

YEARS OF SUFFERING.

Brought About by a Fall in Which the Back Was Severely Injured—The Pain at Times Almost Unbearable.

Mr Geo. F. Everett, a highly respected and well known farmer of Four Falls, Victoria Co., N. B., makes the following statement:—"Some years ago while working in a barn I fell on my back and fell from a beam, badly injuring my back. For years I suffered with all I could do to remove it, but in vain. I at last gave up hopes and stopped doctoring. My back had got so bad that when I would stoop over it was almost impossible to straighten up again. When I would move with a creak for some little time without stopping it would pain me so that it seemed as if I could scarcely endure it, and I would lean on the handle of my scythe in order to get ease and straighten up. At other times I would be laid up entirely. After some years of suffering I was advised to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to try one box. Before I had finished it I saw the pills were helping me. I bought six boxes more and the seven boxes completely cured me. It is three years since I took them and my back has not troubled me since. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an invincible medicine and I highly recommend them to any person suffering likewise. I consider that if I had paid $10 a box for them, they would be a cheap medicine.

Rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, painful paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous headache, nervous prostration, and diseases depending upon humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc., all disappear before a fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions. Sold by all dealers and post paid at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Do not be persuaded to take some substitute.

From Cab to Chair.

Chauncey M. Dewey lately visited the mechanical department of Cornell University. He found at the head of it Professor Morris. The latter chimed him as an old acquaintance.

"How is that?" said Mr Dewey. "I used to work for the New York Central railroad," was the professor's answer.

"Indeed! In what department?" "Oh, just in the ranks."

"How did you get here?" asked Mr Dewey. "I was first a fireman on an engine. That was a tough job, but it led up to the position of engineer. When I became an engineer, I made up my mind to get an education. I studied at night and fitted myself for Union College, running all the time with my locomotive. I procured books and attended as far as possible the lectures and recitations. I kept up with my class and on the day of graduation I left my locomotive, washed up, put on the gown and cap, delivered my thesis, and received my diploma, put the gown and cap in the closet, put on my working shirt, got on my engine and made my usual run that day."

"Then," said Dewey, "I knew how he became Professor Morris."

"That spirit will cause a man to rise in any calling. It is ambition, but it is ambition wisely directed, seeking to make one's self fitted for higher work. When this is accomplished a opportunity for higher work is sure to come."

Art for Art's Sake.

It is a very difficult thing to obtain admittance to the beautiful residence of Rosa Banheur. Most of the information printed concerning the talented artist is supplied by her friends, as strangers seldom get a chance of seeing her at work. One of her friends has recently explained how it is that there are not more of her pictures on the market.

Rosa Banheur works very hard in spite of her 72 years. All round—the window frames, the little tables and the walls are fresh studies. She literally puts a masterpiece upon most things, not to sell and make money, but because she must work and try to do something better than she has done before.

At one end of her studio is an unfinished picture, a magnificent piece of work. It has been in an unfinished condition for 20 years, yet she has a standing offer of 400,000 francs for it when completed.

"I do not want the money," she says. "I prefer to work for myself. I want money to get my work done. I do a picture or two in order to keep things going and then continue in my own way."

The artist, as most people know, prefers to work in male attire.—Strand Magazine.

FOR HOME WORK

Only the Best Goods Give Satisfaction. Diamond Dyes, the World's Leaders, Do the Best Work.

When you bake you must use the best brand of baking powder; when making a jelly or custard pudding you must make use of the best flavoring extracts; when you sew it is economy to use the best sewing cotton; when you have home dyeing to do you should also bear in mind that your success and the safety of your material and garments depend upon the brand of dye you employ.

When the Diamond Dyes are used you achieve marvelous successes. Your old faded and dingy looking goods after a bath in the Diamond Dyes are made as good as new. The colors are always brilliant, fast, rich and full.

If you unfortunately made use of some one of the many weak, muddy and worthless dyes sold by some dealers for the sake of low profit—well, you must be prepared for cruel disappointments and losses. The Diamond Dyes save time and money, and are solid guarantees of success and good work.

Temperance Rally. Delegates to Conference Speak on the Approaching Plebiscite. (Special to the Halifax Herald).

TRURO, June 15.—The temperance public meeting held in the church this evening opened with the singing of the hymn, "The Lord's Prayer," and the choir sang the anthem, "Praise the Lord, O My Soul," after which the chairman introduced the speakers of the evening whom he announced as "good men and true."

The first speaker was Rev. A. Hockin, who has preached for five years in Halifax city. "If the man must act the fool for the Lord's sake," he was willing to speak, much against his wishes.

He was glad that the rumor that the Duke of Leeds was to be next governor-general of Canada was without foundation, on account of his connection with and brought in the temperance committee of the conference will favor the appointment of Lord Walsley to this high office with great enthusiasm on the strength of his having proved himself a temperance man in his great Sudan expedition.

"It must make my brother to offend etc.," is the testator's character given in the scriptures. Robinson Crusoe may have used intoxicating liquor on his lonely island and not offended his brother, but the speaker could not put a beer barrel in his cellar without doing his brother evil. Fermented wine has got to be banished from the sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

GIVING FERMENTED WINE TO A REFORMED DRUNKARD is like giving blood to a tiger. Ministers should not accept rum money for church purposes. Those in the liquor traffic have got to be banished from the church. Not for the sake of banishing the persons themselves, but in order to get clear of the liquor in the church. The duty of the church is "totalism for the individual and prohibition for the state."

Rev. B. C. Borden, principal of Mount Allison University, said there is now used in Canada 314 gallons of intoxicants per day. It is the work of the church to work against this. So long as the gin mill continues, so long will there be an incessant crop of drunkards. We have reached a crisis in the temperance cause by the forthcoming plebiscite.

Our action on it will mean much for the next 20 years. We must take the issue as it is. Our politicians are not men built on lines to give plebiscite without a vote.

We must create a temperance vote that will carry the day. We have got to stand against us—so many stand for party against principle.

The independent temperance vote must be made so strong that any party will cater to it.

The claim that the loss of liquor revenue if prohibition is granted must be made up by direct taxation is not a great evil.

Direct taxation is not a great evil as the present system of taxation is.

A GOOD RATHER THAN AS AN EVIL. There is truth in the saying, "you cannot make a good man by law." But by law you can make it harder for a man to be bad. A good law is an educator. Let us place the law and then bring the men up to the standard. If we can, by a prohibitory liquor law, hold up a moral standard, let us have it. The time is coming when the liquor law will be a thing of the past. It is only a case of who can hold out the longer—the liquor or temperance element. We want no license laws. The selling of liquor must be made a crime—to subvert it effectually.

In the absence of Dr. Woodbury, of Halifax, Rev. William Dobson was the next speaker. In his remarks he said you must come to the conclusion that the liquor traffic is wrong in the nature of things before you can bring on the plebiscite, and I think you must place it as wrong, as it antagonizes the physical nature of things and is out of every ecological law, and throws the man out of harmony with the universe.

The Sabbath rightly used is the greatest institution for learning and culture and soul growth the world has ever known. There is need of special guarding against anything that tends to weaken the effect of the Sabbath law. To break down this safeguard is to open the door for the oppression of the poor, and of all the working-classes. It is a terrible fate to be compelled to work seven days each week, with no chance for better things, for home, for rest, for culture, for religion. There can be no permanent slavery, or oppression or degradation where the Sabbath rights are reserved to all men and women who are employed by others.

Scraps for Odd Moments.

"What do you regard as the most reliable weather report, professor?" "Thunder."

Little Clarence—Pa, what is the difference between firmness and obstinacy? Mr Callipers—Merely a matter of sex, my son.

Turnkey—A reporter wishes to interview you. Will you see him? Prisoner—No, indeed; tell him I am not at home.

She—Yes, dearest, I made this cake all alone. He—I can't believe that. Somebody must have helped you lift it out of the oven.

Minards Liniment is the Best. "Of course I will be homelier some day," she whispered. "Impossible," he replied gallantly. "And she marvels that she sent his presents back."

"Some men," said Uncle Eben, "is mighty proud of his ancestors. He might be de al folks was alive I has my doubts about whether de feelin would be reciprocated."

The latest fad is the "Davy" contest, the picture of the admiral being worked on the feminine enclosure in silk. A kind of reminder, you know, that he has seen those tight squeezes.

Lady—Now that you have partaken of a good dinner, are you equal to the task of sawing up some wood? Tramp—Madam, equal is not the proper word. I'm superior to it.

Minards Liniment for Rheumatism. "Mamma, does 'Portuguese' mean all the inhabitants of Portugal?" "The word may be used in that way." "Well, mamma, if you mean only one of them, do you say Portuguese?"

"Willie Clegg is regarded as the flower of his family," said Maude. "Perhaps," rejoined Mamma, "that explains why we so frequently hear him alluded to by the men as a 'blooming guy.'"

A woman quarrelling with her husband, told him she believed if he was to die he would marry the devil's daughter. The law does not allow a man to marry two sisters, replied the tender husband.

He (arrogantly)—I wonder if the poor ostrich suffered much when they pulled those feathers out of his back. He (plaintive)—Not half as much as you appeared to suffer when I pulled the price of them out of you.

Minards Liniment Cures La Grippe. The race of Irish "bulls" will apparently never be entirely run. In the House of Commons a week or two ago a well known eloquent Irish member spoke of Mr Gerald Balfour as being "iron-bound in red tape."

The dexterity of a modern virtuoso's fingers made a deep impression on an old farmer who was present at the audience at a "piano recital." Clapping both hands suddenly down upon his knees, he was heard to exclaim, "I'd give $100 to have that man pick peas for me!"

Mr Johnson—Jee as I was coming out of Marse Jones' wife de fowls I met de pabson. Wife (plaintive)—V. wot did he say? Mr Johnson—He said he was comin ober to tek dinner wif us to-morrow.

"Thackeray a master of style!" repeated Charlie to the amazed parson. "My dear fellow, you parvatively don't know what you are saying. I've seen dozens of the pickwachs of the old Johnney, and not one of them showed a coat that had the least approach to a fit."

Minards Liniment the Best Hair Restorer. Jack (tenderly to the little brother of his aged one)—Would you like to know a secret, Tommy? Tommy—Shouldn't I know it? "Well, I'm in love with your sister." "Oh, that's no secret. The family has talked about it every day since Aunt Emma promised Ned that she would bring about an introduction."

An Irishman was once asked by a friend to go to a concert with him. Pat commences to sing. "Pat commences to sing on the way before Pat asked the price of admission. His friend said the front seats were one shilling, the back seats sixpence each, and the programs one penny each. "All right," said Pat, "I will sit on the programs."

Mollie, the good-humoured maid-of-all-work, related to her mistress a most amusing dream she had had the night before. "Pooh, pooh!" cried the latter at its conclusion, "you must have been asleep, Mollie, when you dreamed such nonsense." "Indeed, I was not," replied the malignant Mollie; "I was just as wide awake as I am this minute."

MINARD'S LINIMENT is the only Liniment asked for at my store and the only one we keep for sale. All the people use it.

HARLAN FULTON, Pleasant Bay, C. B.

An Irish labourer was directed by his employer, a farmer, to hold the plough. Pat was new at the business, and the first attempt was anything but successful. "Look here," said the farmer, "just do it like that, it grows in a furrow so crooked as that. Fix your eye on something across the field, and head straight for it. That cow there at the gate is right opposite us. Aim at her, and you'll do pretty well."

"All right," said Pat, and just then the farmer was called away to the barn. Ten minutes later he returned, and was horrified to see that the plough had been wandering in a zig-zag course all over the field.

"Hold on there!" he shouted. "Hold on! What are you up to?" "And sure, sir," said Pat, "I did what you told me. I worked straight for the cow, but the creature wouldn't keep still."
