

Torontonians will soon surf in Lake Ontario

By DAVE FULLER

Has the lack of those big waves in Toronto harbour put a cramp in your surfing style? Maybe your sailing yacht is too big to bring to the balmy beach at Sunnyside?

The answer to your problems has come to Toronto, it's called Windsurfing.

The brainchild of Californian Hoyle Schweitzer, Windsurfing is a cross between sailing and surfing, and involves guiding a 12 foot surfboard across any body of water that has a wind blowing across it.

Powered by a large colourful sail attached to a 14 foot mast, a Windsurfer can travel at speeds of up to 20 miles per hour, once you have acquired the knack.

Stan Louden of Windsurfing School of Canada explained that "it only takes a few hours practice before you can keep it in a straight line." And Stan is the guy who can teach you how it's done.

From June 1 to August 31 you can receive instruction from Windsurfer Canada for under $50. The fee will cover two 2 hour sessions that will be held in Toronto harbour throughout the summer.

"The physical requirements are similar to those for skiing" says Louden. "You move the sail forward and back using your body weight as a counter-balance.

It's quite safe too; if you fall off all that happens is you get wet, the board will always fall away from you.

The price of a Windsurfer is about half that of the popular Laser sailboat and weighs only 60 pounds. It can be assembled in 30 seconds.

As a special inducement to would-be Windsurfers, the Toronto school plans to offer a special introductory half price course in May. The price will include use of a wet-suit, a handy item considering the temperature of the lake in May.

"It's also quite possible" said Louden, "that there are people on campus who are qualified instructors, if so I'd like to hear from them."

If you are interested in taking up Windsurfing or are a qualified instructor you can contact Stan Louden of Windsurfing Canada at 922-7766 or 923-6763.
