JOHN FOLEY, POST MASTER OF HARBOR GRACE. way from amongst us. Mr. Foley had been in falling health for some time past, but, notwithstanding this fact he was always found at his post of duty, which he ever discharged with courtesy, kindness and ability. So passed away a great soul. That he did much good there is no doubt. That a great deal of it never will be known in this world there is just as little. Deeply religious, an exemplary Catholic, in save his soul by leading others in the way they should go. No word of unkindness ever passed his lips. Charity and geniality animated his every act. Our deeds of disinterested charity are recorded in the Book of Life. On the great day of recompense our Blessed Saviour will say: "Come, ye blessed of My Father, possess the Kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." What Shakespeare says of mercy pertains also to charity and kindness: "It droppeth as the gentle rain from Heaven; it is twice blessed; it blesses him that gives and him that receives." Also, "Happy is he who has charity for every one," says the blessed Egidius of Assisi, "happy is he who performs great service for his neighbor, yet does not trouble about receiving anything in return." John Foley was a man who was widely and deservedly popular, and a great reason for his popularity lay in the intensely human character of the man-human in the absence of all pretence and preten sion, human in his manful desire to take part whether of work or play human, above all, in his humanity to man. The principles of honesty and through life, and being united with gentlemanly manners, and an amiable disposition greatly endeared him to his friends and a numerous circle of n Harbor Grace sixty-four years ago, and being intimate friends from childhood, the writer can speak of his classes of the community.
