A Prayer for Christmas

By the Rev. J. E. Hugheson, B.A., Grace Church, Winnipeg

OUR GRACIOUS FATHER, Thou hast entered into fellowship with our humanity, in the Person of Thy Son, our Saviour, Who is called Immanuel, God with us. May we come with confidence to Thy great heart of love, and feel Thy presence in these lives we live. We are weak, but Thou art strong. We would place our hand of weakness within Thy hand of help, and have our faltering footsteps guided and upheld by Thee.

Since Thou hast made Thy dwelling with the sons of men, our daily life can never more be treated as a common thing. May we feel that every place is sacred, and all our work divine. We would ask Thy blessing upon the toiler at bench or forge or furnace, that as he wipes the sweat from his heated brow, he may realize his fellowship with the Carpenter of Nazareth, and lose the drudgery of his daily duties in the joy of service. Wilt Thou enter into partnership with all who labor, with hand or brain, at desk or counter, in street or school, that the humblest tasks may be faithfully performed, in the consciousness that we are workers together with Thee.

May the spirit of peace on earth and good will toward men reign in every heart. Touch the chords of our better nature, silence the discords of hate and prejudice and bitterness, and awaken the angel song within us. May we look for the best and not the worst in those we meet. Help us to forgive the weaknesses of others, because we have our own weaknesses. Give us grace to keep our hearts pure, our lives clean, and our spirits helpful. May we be careful of our judgments and sparing of our criticisms, because we know so little of another's heart. And while we live in God's good world may we hear the music of His love, in the laughter of children, in the greetings of friends, in the gifts of Christmas-tide, and in the good that we may do.

Speak Thou to the nations of the earth, and grant that peace may come with righteousness, and brotherhood encircle the race. May we come out of the fires through which we are passing with our prejudices burned away, and every barrier broken down, that the children of a common Father may no longer be kept apart by hatred, misunderstanding and strife.

Breathe upon us Thy spirit, O Lord, and make us like Thyself. Brood o'er the world and may a better day be born. And amid the clouds that sometimes gather may we never doubt the fulfilment of Thy purposes. "The Lord reigneth, let the earth rejoice."
