A Fortune Lost.
A remarkable story of lost opportunities was told at the Peterborough bankruptcy court on March 14 by Charles Ives, Hulls, an osier grower, etal, in the promotion of a new and interesting invention which won the $100 prize for the best invention of the kind, given by the Cyclists' Touring Club last year.

Ives made overtures, naming $25,000 for the "all world" patent rights. Debtated, and it was not until the opening of the court that the patent for this country had not been fully protected.

FEARS LOSS OF CAR SERVICE SINCE CITY BOUGHT PARK

Residents of Beaches Look Askance at Plans of Street Railway.

"It is a mystery to everybody down here why the deal was engineered so quickly and so quietly."

This was the statement made last night regarding the purchase by the city, on Commissioner Forman's recommendation, of the Lee-avenue "park" property, by F. M. Baker, a prominent resident and property owner of Kew Beach.

"The land is very low and swampy.
For this reason, a large portion of it has not been used for building, altho the land all around it has been taken up for this purpose, and it will be a very difficult matter indeed to have it drained out," he continued.

Mr. Baker's decided opinion was that the city had made a very great mistake in not accepting the offer of Munro and have been acquired for about $75,000 or $80,000. While these properties were outside the city limits, both East Toronto and the little portion of York county embraced were anxious to be incorporated by the city, and would probably be brought into the fold sooner or later.

Mr. Baker said that residents in the neighborhood were afraid that, now that the acquisition of the Lee-avenue properties had faded out of view as a possibility, the street railway, in the event of a decision of the privy council, might not be built, and that the city limits at the time the agreement was signed, might not be able to take of the city council's action is that letting the Leuty Park go and wished to make amends, but a very poor subject was chosen.

"It is absurd for the city to buy property and arrange to allow the owner to live on it and to pay him money for the rest of his life," added Mr. Baker.

A FRENCH TRAGEDY.
Suicide of a Count in His Sweet-heart's Presence.

Paris, March 26.—In a small hotel, opposite the Saint Lazare railway station, an idyllic love affair between a French count and a pretty woman was recently brought to a sudden and tragic conclusion by the young man's suicide before the eyes of his sweetheart. The count was only twenty-three years of age, of fine appearance and a great favorite in drawing-rooms.

Having become infatuated with a very pretty young woman, he took a room in an hotel near the Gare Saint Lazare, where he would be free to meet her when he liked. The two lovers seemed to be very happy, and recently some trouble arose, over which the count was desperately distressed.

The count was desperately distressed, and the woman, in love with him, was not at all deterred by his affection he would kill himself.

The disputes, however, did not seem to end, and on Monday morning a discussion began between them as soon as they met at the hotel. They shut themselves up in the room, where, it became the disagreement continued.

After some time, when the count seemed to have said all he had to say, he quietly took out a revolver from his pocket, loaded it while the woman had her back turned to him, and fired a shot thru his head.

As the woman heard the report and saw him fall on the floor, she screamed and rushed into the hall to call for help. The young man was dead, lying in a dying condition to the hospital. He lingered on for eight hours unable to speak, and expired the evening.

quitted. He died a peaceful peasant.

HELEN BYRON
In the Military Comedie Opera "Sergent Kitty"—Grand.

has won for her the most approving notices from even the most jaded critics, and it is also effective. "Sergeant Kitty" is full of bright and witty lines, and its music of successes, among them "The Gingerbread Man." R. H.
Burnside wrote the book, and he succeeded in evolving a very rational story, told in an atmosphere of hilarity.

Ellen Terry's return to this city is an event of unusual interest in a season already interesting. She has never been seen here before, except in the company of Henry Irving. No one ever cared to dispute the position of this twin as the master and the mistress of dramatic art. The master is no more, but the mistress remains, and it is to be hoped she may remain many years longer to charm, divert and instruct with her consummate art. According to William Winter, who began dramatic criticism almost as soon as she began acting, "There has never been another Ellen Terry, there will never be another." Additional interest to her present engagement is lent by the fact that she will make her first appearance in a play that was written especially for her by Bernard Shaw, and which has already been read by thousands of Shaw's admirers. Lady Cloely Waverley is the only feminine character in the play. By her woman's wit and charm, she diverts from a life purpose of revenge—a fierce pirate and brigand, and almost makes a gentleman of him, and narrowly escapes marrying him herself. Her adventure border upon the melodramatic, but the keen shafts of Shaw's satire cause the audience to regard the brilliant wit and delicious fun more than the broader melodramatic elements of the play.

An important offering to the patrons of the Majestic Theatre next week will be "Young Buffalo, King of the Wild West." This play is a typical American one; it is founded on wild western life. The cast contains real Indians, cowboys and a heroic young plainsman, "Young Buffalo," the hero and "King of the Wild West," is an ex-cowboy, mine and son of a former ranch owner. His genius for the stage was brought to notice two years ago, and he was thoroughly trained in melodramatic acting. He is a splendid scenic equipment has been provided. During the week a matinee will be given every day.

The Easter Monday "Festival of the Lilies" has now become an annual event, and thousands of music lovers look forward with anticipation. The program for the "Festival" on Monday evening next comprises some new features. The children's choir of 600 voices will render new choruses and part songs under the direction of Mr. R. E. Cringan. Solo numbers will be rendered by Mr. Arthur Blight, baritone; Mr.
Chas. E. Riener, tenor, and Miss Ethel Sherris, soprano. Artists exercises specially arranged by Mrs. G.
B. Somers will complete an exceptionally interesting program. The plan is rapidly filling up, and those who desire seats will need to apply early.

No expense is being spared by the management of the production of "The Prates of Penzance" in giving the opera a presentation in keeping with its merits. Massey Music Hall will be transformed into one of the most modern theatres by removing the front rows of seats and building an extension to the platform. A handsome curtain will then be draped over the entire south end of the platform excepting the proscenium opening, thus leaving a space of about 50 by 40 feet for the stage, which will equal that of the largest theatres. Special scenery is now being built, and an electric plant is to be installed that will give lighting effects equalled in no local theatre. The performance is to be given under the auspices of the Queen's Own Rifles and the Argonaut Tovard Club, April 18, 19 and 20, with a Saturday matinee. With a trained chorus of 60 members, 10 solo artists, a children's ballet of 8, and an orchestra of 20, all under the direction of Mr. E. W. Schuch, the production promises to be a wonderful success.

The San Carlo Opera Company, which comes to Massey Hall on April 22 and 23, has been giving a season in Oakland, California, where the facilities for grand opera are much better than in San Francisco, on account of the grand new Liberty Theatre seating 2100 people.

The people of the Pacific coast speak in the highest terms of the operatic company of this company. The company is possessed of two very magnetic and attractive prima donnas in Madame Nordica and Miss Nellie Nelson. They have also a very fine tenor in Senor Constantino. The company carries a large chorus, and a special stage will be built at an interesting season in Toronto.
Massey Hall, as was done at the time of the visit of the Prince of Wales, the opera will be produced with full scenery and all the comforts of a Public Amusements

The engagement of "The Prince of Pleasant" at the Princess Theatre for three nights commencing Monday, April 8, is attracting an unusual degree of attention, judged by the box office demand, and the favorable impression made by the Fidelity and Luders musical play here some seasons ago has not been effaced. The company's encoined promises an admirable measure of excellence, and it is a fact that Manager Henry W.
Savage takes a special interest in maintaining able musical comedy at the highest possible notch of excellence in equipment and cast. Jess Dandy will have the role of Hans Wagner. The usual Wednesday matinee will be given.

The special train of ten cars which brings to this city the Savage English Grand Opera Company, and its production of "Madame Butterfly," was chartered when the company left New York and continues with the organization on its cross-continent stage. Without an exception "Madame Butterfly" is the biggest theatrical organization on tour in the United States. The massive scenic production of the Puccini opera requires four baggage cars to transport. There are nearly 150 members in the company, and their belongings are packed in 301 pieces of baggage.
Savage himself carries a special crew of twenty-five men who supervise the staging of the enormous show. Two cars in the special train are set aside for the symphony orchestra of fifty-seven musicians, every one of whom is carried by the company. In no city is the house orchestra allowed to play for the grand opera. In addition to all these there is a grand opera chorus and the three sets of prima pals, besides two additional prima donnas, who are held in reserve for the "Madame Butterfly" roles. "Madam Butterfly," as a production, is said to represent an investment of $75,000. It cost Henry W. Savage $75,000 to transport the company, and that much money before the curtain was raised on the first American performance in Washington. The actual running expenses of the show, transportation, salaries of the artists, etc., amount to upwards of $12,000 a week, a trifling less than was expended each week for "Parsifal" when that was presented in English.

Monday afternoon "Sergeant Kitty" with Helen Byron as the star of the cast, will be seen at the Grand. Miss Byron, who will be well remembered here, is a bright and clever actress, with a zest that permeates the entire cast. She sings a number of solos that are sure to prove a hit in their swing and rhythm, among them "Love," ran-dered with full chorus. There is a dainty manner about Miss Byron that

A COMPARISON.
H. J. Pettipiece in Forest Free Press.
"The St. Clair tunnel, with equal in Ontario and in Michigan, the Grand Trunk is putting in at an immense cost, a plant for operating the tunnel by electrical power. The taxes paid on the Michigan end of the tunnel in 1905 amounted to $7,500, and on the Ontario end only $652.31. In the face of this, the electric power house, all machinery, etc., are being located on the Michigan side, nothing being put on this side, except the towers to carry the wires. This means that all the wages and other benefits go to Michigan, and when the Michigan tax collector calls he will take from the electrical plant over ten times as much as the Ontario collector would take.

In the face of these facts, Mr. Matheson's argument, if of any force, has been applied the wrong way. Fair taxation appears to have stimulated railway development and induced the investment of capital, rather than retarded either. The battle for "Equal Taxation" is not yet ended.

For Higher Coal Prices.
Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Dispatch.
Efforts have been made in the last few weeks by independent coal operators of the Lehigh field to prevail on the present prices of coal after April 1, when the usual spring reduction is due, and to increase the price after September next. The coal trade schedule of rates goes into effect.
The appeal was based on the increased cost of supplies, such as iron, steel, steel, lumber and oil, which are needed in coal mining.

It can be stated authoritatively that the plan for an increase next September was not considered favorably by the railroads. It is by no means certain, however, that prices will not be increased, as some of the railroad man now declare that something must be done. It is reported also that winter prices on some small sizes will be maintained after April 1.

who recommended the use of PSYCHINE.
It was surprising beyond description the effect it had. I seemed to gain with ever-
