

Wm. Winship Appointed New Gateway Editor

For the second year in a row, a man born in a coal mining district will be editor of The Gateway. For the third year in a row, he is a hill-country type.

William J. Winship, arts 3, has been appointed editor-in-chief by the outgoing Students' Council. As editor, he will be the official campus conscience — and rap council's nose when council gets out of line. Of course, council might try to rap him — but Bill will be able to handle council on the basis of experience in this year's Gateway regime, in which he has held the position of managing editor—as well as advertising manager.

Bill Winship was born in Drumheller, Alberta, on August 2, 1941. He lived in a small town called Rosedale, near Drumheller, for 11 years. To Calgary in 1953 and to Edmonton in 1958. Here

Winship attended Strathcona Composite High School, then came to university to take a year of chemistry and three years of psychology.

William J. will be an athletically-orientated editor. When he doesn't walk to class he comes in at a mad gallop—always late. This was perhaps the main reason he was The Gateway's sports editor two years ago.

Yet his experience hasn't been confined to The Gateway and galloping. Bill has been on a winning intramural basketball team; president of the Badminton Club; member of the Students' Union finance commission and SUB supervisory staff, and has placed 65th in the annual cross country race.

Six feet, four inches tall, Bill the friendly giant likes to refer to himself modestly as Sir William; other people have different names.

Bill the Procrastinator, as the retiring editor lovingly calls him, claims never to have gone to bed before midnight. He is actually more famous for staying up all night on press nights.

To this end, Bill is a charter member of the Hootowls—a clandestine group of insomniacs. Yet he has no trouble sleeping in class.

Bill has a girl friend named Gail (former Gateway staffer) who now resides in Hartford, Connecticut and attends college. On his lonelier nights, Winship plays with his pet rat Reginald—who lives in SUB. The fact that Miss Waxenberg is so far away makes him a most objective promoter of Gateway parties—especially on press nights.

To round out his personality, Bill likes racing, the Beatles, dry gin, Tchikovsky, ice cream, Studio Theatre and more racing. As regards the last, it's possible we'll see daily form charts in next year's Gateway.

Modest "Sir William" has modest ambitions—he has a plan to take over the publishing industry of the world on the example of one Thomson.

For the coming year, the new council may think it can relax by comparison with various incidents between this year's editor and council. But let the new council take note: Bill Winship has been well schooled and is already priming Gateway guns for the new council's ineptitudes and bunglings. And let the whole campus take note.

Saville Elected SU President

FRANCIS SAVILLE
... new prexy

U of A students have handed the gavel to Saville.

Francis Saville, 25, was elected Students' Union President last Friday. The retiring law rep defeated retiring Secretary-Treasurer Douglas McTavish by 2,606 votes to 1,572.

The other results were: Vice-President: Marilou Wells 2,774, Donna Fraser 1,364; Coordinator: Kirk Miller 2,471, Dave McConnell 1,851; CUS Chairman: David Estrin 2,631, Ed Monsma 1,404; Men's Athletics: Dave Cragg 2,613, Bob Gillespie 1,465; Women's Athletics: Marna Moen 1,983, Diane Niewchias 1,944.

The Wauneita results were: President: Loraine Jeandron 860, Elana Scraba 742; Secretary-Treasurer: Barbara Krause 844, Maureen Stuart 728.

The results have been generally considered to constitute a rejection of the so-called "Establishment." Defeated vice-presidential candidate Donna Fraser termed the results a "student revolt."

The election of Dave Cragg was the only break in the student choice of candidates with conservative views on SUB Expansion.

One of the greatest surprises of the election was the choice of non-fraternity freshette Barbara Krause as Secretary-Treasurer of Wauneita.

The newly elected executive, and the yet-to-be elected faculty reps will meet with the out-going Council on March 23.

According to president-elect Saville, one of the first projects confronting the new council will be the establishment of the board of inquiry into SUB Expansion, as promised during the Saville campaign.

Dude Time Again

Yaahoo! Aggies Promenade Tomorrow

What is generally acclaimed as the best campus shindig of the year—the Agriculture Club's Bar None dance—will be held 9 p.m. tomorrow night in the university arena.

About 2,700 persons attended the informal dance last year. The fact that shoes are allowed, together with the dance's informality, make it by far the best of the year, social authorities say.

In addition, the Agriculture Club has been publicizing the event with a great deal of activity during the week. Square dancers have been touring the campus yesterday and today, and will continue tomorrow to stimulate students to attend.

FREE FLAPJACKS

The aggies will also distribute free flapjacks around campus tomorrow morning, helping to satisfy the hunger of the breakfastless masses. Watch for the chuckwagon.

Bar None has been known as the most spirited event of the year, and this is largely due to the enthusiasm of its organizers—the aggies.

There will be all sorts of dances—modern and old. Dress for the occasion is optional, but in past years prizes have been given for best western costumes. It also appears that most attenders wear western dress.

In an effort to improve acoustics, as well as to decorate the arena, the aggies are hanging great quantities of polyethylene strips around the dance area.

ALL WELCOME

Bar None started out as a barn dance in 1947. In 1948 the event got its name from the fact that everyone—bar none—was welcome to attend. Then as now, the aggies did the advertising from Thursday to Saturday wearing western clothes.

Western murals will decorate the arena to brighten the atmosphere. Last year a mural 1,500 square feet in size transformed the western horizon and another improved the easterly view.

Admission for the dance will be a dollar for stags, 75c for stagettes and $1.50 for couples.

Ag Club officials expect a record turnout tomorrow night.
