HALIBUT SCHOONER

BUFFETED IN GALE

Crew Forced to Throw Cargo of Fish Overboard-Finally Reaches Port

Prince Rupert, Oct. 25.-The large nuxiliary engined halibut fishing schooner Princess Victoria put in to Prince Rupert the other night for pro-

Captain Clark and the owners were aboard, and told of the trying experiences they have come through during the recent heavy weather out off the halibut banks.

The schooner which is dependent upon her sail power more than her gasoline auxiliary engines, in heavy weather, had completed a pretty successful spell on the halibut banks and was about to make for Prince Rupert with a good haul of fish when the gale which has been raging outside and over the city recently swept down on her. For hours the sturdy schooner enleavored to buck against the head wind and heavy sea her auxiliary engines doing their utmost, and captain, owners, and crew of eight men ill told working like Trojans to make their port and handling the boat splendidly.

Their best efforts, however, failed to help the schooner make headway against the heavy squalls, and sea that unning tremendously swept her steadily backwards in spite of the full speed ahead efforts of her gasoline engines. To make progress against the gale by beating under sail was hopeless, and meanwhile valuable hours considering the cargo of fresh halibut were being lost. lost. After repeated stubborn efforts conquer the elements warring against them Captain Clark and his men were forced to give up the unequal contest, and the weather hourly growing worse, they had to run for shelter to Port Chester. Unfortunately there was now no longer any hope of their landing their cargo of fish in marketable condition, so the whole lot had to go overboard by the ton, and the toil of the hardy fishermen was wasted.

The Princess Victoria was built at ndustry.

Nanaimo, Oct. 25.—The funeral of Samuel Booth, the man whose body was found floating in the waters of the harbor on Friday last, took place Sun-An inquest for the purpose of inquir ing as to the cause of death was held last night by Coroner Davis. Provincial Constable Hannay gave evidence as to having been informed of the finding of the body. Measurements of the body were taken, also several photographic views, and pieces of clothing, etc., for future identification He also found a letter on the body of the deceased which bore the name of Vancouver employment agency directuel Booth and was accompanied by six other men, all of whom were to go to work on the railroad extension. One of Whitman states he was acquainted with the deceased, having first met him at Pender harbor last July. During a conversation Booth had told Whitman
