Comfort for skin-tortured babies and rest for tired, fretted mothers.

Is your little one a sufferer from itching, burning eczema, or other torturing, disfiguring skin eruption? Are you, yourself, worn out by long, sleepless nights and constant anxiety? And have you tried treatment after treatment without avail? Then read in these remarkable cases of proof of what Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have done, throughout the world, for just such cases as yours.

Canada
When my boy was about three months old, he had broke out with a rash which was very itchy and ran a watery fluid. We tried everything we could think of, but all the time, till it spread to his arms, legs and then to his entire body. He got so bad that he could not sleep. He would lie on his back with his arms and legs out, and he would not let me touch him. I had to put him in a bath tub to prevent him scratching his skin. He was so weak and ran down that he had to be fed with a spoon. He was almost a skeleton and his little hands were thin like sticks.

Australia
The trouble that affected my little girl started in her head like measles. This was all over her head. The head itched and it was in the form of a crust and all the hair came off. It was very thick. She could not sleep, and I began to think she would never get better. I tried all kinds of remedies but all to no avail. She was like this for over three months until I tried a box of Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap. I had not used them before, but I was so desperate that I tried them. I had not used them before, but I was so desperate that I tried them. I had not used them before, but I was so desperate that I tried them.

Scotland
When our little boy Andrew was four months old, little red spots came on his head and face. Then they spread all over his head, so I took him to my doctor and he gave me an ointment to use. The spots became more and more, and the ointment did not do any good. Then I took him to the hospital. They gave me ointment which did no good. He was then a mass of sores on the head and face, and the child was suffering dreadfully. He would scratch the sores till they bled, so we had to tie his hands. The child was crying all the time with the terrible sore.

United States
I have a little baby almost a year old. When it was two months old it got eczema on top of both her hands, on her face and inside her nose and mouth. The rash spread and one of her eyes almost closed up. A hard crust formed and would crack open and the blood ran out. It itched so frightfully that the poor little girl could not rest. We had to keep her hands on her face and her mother was forced to sit in a rocking chair with the baby day and night. We had a very good doctor and he did all that he possibly could to relieve the baby's torture, but the results were not what we had looked for.

Trial Treatment Free
That all may try without expense this treatment which, for more than a generation, has maintained its position as the standard remedy for most economical skin and scalp humors of young and old, a liberal sample of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment with 32-p. book on skin troubles, will be sent, post-free, on application to Fetter Drug & Chem. Corp., 80 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

IT WAS as an afternoon tea. "Who is that distinguished looking woman over there?" I heard a stranger say.

"Why that's Mrs. R." was the answer. Now Mrs. R. is one of my closest neighbors, and I turned with interest to look at her through the eyes of a stranger who saw her as distinguished looking.

And although I had lived too closely to her to quite realize that before, I admitted it now. Yes, she was rather distinguished looking. In the group of women who chatted over their afternoon tea cups one would have undoubtedly noticed her among the first.

But why? I studied her for some moments before I answered my own question and then made this decision: Chiefly because in that gathering of marble waves and puffs and ruffs and coronet heads, Mrs. R.'s soft hair was parted and done very simply. She has an excellently shaped head and this simplicity showed off its fine contour admirably.

If you looked at the group of five of which she was one, I'm sure you would have seen her first, just because she had distinguished herself in this way. She made me think, somehow, of one of those beautiful old houses set far back from the street in stately simplicity, that occasionally delight the eye that is averted of the flouting showiness of its much more expensive neighbors.

Now, the greatest desire of woman-kind is to be noticed—there's no blinking it, no glossing it. Acknowledged, unacknowledged, conscious or deeply unconscious, that is the purpose of all the silks and laces and masses of training and high heeled pumps and gossamer stockings and knowledge of French and German, and pearls and jewels and artistic ecstasies which we bedeck our minds and bodies—to win other men and women's attention.

And here is this woman winning attention in the simplest manner possible—by being natural when all the rest of the world elects to be artificial. And isn't she worth imitating? Quickly, of course, before the rank and file grow tired of artificiality and decide to affect simplicity again, and simplicity consequently ceases to be a distinction.

Indeed, fashion notes inform us that such a move is likely to be made soon, so if you like my suggestion and decide you would like to find some simple, graceful, becoming method of wearing your hair, and thus easily winning the title of distinguished looking, now is your time. You'd better not wait a day, but pull off those puffs and ruffs this very day and try it.

SUSSEX AND FREDERICTON HEAR GREAT SPEECHES ON RECIPROCITY COMPACT

Great Success Attends Opening of Series of Meetings Addressed by Messrs. Guthrie, Clark and Neely, M. P.'s—Reception Shows New Brunswick Strongly Favors the Agreement

Sussex, May 6—Townpeople of Sussex and sturdy yeomen of Kings to the number of nearly 1,000 filled the new Opera House this evening at the first of the series of the Liberal reciprocity meetings to be held in New Brunswick, and plainly demonstrated that the sentiment of New Brunswick farmers, in this section at least, is overwhelmingly in favor of closer trade relations with the United States. Not only

"We have in Canada today," he went on, "in power the real imperial party and the only imperialist government Canada had ever had. Down through the long record of Conservative rule I challenge anyone to put a finger on a single act of benefit to the empire.

"Sir Wilfrid will go to the imperial conference and should be successful in realizing his great ideal of free trade within the empire the very first men to oppose him by the close attention given the speakers, the frequent outbursts of applause, and the cheers at the close, but by verbal expression as they stood in groups discussing the meeting afterwards, did those in attendance express approval of the arguments advanced in the earnest address of Dr. D. H. McAlister, M. P., and the eloquent effort of Hugh Guthrie, M. P. for South Wellington. In the audience were a good number of ladies and that they were

would be the protectionists, manufacturers and Tories who are raising the loyalist cry today. Their patriotism consists largely of flag-waving and platform shouting."

Mr. Guthrie's plain reasoning and common sense in discussing the trade pact from a business standpoint appealed strongly to the audience and his exposition of how the cost of living will be reduced and at the same time farmers' prices raised was accepted as very convincing.

Senator King also characterized as utter trash, a statement made by H. B. Ames, at the recent anti-reciprocity meeting held here, when he said that real estate had increased in value 50 per cent in Maine and about double that in New Brunswick. In his opinion, real estate in New Brunswick, especially in the country districts, had decreased in value rather than increased. He cited as an illustration the case of a farmer on the St. John river, who owned a farm that 40 years ago was purchased for $40,000 and who today would be glad if he could get a buyer at half that figure. He thought if the reciprocity agreement did not go through, it would be worth still less.

Dr. Clark discussed the evils of nations. High prices were being everywhere traced to protection. The moneyed interests were those opposing reciprocity; the middle classes wanted it. Reciprocity would give the Canadian farmer a better market in the United States and yet reduce prices in Canada.

Canada's trade would increase greatly, production would increase, land would become more valuable.

IN FREDERICTON
Brilliant Addresses By Dr. Clark and Dr. Neely on the Great Question of the Day

Fredricton, N. B., May 7—The electors of Fredericton last night had an opportunity of hearing two brilliant Liberal members from the west discuss reciprocity. The speakers were Dr. Michael Clark, M. P. of Alberta, and Dr. B. D. Neely, of Humboldt (Sask.). In spite of the fact that Saturday night is not a favorable night on which to hold meetings, a goodly audience was present.

Prominent Liberals from all parts of York county were in attendance, and were seated upon the platform of the Opera House. C. P. Chestnut was in the chair.

Dr. Neely was the first speaker and was followed by Dr. Clark. Both were listened to with the utmost attention, and they held the audience until the last. Dr. Neely discussed the question of the benefits of reciprocity, more particularly from the living across the boarder, coming back to take up the farms they deserted years ago, and raising goods to ship to the American market. I believe the majority of those who have gone from here are still loyal to Canada and would be glad to come back, if they could see an opportunity of making good."
