

MISS LAUT'S NEW BOOK.

One of the most important of the Canadian books announced for the coming Autumn unquestionably is Miss Laut's "Pathfinders of the West," which will shortly appear with the imprint of the Macmillan Company on the American edition, and that of William Briggs on the Canadian. This is the best piece of work Miss Laut has yet done. It deals with the explorations of Radisson; the Verendryes, father and son; Hearne, Mackenzie, Lewis and Clark, and derives particular importance from the fact that it gives for the first time the true story of the discovery of the Northwest, which was unknown until 1888, after Parkman had written his works. The chapters composing the book were published separately at various times last year in the Century and Outing, and will be illustrated with drawings by Remington, Marchand & Goodwin, together with reproductions from many new photographs.
