The Orphan's Guardian Angel. A Guardian Angel sought the mercy seat, And with his latest charge did the erchet 100 " Receive," said he this soul for glory meet, "And give another object for my care," The smile of God was on the Argel thrown, "Go," said the Everlasting, "choose thine own

Swiftly to earth the gladden'd Angel eped. There, warmly by a mother's love subra He saw a child round whose uplifted head Beauty and brightness like his own he traced " Farewell I" the Angel said. " Thou hast a guide." "God keep that loving mother by thy side."

Ascending then, above the firmament He saw the earth revolve beneath his gaze, And like a moving drama, represent

On bright and joyous ones the Angel's eye Dwelt lovingly, and yet he passed them by.

Now to his view arose a scene of care-Father and mother followed to the tomb By their forsaken child, whose deep despair Enshrouds her in a desolating gloom. Crush'd is her spirit. By its weight of grief Driven to very deadness for relief.

Poor orphan ! from thy woeful trance awaken ! Though deadly be the bitter of thy oup : By father and by mother now foreak en, This promise stands, "Thy God shall thee up."

Smiling, he gave an Angel choice-and see-He smiles again to see him choosing thee.

Now by thine Angel guide thou shalt be led In ways of pleasantness and paths of peace Thy soul sustained upon the living bread, In faith and hope and love shall still increa Thy life to God a willing offering gives, Thy death shall be to thes the gate of heaven.
