LONDON, June 19.—The anxiety of the Unionists to keep up the appearance of continued strength before the country is very amusing. The result of the Ayr election, which is a really important matter, has as usual, according to the Unionist prints, nothing whatever to do with the Irish Home Rule question, and the fact that the licensing clauses of the Local Government bill were abandoned by public opinion will be officially abandoned by public opinion.

It is understood that the outcome of the Spanish crisis is to make Camper the virtual dictator of the Liberal party. He intends to form an intermediate party supported by about thirty generals of the army, including Goveilar, Salmeron and Morales, and a number of politicians among whom are rated Robledo and Duke Tabara.

BERLIN, June 20.—The uneasy feeling that has pervaded Europe is at the highest point in Berlin. A glance at the newspapers to-day shows the condition of things. In one column there is a long despatch from St. Petersburg, which winds up with the statement that the Emperor has shown his purposes concerning this country. In an adjoining column is a concise expression of the feeling of alarm in Vienna.

THE LAST BARRIERS OF PEACE in Europe was swept away by Frederick's death. Telegrams from Rome say the Emperor's proclamation to his army and navy leave no doubt that the days of peace are over. From every European centre the story is the same.

LONDON, June 21.—The government crisis in the German Ministry, which the late Emperor Frederick brought about, and which apparently ended in the dismissal of Herr von Puttkamer, has not been brought to a settlement as yet.

retain his office a moment unless he had the full confidence of the Conservative members of Parliament. LONDON, June 22.—General Boulanger does not improve on an acquaintance as a public man. He has been accused of putting off an interview when he was Minister of War with Turpin, the inventor of the new explosive (militine), who has since sold his patent to an English firm, thus losing for France the opportunity of possessing herself of the exclusive property in this destructive war material and giving her old enemy, England, a great advantage.

There is a waking up and surrory about in official circles. Journalists are warned to be careful by the banishment of two correspondents from Berlin, two of the foremost in the Empire. Count Walderssee and Prince Bismarck have fallen out, and Sir Moreau Mackenzie is likely to be made to deal with this vexing and unfortunate question at any time during their tenure of office.

LONDON, June 22.—Emperor William's reply to M. Carnot's telegram of condolence is accepted as a further pledge of pacific intentions on the part of the new Prussian King. Further than this, it is said in Paris that the Emperor has hinted it would be agreeable to him and useful to the relations between France and Germany if no change were made in the French Embassy in Berlin.

LONDON, June 22.—The party caucus which Lord Salisbury called for the purpose of investigating the recent Government defeats in and out of Parliament, and of suggesting certain measures calculated to put a stop to such embarrassments in the future, judging from published reports, was a failure.

THE SHAMROCK. By OSCAR WILDE. The shamrock rose is fair to view, An Irish maid's violet's hue, Or greenly tulip filled with dew, A great and great fragrance; But there's a flower more dear to me That grows not on a branch or tree, But in the grass plays merrily, And its leaves there are but three, 'Tis Ireland's native shamrock.

My country's flower, I love it well, For every leaf a tale can tell, And teach the minstrel's heart to swell In praise of Ireland's shamrock; The emblem of our faith divine, Which bless St. Patrick made to shine To teach eternal truth sublime, And which shall last as long as time, And long as breath the shamrock.

Oh, twine a wreath of shamrock leaves; They deck the banners of our chiefs And calm the Irish exile's griefs, Our country's cherished shamrock; The muse inspired by words of praise, The poet of our early days, To list in many a rapt phrase, An Irish in powerful, thrilling lays The virtue of the shamrock.

He who has left his island home Beneath a foreign sky to roam, And in a foreign clime unknown, And where he loves the shamrock, When on the top of Ben Bulbin, He kneels within the church to pray For Holy Ireland far away He feels a young youth's general ray While gazing on the shamrock.

The brightest gem of Eastern flowers That ever bloomed in Eastern bowers Pines for him not half the power That dwells within the shamrock; Sweet memories, like refreshing dew, That past with all its charms review, The Church, the spot where will flow 'neath, The faithful friends, the cherished few, He left to call the shamrock.

Land of the West, my native land, May heaven's love upon thee smile, And banish foes that may beguile The lovers of the shamrock; May God forever cherish thee In peace and love and harmony, And banish all the wrongs that fret, Thus pray thy children fervently For Ireland and the shamrock.

CATHOLIC REACTION IN EUROPE.

IMMENSE GAINING OF STRENGTH IN ALMOST EVERY COUNTRY. Catholicism will be cheered by the pleasing intelligence which comes this week from Europe that a great Catholic reaction is now sweeping over the Continent. Speaking of the desirable change in the political complexion of European affairs, an English Catholic paper intimates that the movement which in France at a leap went up the number of Catholics from eighty to two hundred, and now threatens the very existence of the Government, is not at all exaggerated in presenting the Church in Italy in Germany made the Centre no strong that the Kulturkampf is at an end; which in Italy has won so many movements for the Pope; which in Spain and in Austria has checked all the efforts of the Revolutionary party; which in Belgium has changed the whole force of the national policy, has now been felt in Holland.

THE WORK OF EVANGELIZING EMIGRANTS. A most useful and long needed work has just been begun at Clairfontaine, near Arlon, in Belgium. It is under the auspices of a society of canonically recognized missionaries known under the name of "Congregation de Saint Pierre Claver." Its object is to send priests to accompany Europeans who leave to settle in the two Americas and Australia.

POPE LEO XIII. AND THE ROSARY. It is fitting that there should be recorded the acts of devotion of Pope Leo XIII. concerning the Rosary. The institution at Clairfontaine already has a good number of missionaries belonging to different nationalities since it recruits its members everywhere, in France, Italy, England, Spain, Germany and even in America.

MORLEY OPENS FIRE AND CHARGES BALFOUR WITH MALADMINISTRATION OF THE CRIMES ACT. LONDON, June 25.—In the House of Commons this evening Mr. John Morley moved to censure the Government for its administration of the Irish Crimes Act as calculated to undermine respect for law, estrange the people of Ireland, and prove injurious to the interests of the Empire.

CHASED BY A WILD MAN. A LITTLE GIRL'S FRIGHTFUL EXPERIENCE IN A MASSACHUSETTS TOWN. HARVARD, Mass., June 23.—A veritable wild man, devoid of covering, is roaming about the woods armed. The first intimation that the people had of the strange and unwelcome visitor was on Friday, when a little girl in going to the town centre was started by a man, scantily clothed, springing out at her from behind a wall as she was passing through a lonely piece of woods.

AN OLD FARMER TORTURED. FRIENDSHIP WORK OF A BRACK OF WEST VIRGINIA MIDNIGHT ROBBERS. PARKERSBURG, W. Va., June 13.—Two men stopped at a farm house of Samuel Humbert in Monongahela a night or two ago. When Humbert asked them what they wanted, before opening the door, one of them replied, "A drink of water." As soon as Humbert opened the door the men rushed in, knocked him down and bound him. They then demanded his money, a large amount of which Humbert was reported to have in his possession.

BOURGET COLLEGE, RIGAUD, P. Q. On Monday evening a grand dramatic and musical entertainment was skillfully represented by the students of Bourget College, Rigaud, P. Q. On the following morning the solemn distribution of premiums took place, witnessed by a crowded hall. The proceedings were interspersed with several choice selections, executed in a praiseworthy manner by the College band.

EXERCISE FOR BOYS AND GIRLS. American Magazine. It is useless and worse to persist in claiming that physical exercise for men and women should be alike in degree or kind. In boy's, serious childhood boys and girls may indeed be allowed the same diversions and muscle training; but when their lives begin to separate, by development of sexual instincts (and it is marvelous how early these occasionally manifest themselves), it is no longer practicable nor right to insist upon a similarity of exercise for dissimilar structures. Neither by nature nor by training are men and women alike, and every attempt to make them so in physical capacity only acts injuriously upon the weaker sex.
