DEATH OF ISAAC C. ALGUIRE

News of the sudden passing away of Isaac C. Alguire on Sunday evening was a great shock to the people of Athens. He had not been in robust health for several years but appeared to be as well as usual on Sunday. About 8:30 his wife noticed that he was breathing rather heavily and wished to call a physician, but Mr Alguire demurred, thinking that the attack would pass away. No favorable change taking place, Mrs Alguire, a few minutes later, summoned Dr. Hamilton. Mr Alguire met him in the parlor and after a brief examination his condition was pronounced serious and he was induced to lie down on a couch. He lived only a few minutes, his death being due to an apoplectic stroke.

Mr Alguire was the eldest son of the late Harmonious Alguire, in his day a leading citizen of this place. He was born Nov. 5th, 1840, and his whole life had been spent in Athens and vicinity. Leading a life of leisure, he was able to devote considerable time to public affairs and served at the council board for many years. He filled the office of warden of the united counties ably and well. It was perhaps as a member of the high school board that he rendered his greatest public service. He recognized fully the importance of higher education to the children of the community and endeavored in every way possible to advance the interests of the school.

As Division Court Clerk here, in succession to his brother, he gave valued service, and through his wise mediation many cases were amicably adjusted.

Of a social friendly disposition, he found membership in the Masonic Lodge very congenial to his nature and was for many years a faithful and enthusiastic member of the fraternity.

In politics, Mr Alguire was a strong Liberal and as vice-president for Athens was a pillar of strength to the party in both village and township.

Unswerving in his devotion to what he esteemed to be right, Mr Alguire held the esteem and respect of the people in a pre-eminent degree. In religion he was a liberal supporter of the Methodist church and at the time of his decease was a member of the trustee board.

He is survived by his wife (nee Laura Judd of Mallorytown) and one sister, Mrs Lydia Phillips, and to these the heartfelt sympathy of all is extended in their sudden and sore bereavement.

The funeral is taking place this afternoon in the Methodist church under Masonic auspices.

A PRESENTATION

The members of the Athens Methodist choir, on hearing of the departure of one of their number in the person of Miss Florence E. Donahue, greatly surprised her on Tuesday evening by gathering at the home of Mrs M. E. Derbyshire to spend a social hour.

During the evening the following address was read by Mrs W. G. Towris and presentation made by Mr J. H. Ackland:—

Dear Miss Donahue,—As we have assembled this evening to spend a social hour together, our hearts are saddened as we recollect that you are so soon to bid us farewell.

We shall miss you from our town from our church, and, sadly indeed shall we miss you from our choir, where you have cheerfully and heartily assisted us in the service of song for the past two years.

As you go from us, our best wishes accompany you that your life may prove a blessing to those around you, and make for the uplift of the community, and may we all so live that when our voices are hushed in death, we may be admitted into the higher, holier joy of the Heavenly Kingdom, there to join the choir celestial.

Signed on behalf of the choir.

Athens, March 5th, 1912.

The memento presented was a handsome small gold clock. The reply made by Miss Donahue was very appropriate for the occasion. Refreshments were then served and a hearty vote of thanks was rendered to Miss O. D. Derbyshire, a deciding her to be an ideal hostess.

BEE MEN AT WORK

The second annual meeting of the Leeds and Grenville Bee-keepers' Association was held in the town hall, Delta, on the 28th inst. The blocked condition of the roads militated against the numbers, but not the enthusiasm of the meeting.

The discussions were chiefly led by M. B. Holmes, reeve of Athens; Jehoida Coon, Morton, and H. Carl, Plum Hollow. It was decided to send a large county exhibit of honey to the Provincial Fruit and Honey Show the coming autumn.

The executive was instructed to arrange for a field meeting of bee-keepers to be held near Athens for the instruction of beginners, to which every member will be invited. Prof. Pettit, of the O.A.C., will be present and by practical demonstration show how to handle bees to obtain the best result.

Anyone may become a member by paying the annual fee of $1 to the secretary, which will entitle him to a copy of the Bee Journal free. The meeting instructed the secretary, H. E. Eyre, of Chantry, to arrange the Athens meeting for a time when the bees will be busiest, so as to give the Provincial Apiarist a chance to practically illustrate all the departments of bee work and honey production.
