The KING OF DIAMONDS

The inmates of The Grange House.

Philip walked on roses during those glorious days. He had found his mate. His life was complete. How bright the world, and how fair the future.

The only disagreeable incident marring the utter joy of existence, and that only for an instant was his encounter with Mrs. Atherton's pretty girl in Mount Street.

Greener, endowed by nature with an occasional reticence of a nobler character, read him correctly, when he said that Anson would never condescend to name the intruder in the presence of the woman he loved.

But he did ask a servant who it was with whom he had just been conversing in the entrance hall, and the girl said the gentleman was a Mr. Langdon. No, Mrs. Atherton did not know him well. He was brought to her "At Home" on a previous Wednesday by a friend.

Obviously Evelyn could not have more than a passing acquaintance with the man, or she would have recognized him herself. Her agitation that night in the park, the terror of a difficult situation, was enough to account for her failure in this respect, nor was Philip then aware that at her previous meeting with Lady Morland's son she entertained a curious suspicion, instantly dispelled by his glib manner, that Langdon was the man who sought to thrust his unwelcome attentions upon her.

Mount Street—how came Mrs. Atherton and her daughter to return to the precincts of Mayfair? That was a little secret between Philip and Lord Vanstone.

When Evelyn shyly endeavored to make good her no intimacy between a millionaire and a young lady who was embarking on a professional career—the thought so, he it recorded, this is no canon of art, he seemingly disregarded the hint, but interviewed Lord Vanstone next morning.

The conversation was stormy on one side and emphatic on the other. Philip had heard sufficient of Mrs. Atherton's history by judicious inquiry to enable him to place some unpleasant facts before her lordship.

When the facts had been thrust down the aristocratic gorge, Anson turned to pleasanter topics. He informed Lord Vanstone, who bore the title as the third son of a marquis, that his niece's future was more important than his lordship's dignity. He must cut mad for her sake, and willingly withal.

Various firms of solicitors set to work and, marvellous to relate, Lord Vanstone was able to write and inform his half sister that certain speculations in which he had invested her fortune were turning out well. A cash payment of two thousand pounds would be made to her at once, and she possessed an assured income of at least a thousand five hundred pounds per annum during the remainder of her life.

The poor lady had heard these fairy tales before; indeed, some such story of more gorgeous proportions had converted her into a waste paper.

But a lawyer, not Lord Vanstone's agent, had checked for the larger amount, and, at a subsequent interview, affirmed the statements made by her unreliable relative.

So she went back to her castle, and her castle welcomed her with open arms, the dear woman thanked Providence for the

GIVE THE CHILDREN PLENTY OF FRUIT

It Helps to Keep Them Well. In a growing, active child the cells of which the body is composed are being worn out—and replaced—very rapidly. This dead tissue must be gotten rid of somehow, and the danger is that the eliminating organs—the Bowels, Kidneys, and Skin—may not do their work well enough.

Nothing has such an invigorating effect on these organs as ripe fruit juices. Apple juice increases the action of the kidneys; other fruit juices stimulate the liver to secrete more bile and bile pigments; and regular movements of the bowels; other stir up the glands of the skin to throw off more waste matter.

The difficulty is that to get these effects a great deal of fruit must be eaten, and the excess of pulp and woody matter may upset the digestion. The better way is to give the children "Fruit-A-tives," which are tablets made of concentrated fruit juices with valuable tones, and are easy to take.

"Fruit-A-tives" have been greater in effect of the different fruit juices, helping all the eliminating organs, and if Evelyn were married to him, surely all their previous trials might be deemed fortunate.

She little dreamed that imperious Philip had ordered matters his own way, and would give her a great position, worthy of the highest in the land, and it was better for her that he should woo and win her from the ranks of her order.

It should not be imagined that he was hasty in his decision. To his mind, Evelyn and he were known to each other since they were children. It was not by the outward obscurity of Madia Crescent, but by the fact that he had known her in the past.

It was not to his thinking that his bride should come to him from the general obscurity of Madia Crescent. He would give her a great position, worthy of the highest in the land, and it was better for her that he should woo and win her from the ranks of her order.

LARGEST TOTAL FOR LUMBER CUT

That of 1907 in United States Seven Per Cent More Than in 1906—The Why of It.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Figures of the lumber cut in 1907, compiled by the Bureau of the Census and the Forest Service, showed the largest total ever reported in the United States, exceeding by over seven per cent, the cut reported for 1906, until then the record year.

This does not necessarily show a larger actual cut than in 1906, for the returns disclosed last year were more complete than ever before. The figures themselves disclose some interesting facts.

In 1907, 28,350 million board feet of lumber were produced, or over 40 billion feet of lumber. This is believed to include 83 per cent of the actual cut. In 1906, 22,286 million reported about 374 billion feet.

Since, according to these figures nearly 20 per cent more lumber was reported than the year before, while the increase in production was only a little over seven per cent, it might be inferred that the amount actually manufactured must have been greater in the earlier year. This, however, would be a too hasty inference, for it is almost wholly among mills of small individual output that the gain in the number of establishments reporting has been made.

A classification of the returns by states and regions throws additional light on the situation. Individual changes, as for example the remarkable rise of Texas from eighth to third place among the lumber-producing states, are doubtless accounted for primarily by the greater accuracy of the 1907 figures; but in the majority of cases the advances and declines can be traced to specific influences.

Before the year closed the general business depression was severely felt in the lumber industry. It was not, however, the most important cause of a where a falling off in the production of lumber was a falling off occurred. For decline in production took place only in certain regions. The south is the region of greatest activity in lumber production, and yellow pine the most important wood, forming 33 per cent of the entire cut of the country. The cut of yellow pine reported shows an increase of 13 per cent over that of 1906. In an early part of the year many of the southern mills displayed their usual vigor, and the curtailment which followed the business disturbance later, the cut in both the lake states and the northwest a smaller cut was reported than for 1906, though the cut of mills reporting increased.

In the Lake States the falling off evidenced the waning supply of white pine, which doubtless maintain its leading position for some years. In spite of the fact that at the present rate the bulk of the lumber will be gone in another decade; but in totals of production by individual states the leadership has since 1906 been held by Washington.

The figures of production show that during 1907 Washington fell off very decidedly from its position of 1906, and its sister state Oregon, is credited with a slight increase in its total. In the early part of the year the Washington output was a car shortage and at the end the combined effects of business disturbance and higher freight rates had brought the industry almost to paralysis. Oregon kept up its cut because of its larger proportion of conifers, and forcing these two states together produced more lumber than any other two states in the union.

SENT TO THE ROCKIES FOR HEALTH, RETURNED HOME TO DIE

The following should inspire every one who is discouraged on account of continued ill health to give Psychine, THE GREATEST OF TONICS, a trial before giving up hope even though physician and friends think and say your case is hopeless. Mr. Alex. McRae, of Sault Ste Marie, says: "I was failing every day and had to quit work. I lost 40 lbs. in a short time and was advised to go to the Rockies or the Coast. I tried them both with considerable expense but I got worse instead of better. All hope seemed to leave me and I decided to come home to die. I tried Psychine and since starting its use I have gained 110 to 140 pounds. I am now a well man and I cannot say too much in praise of Psychine. The strongest recommendation would be weak in view of the fact that I believe it has saved my life. It is without doubt the best remedy for run-down conditions and weak lungs. I sincerely hope that you will continue your good work of saving run-down people and consumptive from the grave."

Psychine improves the appetite and generally tones up the system. We would like every family to try it FREE (see coupon). All druggists and stores sell at 50c. and $1.

BUILDING BIG TANK FOR DIVING HORSES

F. B. Lane is Working on Star Exhibition Attraction—Exhibition Amusements.

F. B. Lane, representing J. W. Gorham, proprietor of the diving horses, King and Queen, which will be the Sunday feature act of the exhibition, has arrived in the city, and has begun work on the construction of the big tank which will be used for the dive. It will require a large force of men the balance of the week to complete the work, as the tank, being twelve feet deep and more than twenty feet square, with a seven foot runway, means the removal of quite an amount of material. However, Mr. Lane expects to have everything in readiness before the arrival of the horses, on Monday morning.

The Monday dive will not be until 5:30 p.m., thus giving plenty of time for the erection of the apparatus. Every other day during the week the horses will dive at 3 o'clock sharp, just before the big amusement hall performance.

The evening dive will take place at 9 o'clock, just after the fireworks and between the hours of the two shows in the amusement hall. The show in the big hall, consisting of the lion, Japs, and ponies, will take place at 3:30, 7:30 and 9:15 p.m. The Mrs. Tom Thumb entertainment in the small hall will be at 4:30, 7:30 and 9:15 p.m.

A prominent American manufacturer who is in the city in connection with an exhibit, which his firm is making, in referring to the diving horses, says that the exhibition association were to be congratulated upon securing the biggest drawing card in the United States. He had seen the horses dive in Norumbega Park, Boston, a few weeks ago, and the manager of the park had told him that the attraction had drawn more people to the park than was known in fifteen years history of that popular resort.
