

The strongest argument in favor of our "ready-made" is our ready fit. You expect the tailor to fit you. Your expectations can be realized here at half the tailor's price—another strong argument. We don't make to-order but we make to fit. We have all styles, shapes and makes of goods. If a garment does not fit perfectly we alter it. The alteration does not cost you a cent.

HIS HEAD SMASHED TO PULP

The Shocking Death of a Railroad Workman on the Grand Trunk.

Unfortunate Italian Was Almost Decapitated Near Stoney Creek — Court Judgment Reserved by the Magistrate — Hamilton News in General.

Hamilton, Aug. 30.—(Special).—An Italian working for the Grand Trunk road repairing gang, near Stoney Creek, met with a shocking death early this morning. He was standing on the step of one of the board-frog cars as it was being shunted, and was looking towards the engine, when his head came in violent contact with a cattle head standing on the track side. The top of the Italian's head was mashed into pulp, and the head was almost torn from the body. Coroner Thompson of Stoney Creek was sent for, but he could do nothing. The remains were brought to the city and placed in the hospital morgue. Deceased was a young man, whose home was in Buffalo. His name was Sheffer, and he had two brothers working on the road. Coroner Philip, city, concluded an inquest was unnecessary.

Judgment To-Day.—The case of the alleged procuress, Mrs. Maud Gibson, was further heard at the Police Court to-day. The young women, Ida Dawson and Lillian McLean, who were brought back from the Falls on Saturday gave evidence. Ida Dawson admitted that she went to Lockport of her own accord. Counsel for the prisoner argued there was no case against the prisoner, "as she had not induced Lewis to go with her. The Crown Attorney holds the same view, but the Magistrate held that it made no difference whether or not the girl went of her own free will. He, however, reserved his decision till to-morrow.

Methodists in Session.—The quarterly meeting of the Hamilton Methodist district was held this afternoon in Hannah-street Church. Rev. John Wakefield was chairman and Rev. Dr. Clark secretary. Arrangements were made for missionary meetings throughout the district, and the superintending committee, ministers and congregations were fixed. It was decided to memorialize the General Conference on the question of prohibition and the plebiscite.

Minor Matters.—Mr. W. C. Barnfather, for 40 years locomotive foreman and engineer, has resigned.

Stories Which Make the Hearts of the People Thrill With Indignation.

Private Soldiers Have to Endure Anguish in Silence. Not Daring to Make Complaint Against Their Officers—"It is Hell to Let a Man Die Like That," Said Private Rich, and He Was Arrested, Though Sick-Parrett's Suffering and Death.

Camp Wikoff, Aug. 29.—(New York World Special).—Would you know how Private Hugh Parrett died? Then read this story of facts gathered one by one in twenty interviews with men, whose names, for private reasons, cannot be printed. The private suffers anguish of body and mind. Sergeant C. Rich, who is ill with fever and under arrest, will tell you that. Anger, great and righteous, caused this veteran to forget the code of ethics for a private when he heard of his companion's death, and he savagely exclaimed to the surgeon: "It is hell to let a man die like that!"

That was enough, Rich, burning with anger and tears in his eyes, was placed under arrest, and expects to be court-martialed if he ever gathers the strength to answer for the incident. Parrett, poor fellow, should have been seen by Secretary Alger on Saturday. The unofficial report of that Cabinet Minister might have been different. Parrett was a private in Company D of the Eighth Infantry. He came with his comrades from Santiago on the Mobile. Like most his comrades, he was suffering from the effects of the awful Cuban campaign. His flesh was worn to the bone by disease and exhaustion. His skin was a yellowish brown. He had the famine eye, sunken and lifeless. He was burning with fever and weak with dysentery. He struggled against this state of disease until he became helpless in his tent.

Hundreds in Like Condition.—The condition of this man was not essentially different from that of hundreds of others who were suffering by reason of causes now well known. The purpose of this story is to show the cruel neglect which brought death upon a man who was in the hands of his officers.

This private was taken to a tent, which is No. 5 on the north side of Company D's street. The tent was pitched in a place where the Eighth Infantry is quartered. The tent is of the regulation size, about seven feet by seven feet in dimensions, two by three in height. The tent was crowded with four. Four men were in it, including Parrett. The others were Private James McLeod, who goes to Peterboro as physical director.

A BOUND-UP OF YAGS.—Police kept busy in their efforts to vanquish exhibition loiterers—Several arrests. The opening day of the Industrial Exhibition was a busy one for the police and detectives. They knew him of old. Joseph Fitzstephen of Smith's Falls, a well-known crook, was locked-up at noon by Detective Cuddy, charged with being implicated in the burglary at Thomas Vance's home, 197 McCaul-street, some time ago.

Another Man Corralled.—Detective Cuddy also ran across Bartholomew Calahan and placed him under arrest for the theft of an odd pair of boots from Matthew Proulx.

He'd Been There Before.—Demis Henry, an old penitentiary bird, only just released because the authorities expected that he would die from consumption, snatched three coats from the clothing store at 163 Yonge-street last night. Benjamin Muldrew saw him and told P. C. Townsend, who arrested Henry and sent him to headquarters in the patrol wagon.

He Won't See the Fair.—John Burrows, 197 Springfield-avenue, a man without any visible means of support, was also a prisoner in the quarters, and it is quite likely he will remain in the care of the police until after the fair.

Pleaded for Liberty.—Detective Stelm and acting Detective Forrest were taking a look around Adelaide and York-streets about 9 o'clock last night, when they saw two suspicious-looking characters, whom they thought it would be just as well to have in charge while the exhibition visitors were in town. At the station they gave their names as Fred Bennett of Bradford and John Douglas of York-street, Toronto. Both men made an urgent appeal to Detective Burrows, the officer on duty, to be allowed to go. Bennett stated that he would leave the town in an hour, and Douglas claimed that he had a job to go to this morning. The two men were then released, with the understanding that they would keep to their promises.

Argument Heard Yesterday at Osgoode Hall—Judgment Reserved on All Points. Yesterday Mr. Wallace Nesbitt, acting for Mr. Charles Calder, M.L.A. of South Ontario, appeared before Mr. Justice Oleser at Osgoode Hall, to set aside the election petition against Mr. Calder. Mr. Nesbitt argued that the petition was null and void, as Mr. Calder was on the voters' list and had every right to act. Mr. Nesbitt further claimed that Mr. Pilkey did not act in good faith, and that the petition was decided upon at a meeting at which Mr. Pilkey was in attendance. Next day the petitioner swore that the charges were correct, and Mr. Nesbitt quoted two cases in New Brunswick where petitions were voided on similar grounds. Judgment was reserved on all the points.

KEEP THE BLOOD COOL.

By Using the Great Natural Blood Cooler, Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Ensure Perfect Digestion, and Perfect Digestion Gives Cool, Rich Blood—Cool, Rich Blood Means Perfect Health. When a man is in the most deadly danger, the surest way to escape safely is to—KEEP COOL.

When, as in these sultry days of mid-summer, the blood's temperature rises far above its normal point, grave danger to health and life results. The only way to escape this danger is to keep the Blood Cool.

A great many of us endeavor to do this by drinking what are called "cooling drinks," which, by causing a sudden change in the temperature, create a danger as grave as that they are supposed to prevent.

Many others drink alcoholic liquors, which have the same effect as adding fuel to the fire. There is one safe, sure and simple way of cooling the blood. That is by using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

There is only one natural way to cool the blood, and to keep it cool—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets make it cool at the fountain, thus ensuring a cool stream. The San Marcos also brought the attention of the volunteers and the regulars.
