Tit For Tat.

"What have we here?" asked the Czar, as his private chamberlain wheeled into the room a barrow-load of documents. "Your Imperial Majesty," replied the chamberlain, "these are petitions from America protesting against the expulsion of the Jews from your dominions." "Indeed! Are they written on oneside or on both?"

"On one side, sire," "Good! We can utilize the other side by getting up Russian petitions against the deportion of the Chinese from Am-

Railroad Across the Sahara Ballroad Across the Sahara. If the United States could cross our continent with railroads, or if Russia can span Asia with a line of rails, why cannot France cross the Sahara desert with a railroad? Possibly it can. A beginning has been made in that mam-moth undertaking. But the difficulties are incalculable. As soon as those that are now known shall be overcome others will arise. Consider for an instant the enormous obstacles to making a railroad 1,500 miles long through a territory without everything required to sustain

1,000 miles long through a territory without wood or ties, without water, without everything required to sustain life. Railroads have been constructed through countries to which all the materials required have had to be car-ried. But here is a country which does not even supply water for the men who do the work. The sand storms that have buried a thousand carayans are liable to arise and wipe out all traces of man and his work. Yet this stupendous work is now seriously contemplated by the French government. When it is under-taken the rails will be laid from oases to oases, which lie like islands in the great ocean of the desert. JAs it approaches the south the trunk line may be divided, one arm to run to Lake Tchad, and the other to strike the Niger above Timbuc-too, from which point steamers could descend to Senegambia. The work may cost hundreds or even thousands of mil-lions of dollars.

What shall we do now, Mary being dead, © Or say or write, that shall express the half ? What can we do but pillow that fair head, And let the springtime write her epitaph ?

As it will soon, in snowdrop, violet, Wind flower, and columbine, and maiden's tear : Each letter of that pretty alphabet. That spells in flowers the pageant of the year.

Her little life dream, rounded so with sleep, Had all there is of life, except gray hairs— Hope, love, trust, passion and devotion deep ; And that mysterious tie a Mother bears.

She hath fulfilled her promise and hath passed ; Set her down gently at the iron door ! Eyes, look on that loved image for the last ! Now cover it with earth—her earth no more.

Max Muller Decorated. Max Muller Decorated. The Sultan of Turkey has conferred the Order of the Medjidieh on Professor Max Muller. This is a merited tribute to the vast Oriental learning and the deep interest taken by Professor Max Muller in the various Eastern religions, and in Mahometanism in particular. The pres-ent Sultan, who is a somewhat mild and melanchaly Oriental, of Conservative tendencies, has little in common with that section of the official class in Con-stantinople who have been educated abroad and have adopted atheistic and revolutionary sentiments and ideas. He is devotedly attached to the Mussulman faith. For the Sickroom,

For the Sickroom, Do not keep a sick person too long in one room without taking him out and fungating it. Put sulphur in an iron or earthenware pan that will stand the heat and set it on bricks placed in an-other and larger pan containing water up to the top of the bricks. Set the sul-phur on fire : close all the windows and crevices, so it cannot escape. Loosen and hang upon chairs all the clothing to be freahened; keep the door closed six or eight hours; then open all the windows and doors and freely ventilate the room for a day. Forerty Amid Wealth. The secret of persistent involuntary poverty in the midst of super-abundant wealth is not far to seek. "Bar a man from the use of his raw material-the earth—and he cannot work on it. Charge him for permission to use it, and the re-ward of his labor to the extent of that charge is reduced. Make him pay a high enough price, and you reduce him to a bare and precarious subsistence." All this is truism. None can deny it, and who of us does not help to erect and maintain the barrier between the landless poor and their natural right to the use of the earth ?—Knox Church Monthly, (Hamilton). "Why, no," said the applicant, in a surprised tone, "the young lover." "Oh, yes, yes." assented the other, smiling; "that's just it.
