... F. C. Mathieson of Bartholomew house. London, has issued a complete list of the electric light companies that have been floated in England to date. They number just thirty-three, and have an issued capital of about 26,600,000.

On May 13 the Forty-second Highlanders escorted the heralds and pursuivants of Scotland to the Cross of Edinburgh, where royal proclamation was made authorizing the circulation of British coins as current money in Cyprus. The connection seems somewhat remote to cutsiders. .The contributions for the sufferers by last year's fires in Michigan amounted in value to $1,500,000, of which two-thirds was cash. The work of distribution was so well done that the opening summer finds the burnt district in a more favorable condition than there was reason to expect. .. Card playing is practised in no country to so great an extent as in Russia. All ages and both sexes are passionately fond of it. The manufacture of playing cards is a government monopoly, and there is only one factory, from which 24,000 packs are turned out daily, or over 7,000,000 a year. Dr. Norman Kerr recently stated, in Exeter hall, London, that of the 34,000,000 cases of disease every year in the United Kingdom a large proportion arose from indulgence in intexicants. Some seventy diseases are described as arising directly from alcohol. The estimated annual mortality caused directly and indirectly by drinking was given at 120,000.

.... The Paris correspondent of the Lancet writes: There is no doubt that a great number of dyspeptic cases that are met with in civilized countries owe their origin to the abuse of mineral waters; the result being undue dilation of the stemach, and the production of atonic dyspepsis, one of the most harrassing forms of the malady for both patient and physician."

.Cases of alleviation of heart trouble are freely reported in the medical journals as due to the use of nitro-glycerine in drop doses. The effects of the drug are described as sedative, gently narcotic, and, in larger doses, not unlike alcohol. It would be interesting to knew how soon a "nitro-glycerine habit" will be added to the in-creasing varieties of drug enslavement. .An Italian has invented a process for solidifying wine. A small quantity of the solidifying wine. A small quantity of the substance, stirred in its original state. A French chemist has, according to the London Medical News, found a means of crystalizing brandy, which resembles alum in appearance, and dissolves readily. The object of both processes is to facilitate transportation.

.... An ingenious swindle which may soon be expected among the summer importabe expected among the summer importations here has lately been exposed in London. It consists in artistically coloring fish, meat and game so that they appear to be of the finest quality, and hawking them about the streets at tempting prices. A fish thus prepared, which had passed the inspection of a wary housekeeper and an expert cook, was dropped into the pot as a salmon of particularly aristocratic hue and came out a codfish of the most plebeian

A curious experiment, according to the Paris newspapers, has recently been made with wine in that city. A current of electricity was passed through a small cask of sour wine, and at the end of a few days the wine was found to be greatly improved in quality, and to have acquired that flavor which has hitherto been supposed to come of age. It is said that the discovery of this new maturing process is owing to the ac-cident of a thunderstorm having greatly improved a cask of bad wine in the cellars a vintner at Carcassone. "The awfully jolly girl" has been mentioned as the latest and perhaps most appalling English type of her sex. "The other day in Rishmond park," writes a correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette, "I came upon three or four of these epicene came upon three or four of these epicene creatures who were perhaps awful enough, but were by no means jolly. One wore a man's scarlet cap. All had their hair cropped close, and all four carried walkingsticks. On enquiry, I was told that at Brighton and elsewhere it is quite common for young ladies to go about with walkingsticks and a convict's crop. Who are the men that these poor girls imagine they can attract by this ugly masquerade?"

There is no truth, according to the

.There is no truth, according to the London Truth, in the Berlin report of the approaching marriage of the Princess Beatrice. She appears to have resigned herself to a routine life with the queen, and she is rewarded by being allowed to exercise far more influence, in a variety of ways, than any of her sisters have ever done. Indeed, the queen now leaves the manage-ment of almost everything in the domestic ment of almost everything in the domestic line to the Princess, who, no doubt, finds it rather pleasant to pull the strings at all the palaces. Princess Beatrice amuses herself principelly with painting and music, and has attained exceptional proficiency in both arts; she has composed an anthem and one or two very pleasing "Kyries,"

"A Canal Boat Girl" is the heading found in a recent English newspaper. She was found driving a horse on the towpath. Hardly 10 years old, she was one of four children "born down the dark, unwholesome hatchway of the boat," which was then occupied by her father, mother, and the children who remained alive. A brother "was drowned last year in the Cut;" a sister had lately died of fever in the boat's cabin. The dead girl, an hour or two after cabin. The dead girl, an hour or two after her decease, was carried by her mother through the public streets to the house of a relative. The story is simple, but suggestive. Has the S. P. O. C. observed the facts in the lives of children born on American axeal bests?

... Virginia is another state in which wine-growing has become a promising industry. The industry was commenced in 1869 by two Germans on favourably loated hill-sides of the Blue Ridge range, and the crops were disposed of in New York. By 1877 these pioneers were producing nearly 3000 transplant of this country given as references. Write gallons of wine annually. A Bishop Who Would Not Pray for Rain. The Bishop of Melbourne was recently asked to frame a special form of prayer for rain, to be used throughout his diocese view of the severe drouth with which the colony was afflicted. To the astonishment of everybody, the bishop flatly refused. Changes in the weather, he said, were the result of unwavering natural laws, and prayer was an agency more fitted for securing spiritual blessings than material needs. It would be much wiser if people set themselves to utilize the water which they now allow. they now allow to flow to waste into the sea than to content themselves with praying to be delivered from the consequences of their own neglect. A great sensation has been produced by this refusal in the colony, where it is felt that the bishop has taken adroit advantage of the opportunity to make a telling point against the colonial to make a telling point against the colonial government, which, with the sanction of

The Reliable Party Organs. [From the Peterboro' Review (Con.)] The value of the reports which appear in both the Mail and Globe as to the meetings being held in every part of the Dominion, received a fitting illustration in the issues of those journals of Tuesday last. While the Mail of that day stated there were 7000 people present at Sir John Macdonald's meeting in Peterboro' on the previous evening, the Globe of the same day says that "it did not turn out a very conspicuous success," and that there were all the same day is a success, "and that there were all the same day is a success," and that there were all the same day is a success, "and that there were all the same day is a success," and that there were all the same day is a success, "and that there were all the same day is a success, "and that there were all the same day is a success, "and that there were all the same day is a success."

success," and that there was only "a small crowd present," neither of which was correct. While the meeting in question was undoubtedly a great success, yet it did not require 7000 people to be present to make it so, and there was not that many present. It would be just as well and a success. It would be just as well, and serve the cause a great deal better, were both of our big brethren to stick a little closer to the truth on such matters.

Mrs. Garfield is Very Well Off. (From the Chicago Times.) She has $300,000 in government bonds, he result of the subscription. Then her husband's life was insured for $50,000, which she promptly received. She also was paid the salary of the president for the unoccupied first year, amounting to about $20,000 then add to it about $30,000, the total value of Garfield's estate. That was the total amount, after all the abuse that was received, that he was able to accumulate in a life of fifty years. That makes $400,000 does it not? I suppose that the income from this total of more than $400,000 will be perhaps $16,000 a year. She is also put on the pension lise at $5000 a year. So she is comfortable, and can raise her children well.

GOOD-BYE PROUD WORLD. (Ralph Waldo Emerson.)

Good-bye, proud world! I'm going home;
Thou art not my friend; I am not thine;
Too long through weary crowds I roam—
A river ark on the ocean brine;
Too long I am tossed like the driven foam;
But now, proud world, I'm going home! Good-bye to flattery's fawning face To grandeur with his wise grimace; To upstart wealth's averted eye, To supple office low and high; To crowded halls, to court and street, To frozen hearts and hasting feet; To those who go and those who come, Good-bye, proud world, I'm going home

I go to seek my own heart-stone,
Bosomed in yon green hills alone;
A secret lodge in a pleasant land,
Whose grove the frolic fairies planned,
Where arches green the livelong day
Echo the blackbird's roundelay,
And evil men have never trod
A spot that is sacred to thought and God.

Oh, when I am safe in my sylvan home, I mock the pride of Greece and Rome; And when I am stretched beneath the pines, Where the evening star so holy shines, I laugh at the lore and pride of man, At the sophist schools and the learned clan; of the French army, which conveys medical properties direct to the seat of the disease, has been proved in the leading hospitals of Europe to be indispensable for the cure of catarrh, catarrhal deafness, bronchitis, asthma and lung disease. Dr. Souvielle and a body of English and French surgeons and physicians are in charge of this most scientific institution on this continent.

We wish country practitioners who have not had sufficient practise to distinguish the different forms of lung disease to bring their patients to our institute, and we will give them free advice. This institute has been organized by this body of scientific men to place Canada in a position to compete on scientific views with any part of Europe, and to protect the people from the hands of insignificant men. Dr. Sonvielle's spirometer and its preparations were invented after long and careful experiments in chemical analysis and used in hundreds of cases to prove its effects.
