The present cheapness of scrip ($700) and the rapid filling up, even at this early date, of the two new townships by the Saskatchewan, north of the town, just thrown open to scrip holders, will account for the numerou letters of enquiry in this direction. The increased railroad facilities and ommuncations going north and comng in from the south are undoubted factors in the attraction Lloydminster has for the class of settlers who are addressing their enquiries to the loca land office. Judging from the letters, these are likely to bring with them both capital and stock to add to the prosperity of an already prosperous and flourishing community.
