"The Duke of London."

"The Duke of London." Among all the titles which have bee proposed for Prince George of Wales it is now considered that the most probable of adoption is that of "Duke of London." This would be an entirely new title, and would, therefore, be subject to none of the objections raised by some people against the alleged unfortunate associations of titles which have been borne before, and titles which have been borne before, and have become extinct in the original family; and whenever revived, in from one to four generations. The title of the Duke of Chrence is one of those regarded with superstiticus disfavor.

path of the Government. Of these most pressing are the restrictions to be placed upon I rish local government. There appears to be no doubt that Mr. Balfour gave little or no information to the Irish deputation he received on Friday. He heard their complaints and their suggestions, and that was about all. It is also rather an open secret that the restrictions asked for would render the bill unacceptable to a large section of the Ministerialist supporters. A plan which finds more favor with the Government than it is likely to meet with in the House of Commons, is one of drastic supervision and suppression, such as Dr. Morell Mackenzie's Funeral. How the Substitute for the Gallows Does Its Work.

The Victim Subjected to Two Separate Shocks of 50 and 36 Sec-onds Duration.

Sing Sing, N. Y., Feb. 8.—At the execution of Charles McIlvaine to-day there was a quick, convulsive jump of the subject following the application of the current. A livid shadow crept into the hollows of the digns at the sides of the nose, the lips became purple, the wrists were ashen first and then welts of purple color showed around the edges of the straps. Meanwhile the current, alternating 230 times each second, was beating at the nerve cells and exhausting the oxygen from the blood corpuscles. There was no movement in any part of the entire frame. "Close!" commanded Dr. McDonald, and the small leader at the switch-board was pushed back to its place and the current was cut off. The hour was 11:12:49 a.m. The power of 1,600 voits of electromotive force had been busy 49 seconds with the life centers of the silent, motionless figure. Dr. Ward reached down into the cell on the right side of the chair and was feeling for pulse beats, when from the livid lips of the subject there showed an exudation of

Dr. Ward reached down into the cell on the right side of the chair and was feeling for pulse beats, when from the livid lips of the subject there showed an exudation of mucus, and almost at the same instant there came from the lungs, which had thus expelled the last inhalation taken in at the last moment as the condenned man nerved himself for the death stroke. Then came a shorter gasp, which was cut short in a gurgle by the reapplication of the current, which at the moment was flowing at 1,500 volts and 10 amperes. The hour was 11:13:15 a.m.

"Stop!" again ordered Dr. McDonald, and the little lever cut off the current from the subject. Dr. Ward again advanced to test the wrists for possible pulse beats. There were none. The mask on the purple face was lessened so that the action, if any, of blood in the jugular vein might be observed. Dr. Ward retired. Dr. McDonald tested both at the wrist and neck, and then the other physicians did likewise. But there came no more of tremor or of action anywhere. The subject gradually relaxed from the terrible strain under which it had labored at the moment the shock entered. The neck relaxed, the head slipped down, and the entire frame gank down an inert, senseless substance.

"Experience seems to determine that the enseless substance.

at the head which have been tried," said Dr. McDonald.

Tests were made and it was shown beyond doubt that the man was dead. Dr. Robertson, of New York, produced a stethescope and placed its rubber bell above the heart, listening intently for any evidence of life. He found none but declared that any method of contact that involved a second application of the current was "brutal."

Dr. McDonald said conscious life was unquestionably instantly destroyed.

"Do you regard the expulsion of sputum and the sounds from the throat as purely reflex muscular results?" was asked.

"Unquestionably," was the reply.

"I should take issue with any one holding that muscular as well as conscious life was destroyed instantly," said Dr. Robertson.

Mr. Hyman's Excellent Services in the City Council Commended.

The Free Press, finding it impossible to pick a flaw in Mr. Hyman's Parliamentary record, falls back upon his career in the City Council in hopes to bring him into discredit. In this it also signally fails. Our contemporary is indeed most inconsistent. While in 1884, when Mr. Hyman's record was fresh before it, the Free Press had nothing but praise for his actions, it now tries to make believe that he was an incapable. We give the Free Press article in full: From the London Free Press, Jan. 1,

1884: MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS-FINANCIAL

MANAGEMENT.

At the municipal nominations yester At the municipal nominations yeared day the state of the civic finances received a free and fair discussion. ALD. HYMAN, WHO HAS PRESIDED OVER THAT BRANCH OF THE PUBLIC ECONOMY FOR THE PAST COUPLE OF YEARS O ACCEPTABLY, MADE A STATEMENT WHICH CANNOT FAIL TO BE REGARDED IN A REASSURING SO ACCEPTABLY, MADE A STATE-MENT WHICH CANNOT FAIL TO BE REGARDED IN A REASSURING SENSE. DURING HIS TERM OF OFFICE SOMETHING IN THE NATURE OF A REVOLUTION HAS TAKEN PLACE IN THE MODE OF CONDUCTING OUR FINANCIAL BUSINESS. The mixed and muddled state which has prevailed under the ægis of former councils for many years in succession has given place to a systematic control, so that where the old auditors groped in a state of bewilderment, we are assured that the least skillful now finds a straight path, and is able to trace with accuracy the course of income and outgo. This in itself is a great step gained. Along with the confusion in the ordinary accounts, Mr. Hyman and his associates found a floating debt in the shape of an overdraft at the bank amounting to over $100,000. This debt has been consolidated by the issuance of debentures, carrying a much lower rate of interest than the open account did. THUS A LARGE SAVING HAS BEEN EFFECTED IN THE CURRENT OUTLAY in that behalf, while the liability, instead of harging over the city like a

BEEN EFFECTED IN THE CURRENT OUTLAY in that behalf, while the liability, instead of hanging over the city like a nightmare, has been put off for a long term of years. By the time it matures it is fair to assume that the city will have made large progress in wealth and population—it is too much to hope that it will be doubled. In that case the payment would fall with corresponding lightness, supposing the new generation would be called upon to pay up in full. But it is well for the present ratepayers to feel that no such injustice is in contemplation, that they are not intending to shirk their fair share of the burden, as they were made to seem to do under the former regime. The law enjoins that such indebtedness shall be provided for by means of a sinking fund. Formerly the rate for such fund was levied and collected, but due faith was not kept with the people. This rete and accepted payers only any other payers. "I should take issue with any one holding that muscular as well as conscious life was destroyed instantly," said Dr. Robertson.

This statement was permitted to pass in silence. When the body was laid upon a table for the autopsy it was observed that there were slight blisters from the heated water in the electrode at the temples. The hands, which had remained completely immersed, were in a degree disfigured on the surface, but the wrists had each a slight blistered ring about them, where they had been wet upon immersion, but had been withdrawn at the convulsion attending the first contact. At the calf of the leg, where the second contact had been made instead of at the hands there, had been something more than blistering, the rigid tightening of the muscles having pressed the sponge dry and heat resulting to singe the surface. The first period of contact was 50 seconds. The autopsy demonstrated that McIlvaine was thoroughly sare, the substance and the tissues of the brain being entirely normal.

New YORK, Feb. S.—Carlyle W. Harris, the debt was urged time and again, but only to meet with an opposition which was, as it appears, of a two-fold origin. One side was doubtless desirous of origin. One side was doubtless desirous of keeping the bank account open as an easy mode of financing, if not for a cloak of peculation, while the other had an indefinable dread of "increasing the public debt." The latter failed to see that the debt existed already and could not be wiped out without imposing a burdensome rate; that the menicipality was meanwhile left at the mercy of its banker, and that it had to pay smartly for the accommodation granted. In face of this they cried: "Oh, don't borrow; don't add to the debt," and between the two parties the city staggered in a sort of hap-
