he explains, is due to a widespread agitaion amongst his countrymen in favor of the abolition of titles. If this desire is shown to be fairly representative the Imperial Government is not ikely to refuse the request. Thus has Canada set pace that is likely to be followed in all parts of the Empire. Wherever it is shown that a majority of the people are against titles, it will be impossible for His Majesty-through his governmentto deny the wish. Australia and New Zealand are certain to line up with Canada in this matter. The people of the Antipodes have already expressed themselves as opposed to hereditary titles, and will presently ask that all honors of this nature be done away with. British democracy in the dominions and colonies is for democratic equality titles must cease.

Uncle Sam and Mexico

Rapidly there is developing a crisis along the U. S. Mexican border that may bring on the war between these two nations that many believe to be inevitable, and which seems to be this only way of ending intolerable conditions that have disgusted and exasperated the world for the last decade. Ever since the fall of Diaz, Mexican base been given over to a reign of terror, one bandit ruler after another murdering and looting, the entire industry and commerce of the land demoralized. Uncle Sam's patience has been sorely tried, but it was not until Villa's murderous raid into Texas that Washington entered actively into the Mexican situation. The massacre of Americans at Columbus forced the United States to take a hand. Pershing was sent across the border to round up and punish Villa. Then came a near-war argument between Washington and Carranza, which ended in the withdrawal of the United States to take a hand. Pershing was sent across the border to round up and punish Villa. cleaning up of the whole miserable mess. It is very clear that Carranza, like his predecessors, is incapable of ridding the country of the bandit pests. Only an outside force of great strength is capable of carrying out the task. The United States today has a great army hardened by campaign and equipped with the latest in war weapons. Never was the hour better for the cleansing of Mexico.

Villa, of course, does not imagine he can triumph over an American force, but he hopes, by some exasperating deed, to bring on the invasion that he thinks will raise him into a popular hero and "defender." That explains his march against Jaurez. He will learn presently that when the big republic sets itself to the task of regulating Mexico nothing will stop it until the job is done thoroughly. When the United States gets through safety and sanity will be restored to Mexico permanently. Nexico's leaders, legal or outlaw, had better ponder on what occurred in Cuba and the

Quebec Stands By Gouin

Quebec knows a good thing when she has it, Monday was nomination day for the provincial elections, and the result means that Sir Lomer Gouin's Liberal Government will be returned to ower next Monday with an overwhelming major-This is not surprising either to Quebec or the rest of Canada. No government of recent years federal or provincial, can show such a record of progress as Quebec. The Gouin administration has been strictly one of the people, and has been vigilant for the protection of the public rights and alert for advanced legislation along all lines. It has developed agricultural instruction, improved erously radical, but there was little in his words the roads, promoted colonization of rich mineral and farm areas, introduced laws for the protection with a revolutionary movement for the establish of the worker, founded normal and technical ng of a soviet government. It seems inconceiv-schools. Rather it subjected to the most trying of inconveniences, and sometimes injustice, by the incompetence and an agreement would remove what seems to be indifference at Ottawa, but despite these irritations, which on occasion were sufficiently bad almost to have excused radical action, they have stood firmly for law and order, backing up the ad ministration of constitutional government. The Winnipeg strike has served one good purpose in demonstrating that the soldiers will not sanction or support any social or industrial movement which approaches Bolshevism. At the recent dominion convention of the Great War Veterans Association, too, this attitude was made clear in the following declaration of principles:

> That we stand unalterably opposed to the introduction of the doctrine of Bolshevism and anarchy in this country, and we are not in accord with the underlying principles of the One Big Union, which express itself as being in full accord with the Russian Bolsheviki and the German Spartacan, and whose principles seek by "massed action" to enforce their power upon a majority of the people, and have as one of its possible results the menacing of our institution of government, and the threat of their replacement by soviet rule. We desire, and we will endeavor, to insure that

"I tell you, Herndon, I'm getting three of having an old nuisance around. As dependent as a baby, and still acting like things belonged to him." Yesterday he took a half-peck of those October peaches I'd intended to dry to those dirty Bryce children! isn't there a poorhouse or an institution of some kind we could get him into? Answer me. Herndon Copeland!"

Young Mrs. Copeland sat on the prorch of the kreat old queer-winged. "Yes," she faltered. "Godfrey insist that I go with them, but I'm too old in my home, alone and lonely, until I am hy home, alone and lonely, until I am

Myra had not been unkind to him. She had not sympathized with his vagaries, but she had treated them with tolerance; she had not troubled him in his taste for curios and antiques, and when his fortune was gone, through his mistaken kindness to a friend, she had used hers for their maintenance without overmuch upbraiding.

When Myra was gone and her property, entailed, had fallen to her nephew Herndon Copeland, there was nothing else for Allen to do but to stay with Herndon.

Herndon.
For some months he had been quite happy. Old Joanna, the housekeeper and cook, waited on him agreeably and patiently; Herndon kept him supplied with Havanas and a little pocket money He still rode across the country when he liked, he collected his curios without mental apology to anyone. he liked, he collected his curios without mental apology to anyone.

Then Herndon had married Sophia Vail. A fortnight after she came into the house she unceremoniously removed Allen's ancient candlesticks, his bits of stone, his coins and his sharks' teeth from the parlors to an old outbuilding. He almost wept when he found a treasured bit of heavy crystal from the hot springs of Arkansas taken for a prop to a chicken coop.

springs of Arkansas taken for a prop to a chicken coop.

Then the young bride sent away black Joanna and cared for the house and cooked the meals herself. Allen no longer had his hot water brought to his room, his chocolate and his bot biscuits for breakfast. Sophia declared that coffee and toast were quite sufficient for all her family, and that those who lived with her might wait on themselves, as she did.

Old Allen was troubled. The ladies of his household had always been noservants; they had always been noservants; that they were not responsible for the war because the other fellows didn't lie down and refuse to fight.

Frail, Sickly Children Improve Rapidly on Vinol

The reason we so strongly recommend Vinol for frail, sickly children is because it is a non-secret remedy which contains Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron and Manganese Peptonates and Glycerophosphates - but no oil - the very elements needed to build them up. It is delicious to the taste, and children love it.
