The Cricket's Violin.

BY LAURA F. HINSDALE.

 Ah, me! Ah, me!" a cricket said  Grandmother Gray has gone to b No one listens but little Fred To all the tunes! play; So I will hop away."

Fil climb the chimney, and begin To play my dulcet violin. Too long I've waited; 'tis a sin For Genius thus to stay Hid from the light of day!"

With many a weary hop-hop-hop.
The cricket reached the chimney-top.
But, ah! the people did not stop!
None heard in all the dim
The cricket's violin.

The cricket played in every key,
From do, fa, la, to do, re, mi;
From a, b, c, to x, y, z,
He played both slow and fast,
The heedless crowd went past.

NEW MILLINERY! NEW DRESS GOODS!

I have just received a portion of my fall importation of MILLINERY GOODS,

Poor little Fred began to moan:

"Grandmother Gray, the cricket's gon",
And you and I are left alone!
Alas! I fear," he said,
"The summer time is dead!" to which large additions will be made in a few days, comprising the very latest novelties in this department. Also a full line of STAPLE GOODS for Fall and Winter, embracing and Scarlet FLANNELS, Grev. White. Rock Maple Shirtings, for Lumbermen, Shirts, and Drawers, &c., &c. Am expecting the balance of my Fall and Winter Goods in a few days, of which due notice will be given.

SWEPT FROM A SNOWY CLIFF.

Davenport Gazette: One of the most The girls have little to do with selecting their husbands. The men nearly always fix that up among themselves. A bold warrior sees a girl whom he loves in another tribe. He rides up at night, finds out where she is sleeping, dashes up to her tent, snatches her up in his arms, puts her before him on the horse and sweeps away like the wind. If he happens to be caught he is shot. If he is not, the tribe from which he has stolen the girl pays him a visit in a few days. The dertish, a priest of the tribe, joins the hands of the young man and the girl, and both the tribes join in the merriment.
