FIVE KILLED, THREE WOUNDED.

(Portland Press.)

No less than five persons have been killed in the woods of Maine so far this fall by careless hunters. Three others have been seriously wounded.

This is a much larger number than ever before. The law passed last winter seems to have amounted to nothing so far, but after there have been some convictions and punishments under it some good may flow from it. Every-side of the unfortunate shootings has been characterized by gross careles-ness. The hunter has seen something that resembled a deer or a bear and blazed away.

THE SPLENDID SHOWING

Made by the 3rd Regt. at Halifax.
Next to Imperial Troops.

A great many expressions of opinion have been heard from people in Halifax who are qualified to judge as to the respective merits of the regiments which took part in Saturday's parade, and they are unanimous in saying that the 3rd regiment of artillery was far the best of all the corps outside of the imperial troops. The size and appearance of the men, and their remarkable steadiness have won for them great commendation. Next to the 3rd regiment on parade were their splendid rivals in the general efficiency competition, the 4th P. E. I. regiment, one of whose officers remarked that until he saw the St. John regiment on parade he had not realized what competitors they had to contend against. The imperial troops, it is needless to say, also looked well and did well, but owing to some of their companies coming from the rural districts they were not able to muster quite as strong as the 3rd regiment. Both corps, representatives of which had recently been successful in winning the Empire, prize list from the rest of the competition at the Island of Orleans, were glad to meet each other. Each has been successful in cultivating a spirit of generous rivalry with the other which makes them keen competitors but the warmest friends, and in this respect, as in efficiency, they afford an example to many militia regiments. The 3rd regiment, though the bad management of the railway and messing arrangements caused them some discomfort, returned without the loss of the smallest part of their stores or the slightest accident to either men or material. This, with their excellent field work, reflects the greatest credit upon Lieut. Col. Jones and his officers, to whose patient care and unswerving performance of their duty, the result is wholly due.

FUNERALS TODAY.

McLean, wife of Hazen McLean, of
