

LOYD GEORGE AND IRELAND

Premier's Mind Responsible for Formula Which Brings Sides Together — Two Courses Appear Possible.

London, Oct. 4.—The formula of the association of Ireland with other communities of the British Empire for which the mind of Mr. Lloyd George was responsible has finally brought together two sides to the long-drawn-out controversy on terms which it is considered here involve surrender by neither side.

The conference is expected to be unprecedented in the history of Great Britain, if not of Europe. One result of it will be the cancellation of all hopes of Mr. Lloyd George attending the Washington disarmament conference, because the country will look to his diplomacy to steer the Empire through the waters of the complicated undertaking.

Although no names have been formally announced, it is understood that the Sinn Féin delegates to the conference will be Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Féin; Michael Collins, "finance minister"; Robert C. Barton, who has been a leading figure in the negotiations; Eamon J. Duggan, Sinn Féin member of Parliament; and George Gavin Duffy, who has acted as representative of the Sinn Féin abroad. These men have been the delegates to the conference at Inverness which was called off by Mr. Lloyd George.

Two Courses Possible. The programme of the conference remains to be decided. Two courses appear to be possible—the conference of leaders merely to frame the general plan, or determining Ireland's position and writing down the main planks of the agreement, as was done in Mr. Lloyd George's original offer to the Sinn Féin, and delegation of Irish government to other legislators.

An alternative is that the conference sit as long as is necessary to settle the details of Ireland's relations with the remainder of the United Kingdom. That it is thought would mean long and absorbing work, which would leave the members little time for other affairs of the Government.

It appears that the Prime Minister himself can hardly give the necessary time because of the problem of employment already in his hands, and attention is likely to become more important before it becomes less.

Beyond this point there is little speculation as yet, although the possibility is advanced that the Sinn Féin may ask for the restoration of Ireland as a kingdom under the British Crown, for which growing sentiment among important factions of the Irish is declared to have been making itself felt.

While it is generally recognized that the calling of the conference does not necessarily mean a solution of the Irish problem is at hand, it is considered the greatest step yet toward the possible smoothing out of the difficulty.

According to a despatch to the Daily Mail, belief is expressed that the Earl of Granard has offered the Sinn Féin delegates to the conference his home in London during their stay here.

The British delegates to the conference have not been announced, but it is presumed that in addition to Mr. Lloyd George, who will preside, the others likely will be Lord Birkenhead, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland; Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Secretary of State for War; Sir Winston Churchill, Secretary of State for the Colonies; and Sir Horace Rumbold, Secretary of State for Home Affairs.

TENTATIVE PLANS TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Establishing of Representative Emergency Committees the Initial Step.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Tentative recommendations for providing work for the jobless workers of the United States, estimated at 4,000,000 have been completed for submission to the national conference on unemployment.

Establishment of representative emergency committees in the communities to co-operate the work of finding jobs for the involuntarily idle and registration of the unemployed was understood to be recommended as the initial step in the relief programme. Other recommendations were understood to include:

Publication of the number of unemployed by the individual communities.

Establishment of part time work by manufacturers, thus increasing the number of workers used by each plant.

Operation of factories and mills in the making of stock where possible.

Constitution of repair and similar work on a normal scale.

Doing a repair and alteration work by office building, hotel and home owners during the coming winter instead of in the spring, as usual.

Expansion of street, sewerage, repair and building work by municipalities to the maximum volume.

Establishment of part time work by municipalities.

Co-operation by state officials with local leaders in the unemployment relief movement through the hastening of road, state building and similar construction.

Construction immediately by the Federal Government of buildings and other works for which appropriations are available.

Action by Congress at the present session on road construction legislation.

Enactment by Congress of the pending railway funding bill which expenditure of funds conditioned on an increase in employment.

PRESENTATION TO REV. MR. JENNER

The Young People's Society of the Charlotte street United Baptist church held a social evening last night in the home of Mrs. E. B. Rogers, City Line.

The meeting was held in honor of Rev. J. H. Jenner, who is soon to leave for the United States, where he has accepted a church. During the evening, Verne Warnock, vice-president of the society, presented to Mr. Jenner a leather bill fold containing $25. Mr. Jenner made an appropriate speech and a pleasant evening was spent in games and music. Refreshments were served.

FOUND CHILD IN POULTRY STORE AMONG HENS

When patrolmen Regan and Walsh of Cambridge heard a child crying in a poultry store on Bridge street, East Cambridge, at 1:30 the other morning, they investigated, that being the formula in the police book of rules.

There was a grating window at 2 Bridge street, in the store of the Cambridge Poultry Company. A number of excited hens were in the window space, and a baby was among them, crying for her mama, and pulling at the bars.

"Look what they hatched out!" said Regan.

"Go on," said Walsh, "that chicken was hatched at least three years ago." Then one of them recalled that at 1:30 the night before Isabella Olivera, aged 8, had been reported missing by her mother, Mrs. Mary Olivera of 56 Bridge street.

"Are you Isabella Olivera?" asked Walsh of the baby.

"Yes."

"Then we'll get you out," said Walsh. They had to pry off the grating to release the baby, who had wandered into the store just before closing time and had fallen asleep in the window.

BOY DID FOUR YEARS' WORK IN TWO MONTHS

London, Ont., Oct. 4.—James Patrick McCarthy, of Rural Route No. 6, London, a youth yet in his teens, has completed four years' work in Latin and French since July 6, in order that he might obtain full matriculation standing for entry in Western University this fall.

On the date mentioned, Mr. McCarthy passed the examinations for matriculation standing with high marks. He did not stand the Latin or French examination for the reason that he had never studied those languages. But within two months from July 6 he had stood examinations in both languages and obtained full matriculation standing. His papers submitted were marked over 80 per cent.

This is believed to be one of the most remarkable cases of intensive study ever reported. For in two months time the student covered efficiently the entire four years' course in Latin and all but three months of the four-year course in French. Mr. McCarthy will be an art college freshman this fall.

THE MODERN BOOZE

Hackensack, N. J., Oct. 5.—Dr. E. C. Hellstrom, of Hudson Heights is credited with giving a perfect diagnosis of the smell of the present day booze as has yet been recorded, when called as a witness in the Bergen County Circuit Court to testify in a suit for damages resulting from an auto collision. It had been charged that the man responsible for the accident was under the influence of liquor and Dr. Hellstrom was so adjured.

"How do you know he was intoxicated?" asked Lawyer Denon.

"Why, I gave him the usual tests and smelled his breath."

"Oh, you smelled his breath? What does the average intoxicated man's breath smell like these days?" asked the lawyer.

"Something like a combination of chlorine, mustard gas and garbage."

The court room roared and even Judge Cullen smiled.

School children at Ashbridge, near Godalming, exhibited 7,646 white butterflies, pests to horticulturists caught by them; the champion catcher showing 1253.

Commissioner Frink made a short congratulatory address, after which he presented the purse, which contained a substantial amount. Mr. Hatfield, who was greatly surprised and touched by this token of appreciation on the part of his fellow employees, made a short reply of thanks.

DEAD CHILDREN IN THE STREETS

Frank Connes and Albert A. Johnson, two members of the commission of the five sent into Russia to inquire into and report on conditions there to Herbert Hoover, as head of the American Relief Administration, have arrived in Paris on the way to Washington. They will sail on the steamer Olympic on Wednesday next. Mr. Connes said he had found the reports of the famine in Russia not to have been exaggerated. On the contrary, he declared, his party found the situation in the Volga district to be terrible. "Members of our party picked up dead children in the village streets," he said, adding that the commission had visited every part of the famine stricken districts of Russia.

CALLS HIMSELF "BOSS," COLLECTS AND GETS AWAY

(Montreal Herald)

Impersonating the "Boss," and claiming to have authority to collect on delivery, a man about forty-five years of age got $30 from a customer of Wilson Brothers, coal merchants, 1407 Notre Dame street east, yesterday afternoon. The slick individual not only put one over the customer, but went further and did likewise to two carters who had delivered the coal.

The trick was performed at the home of Mrs. Grenier, 1025 Denmontgny street east, where the coal was delivered on order. As the last bag was being taken from the cart, the impersonator congratulated the carters on the quality of the coal and asked for the bill. To all intents and purposes he was the man of the house and the bill for $49.50 was handed to him.

After telling the carters to wait a minute, he went to the front door, opened it without knocking, and presented himself to the landlady.

"Your coal is all in, madam, and here is the bill," he said.

"But who are you?" asked Mrs. Grenier, looking out of the window at the carters, "and what authority have you to collect?"

"I'm the boss, and these are my men," came the cool reply, as he, too, looked out of the window at the waiting carters.

Mrs. Grenier had a $50 bill and the stranger had no change. He told the landlady to wait a minute and he would return with her fifty cents. He told the carters he was going for change. They waited for the payment of the coal and finally entered the house.

"Where is your husband, madam, he is a long time coming?" said one of them.

"My husband? That man is not my husband," he told me he was your boss," exclaimed the startled lady.

The coal was in the cellar. Mrs. Grenier paid $50 to someone, but the carters went home minus coal and money.

REVERSES SEARCH DECISION

Judge Haskell Rules Pedestrians May Refuse to Open Handbags.

(New York Times).

Pedestrians are within their rights to refuse to allow the police to search their handbags on the streets, Judge Reuben L. Haskell ruled yesterday in the Kings County Court in setting aside a previous conviction against John D. Harrington of 592 Fifth Street, Brooklyn.

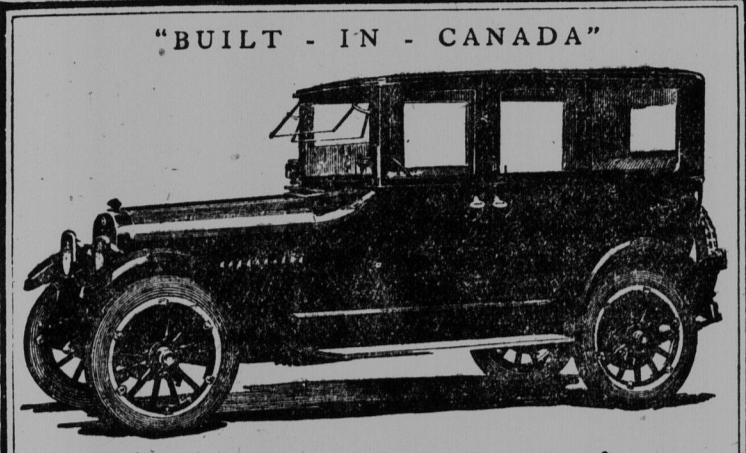

Harrington was convicted on a disorderly conduct charge with a suspended sentence June 28 last by Magistrate Powell in the Fifth Avenue Court.

Brooklyn, on the complaint of Patrolman Charles M. Taylor of the Fourth Avenue Police Station, Harrington, who is Grand Knight of the Admiral Dewey Council, Knights of Columbus, testified that he refused to open his bag when arrested by Taylor because it contained copies of the secret ritual of his order.

When taken to the station house, he opened his bag, and the police were not acting with in their rights in the station house when they assaulted the prisoner and took his property away from him."

Self-help.

Whose fault is it when your husband is cross at breakfast?

If you hit your thumb with a hammer you wouldn't blame your thumb for hurting.

Then why blame your husband whose nerves may have been pounded by tea or coffee, and whose rest probably has been broken by the irritation of the thein or caffeine it contains?

If you stay awake half the night you don't feel any too cheerful.

The thein of tea and the caffeine of coffee are known drugs. If their use is persisted in, sooner or later the nervous system may give way.

Then you may have insomnia, or disturbed sleep. Your nerves and tissues will be robbed of that stability essential for normal and happy living.
