

If statistics were needed to verify experience, these figures should be ample enough. As, however, the rise in prices is one of the most interesting phenomena of our times, additional light may be thrown on the whole question and the accuracy of the results of the Department of Labour's enquiry verified, by quoting the results of other inquiries.

Bradstreet's inquiry (arrived at in a different way)

Mr. Blue's inquiry (p. 15, brief)

Take in quotation from Transcript article.

other U.S. inquiries.

Are there any English inquiries?

(Would show that where free trade not the same rise; that protection makes enhancement by restriction of competition more possible)

See re Teachers' Association. brief.

" " Synod "

" " other pages "

Senator Crawford, U.S.

U.S. Labour Department Report.