

Teams of Horses Move Big Building

SEVEN-STORY STRUCTURE OWNED BY THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL TRAVELS 85 FEET IN 20 HOURS.

The moving of a seven-story building 85 feet wide by 131 feet long a distance of 85 feet by four teams of horses is described in a paper by Hugo Filippi, engineer and superintendent for William H. Brown & Co., Chicago, moving contractors. This work was done in connection with the improvement made by the Illinois Central in its Chicago terminal.

Before moving the building a concrete foundation was provided on the site with a concrete floor over the entire area to provide a base for the floor for the moved building. After this had been completed the building was cut through the brick walls of the old building with a pneumatic drill and a needle beam was placed on the ends and jacked up.

The actual moving was done on twenty-three tracks consisting of steel or more rails each extending from the old site to the new site. More than 2,000 steel rollers were placed on the tracks and the weight of the building was distributed over these rollers. Motive power for the moving of the building was supplied by four teams of horses through the agency of four building movers' capstans which were used for the hauling of cable. The actual moving for the entire job was twenty hours.

The building is to be used as an annex to the general offices that are to be erected by the Illinois Central as a part of their new passenger station.

C. Y. M. L. A.

The association met on Monday evening, but owing to the shops being open, was not so well attended as usual. The debate for the evening was: "Resolved, that the exportation of wood in its raw state should be prohibited," and proved most interesting. At first it seemed that the leaders of the affirmative, Mr. H. Smith and Mr. H. S. Ford, had matters all their own way as they brought up argument after argument to uphold their views. But when the negative side of the question had been put by H. G. Ford and Mr. Adams, it was clearly seen that there was really another side that merited careful consideration. While the affirmative leaders confined their arguments to the ideal those favouring the negative emphasized the practical side of the question, pointing out the insufficiency of certain wooded areas to justify the erection of a plant and the impossibility of transport to other centres, and the immediate necessity of support for many families who, owing to the failure of the fisheries, would otherwise be starving long ere the winter was over. The vote was equal until the vote of the chairman decided the issue for the negative.

Would Check Criminals by European Methods

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 (A.P.)—International adoption of the "know book" as a means of checking criminals, eliminating much government red tape and keeping tabs generally on all members of the community, is advocated, according to private advice received here, by two Norwegian scientists, Dr. J. A. Mjoe and J. Bo.

The "know book" is a suggested pocket pamphlet to be made out for every child and to be kept through his life as a permanent record of his doings. It would contain his fingerprints, photograph, passport, physician's certificate of health, and certificate of his military and civilian record.

Not only would this booklet aid police in apprehending culprits, but other far reaching advantages are claimed for it. It would prove useful in census taking, at hospitals, in the treatment of the unemployed, as a means of identification at banks, customs houses, foreign ports, military camps, etc. Besides, the system would educate the people in the high conception of obligation to the community and to a feeling of social solidarity, it is declared.

The system is said to be endorsed by Norwegian and German police and government officials. It will be presented to the forthcoming international conference at Rome on immigration called for next summer by Premier Mussolini.

Demolish Wall in Luxor Tomb

Tutankhamen's Mortuary Room Now Nearly Exposed to View.

Luxor, Dec. 3.—From 7 o'clock yesterday morning to past the noon hour the excavators in the tomb of Tutankhamen were hard at work demolishing the partition wall between the ante-chamber and mortuary room, preliminary to taking apart the outer shrine.

Howard Carter, leader of the expedition, personally carried out this delicate operation, raising up each stone with a crowbar with one of his assistants holding the stone to prevent it from falling inward against the barrier protecting the canopy of the shrine.

When each stone was piled loose it was passed over to a native digger, who staggered with it upstairs into the brilliant sunlight and added it to the growing heap beyond the "wall back of the tomb. Some of the stones show that a yellow wash was applied to the inner walls of the sepulchral chamber.

The work, which imposed a great strain on all concerned, further widened the gap about the sealed door leading into the mortuary chamber four or five yards, but another full day's work will be necessary before the entire partition is down.
