

A View of the LARK and WARWICK, when the

The Position of the Glorioso, Lark, and Warwick, at Three o'Clock in the Morning: when the Montague, immediately after the Warwick's firing a Gun, came to acquaint Capt: Crookshanks, by Order of Capt: Erskine, that the Warwick was a Wreck, and to desire his immediate Assistance.

Favor

2500

2000

5500

2000

500

THE Lark, at 11 o'Clock at Night, being a-breast of the Glorioso, and distant 500 Yards or less, Stretched a-head to gain the wind, the Warwick, being about 400 Yards astern of the Lark, put about, & stood to the Northward at the same time the Lark & Enemy were firing at each other.

The Glorioso, keeping an easy sail, follow'd the Lark to Ashen wore Ship, & hauled to the wind a small space of time, after which she bore down on the Warwick, to meet her at the greatest Extent of Distance from the Lark, to bring her to a separate Engagement.

REFERENCE