SEES GREECE AND ROUMANIA SOON ON SIDE OF THE ALLIES

Solidarity Agreement With King Constantine—Belief That Kaiser Will Be Unable to Influence Greece Towards Slightest Action Against Allied Troops

New York, Nov. 26.—A cable to the Herald from Athens, dated yesterday says—

King Constantine has granted all the allied demands, the triumph of the cause being due to the solidarity agreement between the Hellenic ruler and Lord Kitchener.

The field marshal told the king that the allies frankly admitted the right of Greece still remaining from the burdens imposed by the Balkan wars—to remain neutral, but demanded complete safety for the allied troops on Greek soil, control of railways and other means of communication, the use of Saloniki harbor and the right to land troops, and such other parts of Greek territory considered necessary for military operations.

Greece, through her king, accepted these demands and Lord Kitchener pledged the allies, as soon as the war was ended, to restore all the occupied territory and indemnify Greece for all damage done.

Minor details still are to be settled, but I am confident, owing to Lord Kitchener's reply, that the Kaiser will be unable to influence King Constantine or the Greek army to lift a finger against the allied troops.

In consequence of this happier situation, all restrictions imposed upon Greek commerce have been removed and need not be a seventh son to predict that when the allies have landed the full complement of troops required in the Balkans, Greece, which, like Roumania, has been simply demanding guarantees which will ensure her national independence, will be found fighting on the side of freedom.

Street, with a bullet wound in the right leg, was arrested a few hours after the shooting, but denied that he had fired the shot which had taken the life of either.

According to a bartender and others, Street had quarreled with his wife in a wine room near the scene of the shooting, and within a block of Mrs. Street's home. From the wine room, according to witnesses, Street took his wife into an alley. Patrolman Barmer followed, and just as the trio were out of sight of witnesses, five shots were heard.

When several men rushed to the alley, they found the bodies of Barmer and Mrs. Street within a few feet of each other. By the side of the policeman was his revolver with two shells discharged.

On Street was found a revolver with one chamber empty, but this, he pointed out, was a precautionary measure adopted by many policemen to prevent explosion of the weapon should it fall. His revolver bore no powder marks and, according to the police, seemed not to have been fired recently.

Six Chas. Piers Davidson Makes Interesting Speech in Montreal

Montreal, Nov. 26.—A satirical resume of the Kaiser's broken appointments, a tribute to the work of the British army, and a denunciation of those who had robbed the public treasury through war contracts, were features of a stirring address delivered by Hon. Sir Charles Piers Davidson at a meeting in the Prince Edward Island hall last night under the auspices of the citizens recruiting association.

Touching upon his investigation into the sale of war material to the Canadian government, Sir Charles said that from Prince Edward Island to Victoria he had seen everywhere the readiness with which Canadians were answering the call to arms.

"I think you may be assured today that few will try to steal from the public treasury, and every man who would, deserves to be dealt with mercilessly, and so far as my own affairs, he shall be."

VICTORY FOR ITALIANS IS NOW IN SIGHT AT GORIZIA

CLOCK-LIKE OPERATIONS

City Proper Practically Abandoned by Austrian Forces—Winter Has Set in Along Mountain Section of Fighting Line in France

New York, Nov. 26.—A London cable to the Herald says—

Despatches from the Italian front state that the methodic siege operations of the Italian army against the Austrian positions on the Carnic plateau, dominating the great fortress of Gorizia, are progressing with great success. General Cadorna has given orders that as far as possible no artillery fire be directed on any part of the city. Before an attempt is made to occupy the fortress, all the dominating positions on the amphitheatrical hills which surround it must be captured.

The work is being carried out in detail and its completion is now believed to be certain. When the conquest of San Michele has been completed, it is believed the Italians will enter Gorizia. The city proper has been practically evacuated by the Austrian military forces.

Further Gains

Rome, via Paris, Nov. 26.—The capture of additional ground on the Calvario crest, northeast of Gorizia, is reported by the war office. We extended the ground occupied on the Calvario crest by storming fresh trenches. An enemy counter attack was repulsed by violent hand to hand fighting and bomb throwing. On the Carso plateau, we also made progress in the Monte San Michele area to the north between Boaschi and Peteano and to the south toward San Martino, where we took fifty-four prisoners.

APOLOGIZES TO LORD RIBblesDALE BUT EMPHASIZES POSITION

Earl of Derby Strongly Objects to Public Statements on Matters That Should Be Kept Secret

London, Nov. 26.—The Earl of Derby writes to the Times replying to the criticisms of his attack on Lord Ribblesdale, who, he charged, had used the name of Great Britain's enemies when he said that Lieut. General Sir Charles Mordaunt had reported in favor of giving up the campaign on the Gallipoli Peninsula.

"I admit that my words can be held to be an accusation that he deliberately said something of that nature to the enemy, and I unreservedly withdraw such words. I offer my apologies to Lord Ribblesdale, who has done so much for the country. I feel, however, very strongly on the subject of public statements regarding military operations. It is not the province of the public to be kept secret, and there is no doubt that statements are made in parliament by responsible people which are reported in the newspapers, would come under the ban of the censor."

ST. ANDREWS SOLDIER WRITES OF THE FIGHTING

In a letter to W. J. Rollins of St. Andrews Private Fred Williamson, writing on Oct. 19, says—

"Poor Cliff, Ritchie got his last time wounded in both legs and the back. It happened last Wednesday when we started a little rally out towards the German trenches. Only one of our companies made the attack, but were supported by our machine guns. It only lasted a couple of hours, but it was pretty hot while it did last. All the men acted great and afterwards all the men of our battalion of all ranks were congratulated by Gen. Turner on the good showing they made."

"You would not believe how men will act when under fire if you did not see it with your own eyes. Every man acted great and afterwards all the men of our battalion of all ranks were congratulated by Gen. Turner on the good showing they made."

"The German account of the little scrap admits that they had four hundred casualties and places ours at six hundred. We can guess that they did not place theirs any too high and they also made a slight mistake in ours, as we only had about one-tenth of what they say."

Thrilling Incident of War Under Sea

Kipling Recounts Experience of British Submarine Caught in Net in North Sea

New York, Nov. 26.—A cable to the New York Times from London says—

Continuing his series of "Fringes of the Fleet," in the Daily Telegraph, Rudyard Kipling tells of some exciting exploits of the British submarines. He relates one incident of how a submarine was caught by a net in the North Sea and, when she rose to cut the net, she was bombarded by a Zepplin and had to go down again.

There, by slow working and weaving and wriggling, guided only by guesses at the meaning of each scrape and grind of the net on her blind forehead," as Kipling expresses it, the submarine got clear.

The commander pondered whether to hurry home and warn other submarines summoned, believing the Zepplin was fast. He waited, and when he rose to the surface, he torpedoed one of the destroyers there, and then started for home, arriving in time to give warning.
