

[From the Steel Edge Reporter.]
TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

Nestling amid romantic hills,
Beneath Acadian skies,
Adorned with forests, fields and rills,
A thriving village lies.

A score or two of years ago,
This spot was rude and wild;
And here the Indian bands, we know
The lonely hours beguiled.

But God's almighty hands had hid Within those hills so grand,
A treasure vast, unlimited,
To bless our native land.

And when this mighty magazine
Disclosed its secrets rare,
A host of eager men were seen
With haste to gather there.

And now the mountains daily pour
Their treasures at our feet;
Meanwhile a thousand hands or more
In honest labor meet.

In mill and furnace, store and mine,
The struggling crowds appear,
And oh, that virtue here might shine
And God be honored here.

But, sad to tell, a demon dread
To this fair spot has come;
Here may be seen the stealthy tread
Of Satan's minion, RUM.

In many hearts and homes is felt
His foul and fiery breath;
To husbands, sons, and fathers dealt,
The venomous sting of death.

Our noble youths are led astray,
Of manhood rudely shorn;
Hard earnings meanly flicked away,
And tender bosoms torn.

The law of God is disobeyed,
The Sabbath spent in sin;
And Satan's vilest arts arrayed Immortal souls to win.

And shall this friend of crime and
The darkest fiend of Hell, [worse,
Within our midst, a blighting curse,
Be suffered still to dwell?

Nay, heaven forbid,—arouse ye all Strong men and women pure;
Go forth, resolved, this Demon's fall
By God's help to secure.

Let Temperance bands their number Increase in zeal and strength, [swell,
And now this vile usurper tell
His chain has reached its length.

And let us our Division make
The foremost in the strife;
Advance, the strong position take,
E'en at the risk of life.

Our keen "Steel Edge" shall cut its Through serrated ranks of sin; [way
Shall strike the foe with deep dismay,
And soon a victory win.

"Acadia Lodge" old "Iron Age," Fair "Dawn of Light" and all
With us this holy war shall wage,
Until Intemperance fall.

"St. Bridget's" too and "Erskine" bold
Are with us in the field;
And many Teuro friends enrolled
Fall well their weapons wield.

As thus with earnest heart and hand
We all our strength unite;
Each to our cause shall firmly stand
And urge a ceaseless fight.

Till Rum no more our homes shall
With sorrow, shame, and woe, [blight
The horrors of this dismal night
Our land no longer know.

THE WORTH OF LOVE.

No one who has looked into life with honest eyes can have failed to discover that it derives untold value from the love which welcomes its dawn, attends its growth, and advances, step by step, and soothe and cheers its old age. Human love is itself a pearl of great price. How it enlarges, enriches, and ennobles life!
What force it evolves! What beneficent ministries it conducts! What patient heroism and severe self-suppression it inspires. In a mother it is faith, and hope, and patience, and effort, and victory. In young hearts it is a transforming gladness, an awakening to the responsibility and to the raptures of life. In manhood and womanhood, it is the balm of care, a refuge in temptation, and a source of serenity. Even the memory of a pure love is a hallowing inspiration. "This better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all."—Dr. Clifford.

A passenger on a train up in Wisconsin was complaining of hard times.

"I don't see nothin' hard about 'em," remarked a contented looking man opposite him.

"Well, you're the first man I've seen that wasn't growin'," replied the first speaker, "and I should like to know your business. If there is one prosperous man in the country I want to make his acquaintance. What do you do?"

"Oh, I'm working for the railroad company watching the wood contractors to see that they don't pile in no poor stuff.
Get $2 a day."

"Two dollars a day! You don't call that prosperous, do you?"

"Oh, that ain't all. The contractors pay me $5 a day to spend three-fourths of my time down to Bill Jackson's saloon. Nothing hard about these times that I can see."

The every-day cares and duties, which men call drudgery, are the weights and counterpoises of the clock of time, giving its pendulum a true vibration, and its hands a regular motion.—Longfellow.
