A. E. Ferte and his six pretty helpers hold forth in a large room kindly donated for the use of the campaign by The O'Brien Business College. Mr. Ferte has the sweet job of tabulating and filing all applications. It is "some" job, but he has it down to a science.

Sid Little is not as slow with his team as he is with his cow, for the Gum-Sox still lead the "Macs" by a substantial margin. Atta boy, Sid. P. D. Ball's team headed the list yesterday. The salesmen disposed of $66,900 worth of bonds in the resi-dential districts Friday. The Robinson, Little & Co. has set a record for bond buying that will be hard to equal in Canada. Every member of the staff down to the of-fice boy has bought a bond, and not only that, but 40 per cent of the an-nual pay roll has been subscribed. The employees have just bought four times as many bonds as the industrial committee thought they would. Controller Sid Little may well have been proud to hurry from headquarters and post up the four honor flags that the company is en-

Don't forget the A. M. Smith Company. For the second time in succession, the company has gone 100 per cent efficiency, every employee investing in a bond.

The salesman stated that this morning was a poor one for house-to-house canvassing, as the good wives were down at the market try-ing to save a little on their buying to help pay for the bonds they are going to buy.

The card filing system, in charge of Miss Marjorle Hedley at head-quarters, is a wonder. By 10 o'clock each day, Miss Hedley has the result of every call made by the salesmen the previous day, tabulated and filed away.

The Oak Hall Comapny has subscribed for a $1,000 bond for the London branch. The same is being done for the other eight branches.

The hello girls are the saving and patriotic bunch. Ninety-five of the Bell Telephone employees have subscribed for $9,000 worth of Victory Bonds, and it is expected that they

"Many hands make light work," said Gordon Philip, as he looked over the following list of men who reckoned Friday's total: G. W. Blay, W. F. Harper, Trevor Holm, Leo Detwiler, H. R. Laurie, Geo. A. Sears, J. P. Moore, Allan McLean, S. Hudgell, C. L. Edy, O. D. Newton, C. W. Eastwood, C. D. McKenna, C. Lawton.

The Kauffmann Rubber Company London branch, subscribed $10,000 for bonds today. Wish we could stretch our subscription that much.

Competition among the employees of D. S. Perrin & Co. Is at a high pitch. It is a case of Candy Factory against Biscuit Factory employees. Buying Victory Bonds is a sweet game.

A. E. Ferte pays the following tribute to the girls who are filing away the bond applications under his direction: Jessie, Sadle, Dorothy and Kate, Are always on time and never late Watch out for conversions,

Be sure and don't miss them,

And then we'll be thankful,

And just say "God bless 'em."

"Lend me half a billion," Says Sir Thomas White, "And I'll keep the factories Working day and night."

Bill Martin doesn't think that brother Charlie works hard enough. Last night, when Charlie's returns for the day came in, William proceeded to tear his brother's collar off. Bill, apparently, has the courage of his convictions.

George H. Davis and J. M. Mc-Auliffe sold the first bonds at the C. P. R. roundhouse to women workers dressed in khakl. Just another case of ladies first. Mr. Davis was so elated at the sales made that while his mind was up in the clouds, he fell into the pit of the turntable.

"How are you keeping?" sald a voice over the phone this morning to "Cap" Kaplansky, the hustling secretary of the Industrials.
"Can't keep anything. I'm buying bonds," replied Michael, as he turned to his heaped, up desk to his heaped-up desk. The industrial committee wishes the working men of the city to know that it is just as easy to obtain money on a bond as it is to draw it from a bank account. If you have money in the bank, buy a bond, and get the extra interest until you need the money.

Any working man paying cash for a bond can borrow up to 90 per cent from any bank by paying cur-rent discount rates. Money invested in Victory Bonds is as accessible as

He was advised to get ready to reopen his institution upon the 11th.

Strong Argument.

It was then, and not till then, that he offered his last argument. He did not want to drag in the names of other institutions allowed to re-open. If the argument re loss applied to them, it possibly applied to him more. He did not charge pupils in absence owing to sickness. He had not taken in the price of a dinner during the closing down of his school, while his expenses went on the same. In view of the fact that he had only started up here a year and a half ago, investing everything in that he had only started up here a year and a half ago, investing everything in paying cash for equipment, etc., the loss to him was an exceedingly serious matter. "Perhaps if I were a bigger interest," he said, "this would carry more weight. As it is. I am willing to conform to every possible suggestion of the board to protect the students if allowed to reopen."

The board finally left it to the chairman, Mr. Russell, and M. O. H. Dr. Downsam to see the school and report, Mayor Somerville making the motion to this effect.

Another phase of today's investigation that attracted interest was the fact that the 'rain was composed of wooden cars, ceclared to be at least 25 years old. It was said there was not a steel-bodied car in the train of five cars, and when the death-dealing crash came most of the cars were reduced to splinters. In the opinion of members of the public service commission the death list would have been considerably smaller had have been considerably smaller had steel cars been operated.
