The commanding officers of the foreign regiments have decided to take concerted action to prevent interference by the Musical Protective Union with the three big military bands. The bandsmen have lately refused to play with non-union men on instructions from the Union. The officers state that the men are under military discipline, and that they must play where they are instructed to play, whether non-union men are there or not. The bandsmen threaten to resign in a body, and the officers to this reply that they will have to serve out their term as privates in that case. The of-ficers say also they will do with bugle bands alone for years rather than submit to the present conditions, which, in effect, constitute mutiny.

Jewel Ranges The British Suffer a Repulse at Mooi River--Belmont News.

London, Nov. 25 .- Mooi River November 24 .- A reconnaissance in force in the direction of Highlands station has discovered a big force of Boers, with guns. The Boers shelled and the British guns replied. But the Boer fire was too hot, and our men retreated. The loss was insignificant.

The scouts also reported another strong Boer force to the northwest of

The British guns have returned to camp, and the infantry has fallen back. The mounted infantry is still out. It is feared they may have been cut off by the Boers.

THE BATTLE OF BELMONT.

New York, Nov. 25.—A despatch to the Tribune from London, says:—The war correspondent of the Chronicle says that the Boer marksmanship was ors in Egypt and the Soudan; Maj. Hamilton, one of the best-known men wretched at Belmont, otherwise not a single guardsman out of the two battalions of Coldstreams could have lived to reach the summit of the ridge, which they are said to have "carried at the point of the bayonet." Meth-uen's victory at Belmont remains as complete as first reported. Later offi-cial reports show that the enemy was taken by surprise and forced to aban-don ammunition and supplies while retreating in good order. The casualty list has not been seriously increased, and the number of officers is not out of proportion to the whole force, owing to Methuen's sensible measures compelling them to protect them-Among the killed were Capt. Eager, as possible.

On Wednesday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon Belmont was shelled by a afternoon Belmont was shelled by a British advance party. A messenger returned to the main body at Finchamp's farm, and the artillery advanced and shelled a kopje occupied by the Boers, expelling the enemy, and capturing two guns. The Boers lost 30 men. The position was valuable, as the Boers occupied two kopjes a guarter of a mile apart, commanding quarter of a mile apart, commanding the plain on all sides. Moreover, they controlled the water supply of Fin-champ's farm. The main column ad-vanced from the farm at 5 o'clock towards Belmont, and camped five miles

The troops who made the charge were two battalions of the Grenadiers and the Northumberland Regiment. They moved to the attack through a storm of bullets, but did no firing themselves, trusting to their bayonets. When they reached the top of the kopje, they inflicted heavy losses on the enemy. The infantry lost a number of men in advancing up the kopje. They captured the Boer laager with its entire contents.
