

FIGS. 48 and 49. ($\frac{1}{4}$ Size.)

Other shapes are not uncommon. Fig. 48 (from Wingham) has some resemblance to the seed of the maple; but Fig. 49 (from lake shore, Norfolk) appears to be quite fanciful, as indeed are most of these "ceremonial" objects.

FIG. 50. ($\frac{1}{4}$ Size.)

Fig. 50 (from Port Perry) has been originally almost square; but, one corner having been broken, subsequent rubbing down has again produced a sharp edge. Such evidences of repair are not unfrequent. Articles that have been made for one purpose have, in some instances, been modified, on account of breakage, so as to be suitable for another use.

FIG. 51. ($\frac{1}{4}$ Size.)

For comparative purposes, Fig. 51 is here introduced. It represents a so-called "banner-stone" found in an Ohio mound; and one cannot fail to be struck by the similarity of design and workmanship when compared with those of Indian origin in our own and other collections.
