ECONOMICAL IN PAPER.

Superintendent of Supplies W. Kerr, for the board of education, has sent a circular letter to the various schools drawing attention to the rise in the cost of paper and urging the pupils and staff to economize. It is possible that as a result Toronto school children will write on both sides of every sheet of paper they are given, and will not in future leave a margin. He states that paper that was formerly bought about $70 a ton now costs $370, and when he framed up his estimates he had no idea that the price of paper was going to soar so high.

Parents of pupils attending Queen Victoria School on Close avenue held a meeting Monday evening regarding the safety of the school, and it was decided to ask Ald. D. MacGregor to urge upon the mayor the necessity of an immediate report from City Architect Pearse with reference to the safety of this building. It was reported recently by Inspector Rogers that the school was unsafe, but the building department of the board of education evidently did not consider the report seriously, and this opinion was supported by Harry Simpson, the architect, who visited the school. These reports do not satisfy the parents, and when they visited the school and felt the floors shake they decided to take immediate action. The patronage system has been the cause of strife among the Liberal-Conservatives of Ward Four, and as a result of certain allegations the investigation committee of the central Liberal-Conservative Association is probing the actions of certain ward presidents. The trouble arose over the appointment of two citizens of the ward to positions in the postoffice. Objection to the appointment was taken by a former president of the ward association, who, holding to the mandate that only returned men could receive the positions, apprised Sir Edward Kemp of the situation with the result that the two civilians were debarred filling the vacancies.
