

6th annual Mountain Craft Show

Last weekend the Mountain Township Lions held their 6th annual Mountain Craft Show at the Agricultural Hall in South Mountain. There were 30 booths full of unique wooden toys, clocks, bowls, and pottery, wax candles and much, much more. Here, at one of the booths, is artist Steve Anderson carving one of his fine bird sculptures.

The Weekly Advance, Wednesday, December 4, 1991

Horse pull

one of 18 teams pulls in the light class of competition

A team competing in Sunday's horse-pulling event steps up to hitch to the weights (pictured,

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — The annual Victoria Day weekend horse pulling competition held at the fairgrounds in South Mountain attracted 50 competitors from across Ontario and Quebec.

Competitor turnout was great, said pull organizer Roy Sherrer of Mountain. And although the crowd was down slightly from last year, he added he was still pleased with the turnout of nearly 500.

The event has retained its popularity over the years, with not only participants travelling long distances to compete but spectators as well. Sherrer said.

Ken McNeely of Kemptville placed second pulling the weight 5 feet, 6 inches, and third was Ken Greer of Hallville with a pull of 5 feet 5 inches.

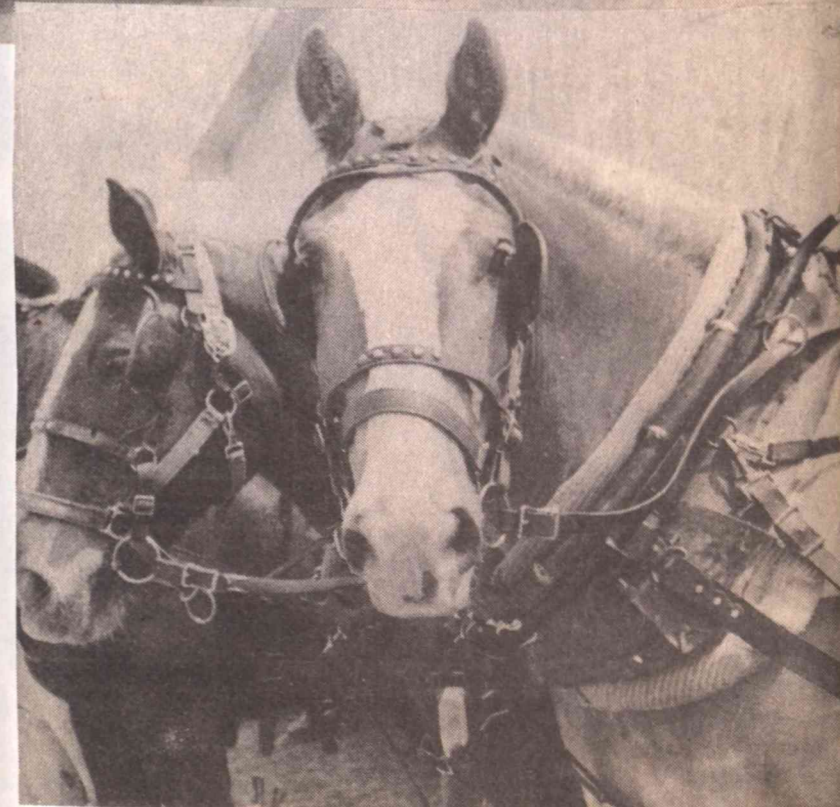

Besides the horse pull competition, a field day was also featured. A pork barbecue was available as well.

This year's South Mountain horse pulling competition held Sunday proved one of the best to date as approximately 50 teams participated in light and heavy classes.

A team of horses get their weight into the horse pull in South Mountain May 17. About a dozen teams of horses and their owners tested their skills on the Fair Grounds. This duo was staggering under 1,850 pounds of concrete.

The Weekly Advance, Wednesday, May 20, 1992

The Winchester Press Wed., May 20, 1992