The October number of Cassells' Family Magazine is fully up to the high standard of this excellent home monthly. Its illustrated descriptive articles will interest and instruct, and its stories are always safe reading for the household.

We have received the last number of the Educational Record of the Province of Quebec. It is a neat little magazine edited by Mr. G. W. Parmelee and contains excellent and suggestive matter for those engaged in educational work.

"Dietetic Treatment of Gout and Bright's Disease," and "The Pulse and What it Teaches Us," are the leading topics in the October Journal of Hygiene. In "Notes Concerning Health," the editor discusses many matters of great practical importance.

The International Journal of Ethics (Philadelphia) for October opens with a paper on "International Arbitration," by Prof. Westlake, of Cambridge University, England, which is followed by one on "The Settlement of the International Question," by Prof. Pasquali Fiore, of the University of Naples. Other articles are "Is the Family Declining?" "The Moral and Ethical Teaching of the Ancient Zoroastrian Religion," "The Moral Aspect of Socialism," "Hegel's Theory of Punishment," and "The Translation of 'Sittlich,'" are considered in "Discussions."

The October number of the North American Review may fitly be called a Campaign number. It contains articles on campaign subjects by Speaker Reed, the Secretary of the Navy, Andrew Carnegie, Bishop Merrill, Louis Windmuller, and Judge Walter Clark, of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. Judge Clark's article is interesting as being an authoritative outline of the changes which he and other advocates of free silver would make in the Constitution. Mr. Bryan is elected. Among the short articles are: "Purpose in Art," by Harriet Monroe; "The Supreme Court," by George A. Benham, and "An Electric Farm," by George E. Walsh.

The Metric System is vigorously defended against the recent attack of Herbert Spencer in the opening article of Appleton's Popular Science Monthly for October, by Prof. T. C. Mendenhall, former Superintendent of the United States Coast Survey; the eventful history of the "Comstock Lode" and the "Sutro Tunnel" is told in a fully illustrated article on "Nevada Silver," by Charles Howard Shinn. Under the title "Some Beginnings in Science," a fully illustrated account of early teaching at the University of North Carolina is given by Prof. Collier Cobb, and a suggestive essay on "The Educative Value of Children's Questioning," by Henry L. Clapp, whose experience leads him to give a high rating to this mode of acquiring knowledge; besides many other articles on subjects of scientific interest.

The October number of Scribner's Magazine includes in its contents a satirical essay by E. L. Godkin on "The Expenditure of Rich Men;" a discussion of the great problems that underlie "The Government of Greater New York," by Col. F. V. Greene; a paper on the way in which "The New York Working-Girl" has organized to take care of herself; an essay on the work of Olin Warner, the American sculptor who recently died; and a description by Kirk Monroe of the picturesque and romantic features of the lighthouse system along the North Atlantic coast. Mr. and Mrs. Blashfield open the number with an account of the artistic and historical attractions of Siena. This paper is illustrated by a series of Mr. Blashfield's pictures. Mr. Jaccaci's vivid articles "On the Trail of Don Quixote," are concluded. This number contains the last unpublished story of H. C. Bunner, which was found among his papers after his death. It is entitled "In the Wine Cellar." The frontispiece is a colour reproduction of another of Mr. Blashfield's panels, and a brief article in the "Field of Art" discusses these decorations and gives illustrations of the scheme in black and white.
