Scheme to Break the Force of the Charges Against Caron—The Original Indictment Emasculated by the Ministry.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]
OTTAWA, May 4.—In the House this afternoon, when the debate on the Caron charges was resumed, the Government had a surprise prepared, which was not altogether a surprise because the decision the Cabinet had arrived at had leaked out. At the meeting of the council this afternoon the Government had determined to relegate the matter in safe shape to a royal commission. Mr. Bowell, therefore, rose and with a five-minute introduction moved the amendment, which was so long that is occupied fifteen minutes in the reading. It began by reciting the charges made by Mr. Edgar, and then a long list of quotations were included from the speeches made in this debate by Mr. Mills (Bothwell). Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Edgar. These were cited as the interpretation by the Carteria charges—as this debate by Mr. Mills (Bothwell), Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Edgar. These were cited as the interpretation by the Opposition of Mr. Edgar's charges—as what was meant to be charged in them. From these speeches there were formulated a new set of charges, which, for investigation, were referred to a royal commission. The amended charges commenced:

"That from the aforesaid statements made by James D. Edgar, and comments and argument thereon by Hon. David Mills, Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Edgar from their places in this House, it appears that it was the intention of Mr. Edgar by such statement to charge A. P. Caron, a member of the House and a member of the Privy Council of Canada, with grave offenses and dereliction of duty, not withstanding that said statements as first recited did not make any definite or precise charges against him; that the following charges and allegations are indicated by the statements of James D. Edgar, and comments thereon by the members aforesaid as intended to be made in the statement, namely."

bright, and common the statement, namely."

Then follows charge No. 1, the same as the first of Mr. Edgar's charges. No. 2 of Mr. Edgar's charges. No. 2 of Mr. Edgar's charges is omitted altogether, and so are Nos. 4 and 5. No. 3 of the new charges is intended to take the place of No. 6 in the original, but is varied, as are all other charges which are taken from the original. The effect of the charges and variations is to limit the charges in certain directions and to open them in other directions for which there is no warrant. The new and revised edition of the charges being drawn up, the amendment concludes new and revised edition of the enarges being drawn up, the amendment concludes as follows:

"That in the opinion of this House it is expedient that an inquiry should be made as to the truth or falsity of the allegations last mentioned and numbered 1 to 10, being the allegations and charges included in the original statement of Mr. Edgar and those made in the course of debate thereon, and that for that purpose this House deems it proper and convenient that the evidence relating to such allegations and charges should be heard by one or more commissioners, to be appointed under chapter 114 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, and having all the force mentioned therein, and having all the force mentioned therein, and that such evidence should be laid before the

The debate was continued, and the question being a Quebec question the members from that Frovince took a large share in the debate. The speakers after Mr. Bowell were Messrs. Flint, Davin, Brodeur, Desjardins (L'Islet), Choquette, Dupont, Carroll, Desaulniers, Fraser and Cockburn. Before Mr. Fraser began to speak the Opposition wanted to adjourn the debate. Sir John Thompson refused. After Mr. Cockburn finished, Sir Richard Cartwrightagainsuggested an adjournment, it being I o'clock. The debate was going on when the ADVERTISER went to press, and it looked as though the vote would not come until daylight.

Sir Richard Cartwright moved the amendment to the amendment that all the words of the amendment that all the words of the amendment that of the words of the amendment that of the control of Parliament into the charges preferred by J. A Scene of Confusion in the House of Commons.

Mr. Graham, the Socialist Member, the Cause of Much Excitement.

London, May 5.—Mr. Richard Haldane's bill to confer upon local authorities power to compel land owners to sell their land in order that it may be divided into small holdings was discussed in the House of Commons yesterday. Mr. Herbæt Asquith (advanced Liberal), member for Fast Fifeshire, spoke quietly in favor of the measure. He contended that the owner of the land on which human residences are built is not entitled to the improved value of the land due to the improved value of the land due to the increase of the population. In that respect, Mr. Asquith held, land differed from consols or a commercial enterprise. Before he had an opportunity, however, to explain wherein the difference lies, he was interrupted by Mr. Cunningham Graham, the Socialist, who represents the northwest division of Lanarkshire, who excitedly asked: "How about swindling the shareholders in a company?" Amid cries of order, Mr. Graham shouted: "I have a right to explain. This is a swindling speech."

The House was in great confusion, and the Speaker the Right Hon. Arthur Wellesley Pell, called Mr. Graham to order. The latter refused to be silent, and finally the Speaker said: "The conduct of the member is such that I am compelied to name Mr. Graham." This action was greeted with cheers.

Mr. Graham retorted: "All right. I am

The Stormont mill at Cornwall, Ont., closed down Tuesday, thereby throwing some 600 or 700 hands out of work. The trouble seems to have started among the union weavers. One of their number, it is said, reported a few minutes late on Thursday morning last and was sent out. He filed an appearance on Friday, but a "spare hand" was given charge of his looms, and he was once more compelled to go out. Tuesday morning there was a repetition of what occurred on Thursday, and the weavers immediately stopped their looms, refusing to work unless the weaver in question was given his looms. Their demand was refused and the mill was closed down.

TREBILCOCK VS. WALSH

Was the first case entered into. This case was over a bet made at the time of the election on March 26, between C. S. Hyman and John Carling, F. T. Trebill-cock bet $500 that Mr. Hyman would be gazetted member of the Dominion House for London. John E. Richards bet $500 ca. Carling, and S. C. Walsh, the defendant, was stakeholder. John P. Moore was present when the bet was made, Mr. Richards, he said, was willing to bet on who would be declared elected but agreed to bet on who would be declared elected but agreed to bet on who would be gazetted. R. J. Blackwell was at polling sub-division 4 on election day, and Mr. Trebilcock, he said, voted there. Andrew Dale swore that John E. Richards voted at sub-division 15. Mr. McKillop produced the Canada Gazette to show that John Carling had been gazetted. The plaintiff sued to recover his half of the stakes. W. R. Meredith, Q. C., argued that it was not an illegal bet as it had been made on a fact of who would be gazetted. He said Mr. McKillop had not furnished the necessary logal proof to show that the election in question had been held. The defendant said he received a notice from Mr. Trebilcock the morning after the election claiming the $500 he put up. Mr. McKillop claimed that it was purely an illegal bet. Mr. Justice Street reserved judgment.

The same evidence applied in the case of F. T. Trebilcock vs. E. H. Gustin, except that the bet in this case was on the election and not on who would be gazetted. Geo. McClary bet on Carling and Trebilcock on Hyman. Judgment was also reserved in this case.

The last mentioned occupied the north half of the farm in question, and paid $50 a year rent for it. He estimated the worth of the land at $21 per acre, and that portion where there was gravel at probably $75 an acre. He did not think it would ever amount to much for farming land. The corporation of North Dorchester bought from the plaintiff Stickles one acre of land on which was a portion of a gravel pit. Stickles now charges that they have taken gravel from outside the limits of the prescribed acre, and claims $500 damages. The defendants deny the charge.
