EVIDENCE OF PROGRESS

The view of Hon. Dr. Pugsley, Mr. D. McNicoll and Messrs. Tiffin and Brady to the city yesterday directed attention to a number of matters of interest and importance. The minister of public works stated that he would shortly return to St. John in company with President Hays of the Grand Trunk Pacific, to look over the terminal site at Courtenay Bay. Mr. Hays was himself interviewed by the Montreal Star on Wednesday. He said that with regard to the establishment of the eastern terminals of the Grand Trunk Pacific he hoped to visit St. John in the near future. "I am, in fact, as he could get the minister to go with him."

"We have already made considerable progress," said Mr. Hays, "towards establishing terminals at St. John, and some progress—though not so much—in regard to our plans for Halifax."

This statement by the President of the Grand Trunk Pacific should have some effect upon those persons in this city and province who still stoutly assert that no terminal site has been secured, and that the whole story of the purchase is "a fake." Of course the persons who maintain this attitude are political foes of Hon. Dr. Pugsley. They would rather see no progress than admit that he had been instrumental in advancing the interests of St. John. But Mr. Hays says his company's plans in regard to terminals are more advanced at St. John than at Halifax. He will come here at an early date to go over the site with the minister and consider the plans for development, which of course includes dredging and wharf building.

Another matter to which attention has been directed is that of a dry dock and ship repair plant. Two great ship-building concerns have now been told by their engineers that the Courtenay Bay site is suitable. Dr. Pugsley states that he had a talk with the engineer of McArthur, Park & Co., just before leaving Ottawa and added: "He stated that he had sent a report to Sir Robert Perks to the effect that the Courtenay Bay site is favorable for the location of a dry dock. Their plans are now practically complete and will be filed with the department at Ottawa probably in a few days."

This is very gratifying news for St. John people. Matters relating to the development of railway terminals and extensive industries at Courtenay Bay are progressing in a satisfactory manner.

Then there is the matter of the exchange of west side shore lots between the city and the C. P. R. After the conference yesterday, Mr. McNicoll, Dr. Pugsley and representatives of the city all stated that this affair was likely to be settled to the satisfaction of all parties. Cordial relations were established, and a new agreement will be drawn up. The statements made to the press by Mr. McNicoll regarding the railway company's intentions are sufficiently clear and emphatic to set at rest any doubt as to their intentions. They propose to utilize the property as the need arises for the extension of their facilities for handling business at St. John.

With regard to the C. P. R. mail steamers, Dr. Pugsley has again pointed out that under the contract with the government they must come to St. John as well as Halifax, and that this contract does not expire until 1912. He sees no reason for uneasiness on that score. The company has not asked for any variation of the terms of the contract.

One other matter, which was merely a hint thrown out by one of the visitors, is interesting and suggestive. Mr. Tiffin stated that he and Mr. Brady were there to look into the question of an I. C. R. spur, which he intimated would be connected with the development of an industry. St. John is seeking new industries, and the statement by Mr. Tiffin is therefore welcome. The whole situation with regard to these various matters is such as to warrant the citizens in entertaining the most optimistic views relative to the future of St. John.

Mr. Frank T. Bullen, the English novelist, says of the Canadian people:—"Nowhere on the surface of the globe is there to be found a people who are more deeply imbued with the spirit which consents unto 'he law that it is good, not merely for the other fellow, but for themselves, which does aim at and strive successfully for the greatest good of the greatest number.'"

BURIAL OF A VETERAN

Yours today and ours tomorrow,
Hither, comrades, hence to go,
Yours the joy and ours the sorrow,
Yours the weal and ours the woe.

What the profit of the stronger?
Life is loss and death is gain;
Though we live a little longer,
Longer life is longer pain.

Which the better for the weary—
Longer travel? Longer rest?
Death is peace, and life is dreary;
He must die who would be best.

You have passed across the borders,
Death has led you safely home;
We are standing, waiting orders,
Ready for the word to come.

Empty-handed, empty-hearted,
All we love have gone before,
And since they have all departed
We are loveless evermore.

Yours today and ours tomorrow,
Hither, comrades, hence to go,
Yours the joy and ours the sorrow,
Yours the weal and ours the woe.

Alfred H. Miles.

SANTA FILOMENA
(Florence Nightingale)

(It was the practice of Florence Nightingale to pay a last visit to the wards of the military hospital in the Crimea after the doctors and the other nurses had retired for the night. Bearing a light in her hand, she passed from bed to bed and from ward to ward, until she became known as "the Lady with the Lamp.")

When'er a noble deed is wrought,
When'er is spoken a noble thought,
Our hearts, in glad surprise,
To higher levels rise.

The tidal wave of deeper souls
Into our midst being rolled,
And life's unweary
Out of all manner cares.

Honor to those whose words or deeds
Thus help us in our daily needs,
And by their overflow
Raise us from what is low!

Thus thought I, as by night I read
Of the great army of the dead,
The trenches cold and damp,
The starved and frozen camp.

The wounded from the battle-plain,
In dreary hospitals of pain,
The cheerless corridors,
The cold and stony floors.

Lo! in that house of misery
A lady with a lamp I see
Pass through the glimmering gloom
And fit from room to room.

And slow, as in a dream of bliss,
The speechless sufferer turns to kiss
Her shadow, as it falls
Upon the darkening walls.

As if a door in heaven should be
Opened and then closed suddenly,
The vision came and went,
The light shone and was spent.

On England's annals, through the long
Hereafter of her song and song,
That light, its rays shall cast
From portals of the past.

A lady with a lamp shall stand
In the great history of the land,
A noble type of goodness,
Heroic womanhood.

Not even shall be wanting here
The palm, the lily, and the spear,
The symbols that of yore
St. Filomena bore.

H. W. Longfellow.

IN LIGHTER VEIL—
NOT THIS TIME
(Chicago Record Herald.)

An old laborer was hurrying along a railway platform to catch a train when a porter suddenly collided with him, knocking him down. A minister happened to come along as he was slowly rising to his feet, and said to him, "Ah, my good man, is this the whiskey again?"

"No, yer honor," replied the old laborer, "it was the porter."

GRABBING OPPORTUNITY.
The play had fallen very flat, and the manager was getting worried. "Sorry, sir," said the comedian, "but I can't go on for a few minutes. I am feeling kind of funny."

"Funny?" cried Scott, "man!" cried the manager, "then go on at once and make the most of it while it lasts."

Oh, he was the busiest person alive, he had an astounding productivity. For helping excitement about him to thrive.

By great and incessant activity. When a procession set forth on the street.

His personal aid he would lend to it. He hastened with swift and unwearying feet.

He had to go out and attend to it. The clang of a fire bell, however remote when juvenile pugilists angrily smote. He gave advice extemporaneous.

Each public disturbance he took to his care. There was nobody else he could send to it.

Through hundreds of persons were sure to be there. He had to go and attend to it. The post that he held was a lucrative one. With a firm that was kindly but sensible.

BLACK NEXT FALL'S
FASHION FOR MEN

St. Louis, July 7.—You must wear mourning next fall or content yourself with not being included in the smart set. Advance and authentic information from London is that all patterns for suitings will be of black, with just a sprinkling of white spots through it to remove in a slight degree the deep mourning effect.

The styles will be on exhibition at the annual fashion show of the Merchant Tailors' League, which will be held in September at the Coliseum. Tailors from the South and central West attend. London is mourning the death of King Edward, and London is the place where styles are created for men.

Rich Gifts to Missions
On a quilt made for the foreign missions by a Calgary girl, who will herself soon become a missionary, there was laid the other evening in Pavley Tabernacle, Toronto, the sum of $44.25. It was the crowning sum to complete the amount of $23,000 which had that afternoon been offered to the mission cause by its supporters in Toronto at the close of the Christian Missionary Alliance convention.

Rev. Dr. A. B. Simpson, New York, who is head of the alliance, in an earnest address at the afternoon on the subject "Bearing Fruit," appealed for funds for the missions, and the large throng responded.

The Rev. H. L. Stephens, founder of the Tabernacle, conducted the pledge offering. The cards taken included offerings of sums from $1 up to $3,000. Sums of $4,000, $2,500, $1,500 and $1,000 individually were offered and many of $500.

Miss Edith Moul, who leaves Toronto for the mission field in the fall, will carry with her the Calgary girl's quilt to distant Tibet, where her work lies.

REPORT MRS. GOULD
IS TO BE MARRIED

Said Former Mrs. Frank Jay is Soon to Wed Ralph H. Hill Thomas

New York, July 8.—Friends of Mrs. Frank Jay Gould declare that within a week she is to be married to Ralph Hill Thomas, assistant treasurer of the American Sugar Refining Company, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Thomas, who live at the Hotel Savoy, and nephew of Washington Thomas, president of the Sugar Trust.

Neither Mrs. Gould nor any of the Thomases would affirm, deny, or in any measure discuss the report, but it appeared to have basis in fact, for Mrs. Gould has been in town all summer, and Ralph Hill Thomas on Tuesday at the Netherlands, and has prepared a trousseau.

Six months ago Mrs. Gould said that there was no betrothal between her and Mr. Thomas; that he was simply "a very dear friend, and I see a great deal of him."

Last summer and autumn they were often in each other's company, but there arose a disagreement one night at a party at Mrs. Gould's bungalow. This, as entirely patched up last winter, and after the Gould-Devos letters appeared they began to be seen together again.

Mrs. Gould the mother of two children, is still of slender, girlish appearance. Mrs. Thomas is a well set up young man, with smooth engaging face, who has a large acquaintance in the younger set, especially in the group known as "the sons of their fathers."

He will, it is said, take his bride to California, thence to the Sandwich Islands, the East, and back home by way of Suez.

Dorothy and Helen Gould, children of Mrs. Gould by her marriage with Frank Jay Gould, are being provided with new elaborate outfits, as if they were to be taken along. Six months of the year they are, by the decree of divorce, to be with their mother, and the other half year with their father.

It has been frequently reported that Frank Jay Gould is soon to marry Edith Kelly, the comic opera singer.

Diogenes returned from Ottawa in his search for an honest man. "Given up the chase?" they inquired. "It became a matter of necessity," replied the philosopher. "Someone stole my lantern."

HIS UNLUCKY DAY

A St. John man calls Thursday his Jonah Day.

Last Thursday he got out of bed backwards, split the salt at breakfast, was 13 minutes late for work, walked under three ladders and met two cross eyed women on the way to the office.

To cap the climax he forgot to order "BUTTERNUT BREAD" and had to be content with a poor substitute.
